A Friend in Need

"I saw a man in a smoker unfold his paper—put his feet up on the opposite seat, take out his glasses, clean them, dive into his pocket and bring out a broken cigar. He tore a piece off his newspaper and tried to wrap it around the cigar—but I could see that his soul was troubled. I took out my pocket pack of 'protected cigars' and gave him a foil-wrapped Marguerite as fresh, firm and fragrant as when it left the factory. Naturally we got to be good friends. I'm going fishing with him in the Spring."

New Syndicate at Stewart to Develop Tacoma Property; Blackhill Prepares For Winter Work; Independence Closes Down

A new syndicate has just been formed at Stewart to develop the Tacoma group of mineral claims on the Porter-Idaho hill. The property consists of six crown-granted claims lying northeast of the Prosperity and Porter-Idaho and adjoining both. The Melvin Mining Co.'s property lies due south and the ore zone on this continues into Tacoma ground. Engineers who examined the Tacoma this fall are reported to have spoken very highly of the future prospects for the property. The property lies in a strategic position and it is not likely there will be difficulty in raising development funds.

The Porter-Idaho tram at Stewart is temporarily out of commission, the telephone line over the long span across the glacier, a distance of 4800 feet, having been entangled in one of the ore buckets. The delay in ore delivery is expected to be only temporary.

In preparation for winter work the contract has been let for the construction of winter camps on the Blackhill property at Stewart. There will be two large cabins on a site considerably south of the summer camp and at a lower elevation. Coincident with the camp construction, a crew is being employed extending No. 3 tunnel, drifting on the ore and leaving standing on the wall an average of a foot of ore which runs well over $100 to the ton. This will later be broken down, sacked and shipped.

Owing to lack of power, the Revenue Mining Co. has closed down work for the winter on the Independence property at Stewart, but will resume its development program next spring. S. P. Fitzgerald, president; L. H. Solly, vice-president; G. M. Kearns, Lieut.-Col. A. S. MacCulloch, Patrick Treanor and J. F. Langer have been re-elected directors of the Independence Gold Mining Co., while Stuart Yates, Victoria barrister, has been added to the directorate.

Of properties in close proximity to the famous Premier, the B. C. Silver and Sebakwe holdings stand in a class by themselves, for they have the extension of the Premier ore zone and have substantial tonnages of good ore blocked out, writes A. G. Langley, M.E., in the Stewart News. Of the others, the Northern Light and Bush-Cobalt properties might be considered favorably located and to be well worthy of exploration, but the existence of important ore bodies has yet to be proven. The Sebakwe has particularly good possibilities, Mr. Langley believes.

WHEAT SITUATION IS DAILY BECOMING MORE ACUTE AND SPECULATION IS RIFE AS TO WHICH SIDE WILL WIN THE STRUGGLE.

Corner Must Fail

and not one watershed alone, but the watersheds of all the earth are contributing to the ocean of wheat which will sweep away this man-made barrier. Let them keep that barrier intact a day too long, and Canada will be strewn with wreckage by the devastating torrent that the Wheat Pool is creating.

At this very moment wheat is germinating in the spring in other lands; it is approaching maturity in the summer suns of others; it is being harvested in still others where autumn is approaching. The stoppage of the flow from Canada has but stimulated the flow from elsewhere, and should that flow from other sources suffice, as conceivably it can be made to do, the Wheat Pool, preparing a feast, will be confronted by a tragedy.

This thing has been tried before. "Corners" in wheat have been effected, but Nature has always defeated them in the end. There is a storry, "The Pit," by Frank Norris, founded on actual happenings when speculators in the United States have done just what the Wheat Pool is doing—dammed one of Nature's great life-streams in order to force prices to a higher level. Listen to this about the leading character in Norris' story—a man who had effected a corner in wheat and set a price below which he would not sell—a man who had his actual counterpart in life:

"First in one place, and then in another the new harvest was coming on the market. It was not the brokers, traders and speculators who fought him now; it was the very Earth itself. Demand and supply, these were the two great laws the wheat obeyed. Almost blasphemous in his effrontery, he had tampered with these laws, and had roused a Titan. He had laid his puny grasp upon Creation, and the very earth herself, the great mother, feeling the touch of the cobweb that the human insect had spun, had stirred at last in her sleep and sent her omnipotence moving through the grooves of the world, to find and crush the disturber of her appointed courses. The new harvest was coming in; the new harvest of wheat, huge beyond possibility of control; so vast that no money could buy it, so swift that no strategy could turn it.

"The avalanche, the undiked Ocean of the Wheat, leaping to the lash of the hurricane, struck him fairly in the face. The wheat had broken from his control. For months he had, by the might of his single arm, held it back, but now it rose like the upbuilding of a colossal billow. It towered, towered, hung poised for an instant, and then, with a thunder as of the grind and crash of chaotic words, broke upon him, burst through the Wheat Pit and raced past him, on and on to the eastward and to the hungry nations."

Yes, it is a mighty, a murderous drama that is being played by the Wheat Pool in Canada. And even if, within the few short weeks in which it is possible, the spectre of famine overseas sends prices mounting to the Wheat Pool's mark, the momentary success will be dearly bought, for higher prices will precipitate a flood of planting in other lands, and competition on a mightier scale will face the Wheat Pool in the coming year.
