Gromyko charges U.S. action threat to peace in middle east

Assails Eisenhower in UN assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko answered President Eisenhower's middle east peace bid today with a charge that the United States is the main threat to peace in that area.

The Soviet leader addressed the emergency middle east meeting of the 81-nation general assembly shortly after Eisenhower had outlined a broad program for UN action, including creation of a standby police force and a regional agency to finance better living.

The assembly session was adjourned until Thursday after Gromyko's speech.

Gromyko charged that policies of the United States and Britain "threaten to hurl mankind into the abyss of a new war with all its consequences."

He accused the United States of trampling the UN charter by sending military forces into Lebanon. He also charged that indirect aggression was a firm part of U.S. foreign policy.

"OIL, OIL, OIL"

"Oil, oil and oil again," Gromyko said. "That is what is tempting the monopolists of the United States and United Kingdom in the middle east and that is what prompts them to take military intervention in the Arab states."

President Eisenhower, appearing here for the first time in nearly five years, told the assembly the United States is ready to support both a middle east peace force and a bold new agency to help finance economic projects.

In a dramatic personal appearance before a tense extraordinary meeting of the United Nations general assembly, the president at the same time accused Russia without naming the Soviet Union of stirring up war hysteria with tactics of "ballistic blackmail."

He said his program would promote "a true Arab renaissance." The alternative, he asserted, is:

"The danger that nations under aggressive leadership will seek to exploit man's horror of war by confronting the nations, particularly small nations, with an apparent choice between supine surrender, or war."

The president proposed six points:

1. A standby United Nations peace force.

2. An Arab-run mid-east economic development loan fund and a technical assistance program, financed jointly by the Arab states, the United States and other countries, presumably including Russia.

3. A constant UN check to curb inflammatory propaganda broadcasts to and from the middle east nations.

4. A UN study of possible controls on arms shipments to mid-east countries, including Israel, to avert an east-west munitions race in the area.

5. Unspecified new UN moves to guarantee Lebanon's security and independence after American troops are withdrawn.

6. An expression of UN determination to assure Jordan's survival as a nation, presumably by replacing British troops now there with UN personnel.

Calling world attention to the tense situation in that tiny kingdom, Eisenhower warned that "indirect aggression discernible in Jordan may lead to conflicts endangering the peace."

Eisenhower proposed fast general assembly action on the parts of his program dealing with the peace force, Lebanon, Jordan and the curbing of subversise propaganda. The regional economic development plan and arms control he left for handling through other UN machinery.

July unemployment payments drop sharply in Pacific area

Special to The Daily News

A total of $3,502,989.65 was paid out in unemployment insurance benefits in the Pacific region during the month of July, according to Horace Keetch, regional director, Unemployment Insurance Commission, Vancouver.

This compares with a total of $4,278,037.17 paid out in the Pacific region during the previous month.

One of the reasons for the decrease is the decline in the number of persons registered for employment, Mr. Keetch said. At the end of July there was approximately 20 per cent less persons looking for work than there was at the beginning of the month.

As at June 21, the number of persons with jobs in the Pacific region was estimated at 483,000, an increase of approximately 12,000 over the month of May.

No figures have yet been released respecting the number of persons employed during the month of July.

Total amount of unemployment insurance benefit paid out in the Prince Rupert local office area was $51,700.00.

SECOND ATOMIC SUBMARINE CROSSES UNDER NORTH POLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States staked a new claim in underseas pioneering today after a second atomic submarine crossed under the north pole.

The submarine Skate reached the pole Monday morning—just six days after her older sister, the Nautilus, emerged from a 1,830-mile trip across the polar cap. The Nautilus arrived Tuesday in Portland, England.

The bare announcement Tuesday night said the Skate surfaced in an ice field some 40 miles from the north pole to radio word of the trip. The navy said the Skate, the third U.S. atomic sub built, is continuing under-ice explorations.
