Where will New Ministers Find Seats?

HOW PROVINCIAL PUBLIC WORKS ARE CARRIED OUT IN NORTH

Speculation Ottawa Re By-Elections To Seat new Cabinet

OTTAWA, Dec. 30.—Premier Mackenzie King in selecting his cabinet has by no means confined his selections to the already elected members and in some cases he has gone rather far afield in his quest for executive ability to fill the various portfolios. As a consequence there will have to be seats found for some of the appointees and readjustment will be necessary in these cases.

The biggest speculation is regard to the by-elections which will have to be held to ratify the cabinet appointments of the Premier is the question as to where James Murdock, the Minister of Labor, will run. He expresses a preference for an Ontario seat, but he was defeated in South Toronto in the last election.

It is understood that Hon. Charles Stewart, the newly appointed Minister of the Interior, will not find a seat in Alberta but may run in Quebec.

RESISTANCE IN INDIA FAILING

In Six Weeks Time 3500 Non-co-operators Have Been Arrested.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Six weeks' arrests in connection with the non-co-operationists' attempt at the boycott of the visit of the Prince of Wales in India totalled 3500.

The increasing enthusiasm in favor of the Prince indicates the failure of the opposition led by Ghandi, who himself is in prison.

MINISTER IS COMING NORTH

Hon. T. D. Pattullo Leaves for Prince Rupert on Venture This Evening.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 30.—Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands and member of the legislature for Prince Rupert, leaves on the Union steamer Venture to visit Prince Rupert and the northern part of the province. He will look after the needs of his constituents and will enquire into political conditions. He is likely to go as far as Prince George. This will be his first trip North since he passed through a few months ago on his return from Europe.

ELECTION VERY SOON

So Declares Senator R. F. Green in Speaking of Provincial Affairs.

VICTORIA, Dec. 30.—Senator R. F. Green, speaking here last night, predicted that Premier Oliver would make an announcement calling a general election within three months rather than wait for elections at Nelson, Vancouver and Cranbrook. Senator Green said that the Liberals planned reorganization meetings in January. The resignation of Hon. J. W. deB. Farris he took as an indication that an election was close at hand.

STRIKE THREATENED AFRICAN COAL FIELDS

PRETORIA, Dec. 30.—A strike in the Transvaal coal fields is threatened as a result of the proposal to lower miners' wages. Premier Smuts has issued a manifesto asking the men to accept the new scale.

BRITAIN TO PAY BIG GUARANTEES TO HER FARMERS

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Under the Corn Production Repeal Act, the government will pay out £10,000,000 to farmers next Monday resulting from the claims of over one hundred thousand farmers for compensation. The Act abolished a number of wartime measures and guaranteed the farmers £4 and £3 respectively per acre for land in oats and wheat in 1921.

BORDEN SPEAKS AT WASHINGTON

Condemns Submarines and Supports Root Resolution Prohibiting Attack Unarmed Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Sir Robert Borden yesterday made an important speech before the naval committee of the disarmament conference. He condemned the use of submarines against merchant shipping and supported Elihu Root's resolution before the conference for the prohibition of attack on unarmed vessels during war. The debate on this resolution is unfinished.

Sir Robert stated that he was confident the naval committee of the conference would make a declaration on the submarine question that would be satisfactory to the civilized world.

French Scared.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The efforts of the Washington conference to curb the use of the submarine as a weapon and France's claim for a large undersea fleet still continue to be the absorbing topics for discussion in England. Editorial writers score the French attitude. The Telegraph says that it confronts the world with the possibility of a world wide diversion of naval policy away from the capital ship to the submarine.

Objects to Suspicion.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Albert Sarraut, the head of the French delegation to the Arms Conference, at the meeting today of the naval committee declared in substance that France was beginning to be regarded with suspicion by the other powers represented in the meeting. This could not continue, he declared.

EX-KAISER PLANNING TO MARRY AGAIN

That Is What Exchange Telegraph in London States—Not Royal Person.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—An Exchange telegram from Paris says that the Berliner Zeitung learns from several well informed persons that the ex-Kaiser Wilhelm intends to marry again, the lady being the widow of a superior officer from Danzig, who was killed in the war.

The paper adds that this marriage would have a political importance, as such a morganatic union would indicate the renunciation of all pretension to the throne of Germany.

The ex-Kaiser is 62 years of age. He married in 1881 Princess Augusta Victoria of Slesvig-Holstein, who died at Doorn in Holland, in April.

District Engineer Gives Interesting Address On Work of His Department

"We need more settlers in this district and must get them to put some traffic on the roads already made," declared A. L. Carruthers, Provincial Government public works engineer, in an instructive and interesting address before the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon on "Public Works in Northern and Central B. C." "The public works department is well up with development, but we need a lot more development of the land and a lot more settlers. We need mining companies, pulp and paper mills and other industries, and we also need a lot of hard work not only on the part of the laborer but also on the part of everyone in the public service and out of it. Reconstruction can only be brought about by good, honest, persistent hard work."

Mr. Carruthers' address on the organization of his department, the work carried out and the many phases of the duties connected with it was one of the most enlightening delivered in the city for some time. In opening the speaker explained the details of organization and duties of the department and its officials. For the purposes of administration the province was divided into nine districts each district containing several electoral districts. District No. 7 had its headquarters at Prince Rupert and included Atlin, Prince Rupert and Omineca electoral districts. This district was 7,000 square miles larger than the whole of Great Britain and Ireland put together.

Organization Details.

The Minister of Public Works was at the head of the entire work of the department and the deputy minister came next. Each district was presided over by a public works engineer under whom came a general foreman, foremen, strawbosses, sub-foremen, mechanics and laborers. The responsibility went down the line, each worker being in turn responsible to the one next above him. It was often difficult to carry out fixed rules in a district like this.

"It is sometimes said that the engineers have eliminated the practical man in government work, but this is far from the truth, nothing of the kind has been done," went on Mr. Carruthers. "The practical man is indispensable and what we have done is to put the practical man in the position he should occupy and the engineer likewise in his place. The general foreman is responsible for actual execution of the work, and the engineer is responsible for the design, specifications and to seeing that the work is properly carried out, a wide range of resources and industry.

"The variety of climate and materials present difficulties. You must remember we operate under very varying climatic conditions, from the coast's warm humid climate to the interior climate of 50 below zero, and with materials varying from muskeg to solid rock. With these conditions we have to adopt different methods at different places, and various works have to be carried out at different times of the year. In the Portland Canal district the best time of the year to do work is

SHIPBUILDING IS IN BAD WAY

Competition of Foreign Yards and Lines Said to Be Too Much for British.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—James Lithgow, president of the Shipbuilders Employers' Association, states that British shipbuilding is declining rapidly and the number of men employed is now the lowest on record. There are no new contracts in sight and the competition of foreign yards and lines is proving too much for the British.

BAD EVIDENCE AGAINST BAKER

Former Chief Game Inspector Makes Serious Allegations in Giving Evidence.

VICTORIA, Dec. 30.—J. A. Bird who served under Dr. A. R. Baker as chief game inspector, occupied the witness stand in yesterday morning's session of the inquiry being held regarding the charges made against Dr. Baker as head of the Game Conservation Board. Mr. Bird gave evidence to the effect that Dr. Baker had used departmental cars for hunting and fishing trips. He also said that Dr. Baker had taken birds from the government reserves and placed them on his own private reserve and on lands which though public he had guarded for his own and his friends' use. The witness also charged that money had been squandered in purchasing launches that were useless and that experienced men had been dismissed without justification so that appointments for political reasons could be made.

Liberal Regime Again in Canada.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King officially became the Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada, succeeding Hon. Arthur Meighen who, it is intended by the Conservatives, will be the next leader of the opposition. After ten years of Conservative or modified Conservative administration, the country is again in the hands of the Liberals and their political allies. Prince Rupert should soon begin to reap the benefits of a government which from the outset has been friendly to the port. To make things even more favorable, the district has as its representative a man who will be a member of this favorable administration. With Premier Mackenzie King, who is pledged to carry on the work of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier in making this a great port, guiding the ship of state, and Fred Stork as his lieutenant in this district, the people will expect and will be justified in expecting better things for Prince Rupert and Skeena constituency.

Selection of Brilliant Men

In the selection of his cabinet Premier Mackenzie King has gathered around him the cream of administrative ability in Canada. Several of the members, for example Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, Hon. Dr. Beland, Minister of Health and Soldiers' Re-establishment, and Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Militia, Defence and Naval Affairs, have already had long and successful experience in the guiding of federal affairs. Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice, and Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, have each attained to the highest executive positions in their respective provinces, Quebec and Alberta, and both are regarded as leading statesmen of the Dominion today. Others, such as Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways and Canals, have demonstrated great ability while in the opposition ranks and may be expected to give efficient service as executives. All in all, the cabinet appears to be a splendid empanelment of Canada's best legislative minds.

Ministers Concerned Sympathetic to Port.

Prince Rupert's main interest centres in the two portfolios, Railways and Fisheries, held respectively by Hon. W. C. Kennedy and Hon. Ernest Lapointe. Both Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Lapointe will commence their work familiar with the needs and conditions of this place, for they both visited here a little over a year ago. The whole local question at that time was gone fully into with them, although perhaps neither of them thought then that they would be in such a short time actually guiding the destinies of the port. With them was Premier Mackenzie King, and all three expressed great sympathy and made suggestions as to advancement. This is a further reason why Prince Rupert and district may from this time on expect to get fair treatment, and that is all it asks, at the hands of the new Dominion Government.

during May June, July and August, whereas in the interior the fall is the best time.

Duties of Department.

"Our work consists of the construction and re-construction and maintenance of public buildings, bridges, ferrys, wharves, roads, etc. The total spent last year on public works was $443,000, and even at that the finances are always too small for the work on hand. You must realize that this sum of money has to be spread over a very large and scattered district.

"The accounting has been organized in such a manner that every penny we spend must be accounted for and charged against the exact work to which it belongs. The comptroller general will not stand for anything being charged to contingencies, everything spent must be charged to the particular work.

"The District Engineer is not responsible for new buildings of any great dimensions, the new court house for instance coming under the direct supervision of the architect for the province. The repairs and erection of small buildings come under district officials.

"River protection work is something which few people realize is carried on. Farms along the Bella Coola river are in constant danger of damage by water. It seems unfortunate that farms and villages have been built on the river beds. Stewart and Alice Arm suffer not only from high river waters but from the effects of tidal waters at high tide, and on the prevention of such damage we have had to spend money. Something has to be done to try and save them.

Nine Miles Bridges.

"We have nearly nine miles of bridges to take care of in District No. 7, which if put end to end would reach from here to Port Edward. The mere maintenance of these structures is a big problem in itself. A great number of the bridges were built in 1910 and they have reached a point now where they are liable to break down all together. The cost will be very great to reconstruct them. There is a great demand for new bridges at all times, and what we are trying to do in future is to build better bridges. They will last longer and the cost of maintenance will be cut down.

"The ferrys are quite a problem also. The ferries on the Skeena require a lot of attention to keep them and the approaches in shape for traffic. As soon as the development of any part of the country warrants the expense we should put in bridges where there are ferries.

"There are five wharves in the district, two in the interior and three on the coast.

Roads and Trails.

"Perhaps the building and maintenance of roads and trails is the biggest problem of all. Next to education I think good roads are the most to be desired. Our small communities will remain in semi-isolation until we get good roads. The railways do not connect up communities in the same manner as good roads do, that is, not in the same intimate manner. We have to get more people into the country and more roads.

"There is no trunk road completed through the interior yet. There is still twenty-seven miles between Burns Lake and Endako to be built. A great portion of the land in the interior was purchased land lying adjacent to the railway, therefore new comers requiring land had to get back of the purchased land, and got as near a station as was possible. These people had to get an outlet and short roads were built to the nearest railway station. The result has been that it has necessitated a net work of roads of a gridiron pattern, either leading to a station or connecting with part of the main road. It was undoubtedly the best thing to do under the circumstances and gave the settler an outlet. It is going to take a lot of money to finish the trunk road. Our main roads breaking off the trunk road and leading into main parts of the country are not in such bad shape considering, and settlers' roads on the whole have been given quite a bit of attention as also have the mining roads. The trunk roads seem to me to be the most vital thing.

"The Dominion Government three years ago, passed legislation to assist the Provincial Governments all over the country to build good roads as far as funds would allow. What our friend Campbell, at Ottawa, had in mind was taking old roads and making good roads out of them. When I prepared a statement for a road through the interior, to be sent to Ottawa he nearly had a fit. The first project was 170 miles long and for 56 miles there was not road at all. I pointed out to the engineer from Ottawa that it was not good roads we wanted, but what we wanted was a road of any kind to open the country up. We had to get the country opened up and get a road through it. It would be better to get the whole thing opened up connecting the Nechako and Bulkley Valleys together and making it possible to go right through to Vancouver by road, than to spend a lot of money on bits of permanent road here and there. I have often been asked why we did not build a mile of permanent road and have done with it, but I do not know of a road that is permanent. The idea is that we ought to build a mile of good road in preference to two miles of indifferent road. What settlers need is good passable roads that can be used during any part of the year. We pointed out to Ottawa that we would build the trunk road, possibly a parallel road, and get it on the proper location so that there would be no change and that in future every dollar spent on it would be money well spent. The projects approved are from Hazelton to Endako, and from Burns Lake to Francois Lake. The Hazelton to Prince Rupert has not been approved as yet but I think there may be something doing on this next year, although I do not wish you to misconstrue my meaning or think that I am making any promises.

Methods Employed.

"A great deal of our bridge and road work is done by day labor. Personally I am strongly in favor of the contract system, but it has to be considered that from 1918 to 1920 very little grading work or bridge work was done by contract in B. C. I do not know of a single straight contract. There is some good reason for this, which of course most of the members well know.

"Conditions were such that no contractor could be certain of completing a contract at the price he would have to quote to get the contract. The cost of labor was going up all the time and you could not depend upon labor, materials could not be delivered and the whole state of industry was unstable. When conditions will allow, in my opinion it would be better to get back to the old contract system, where a contractor received a lump sum for a particular job. Conditions are slowly but gradually becoming stable, labor is becoming more reliable, materials are settling down in price, and when these conditions become favorable, I think that we should start in to contract as much of our work as is possible. However there is a certain amount of our work which we will never be able to let by contract, for instance, maintenance of bridges. It is very hard to get contractors to take on this class of work.

Splendid Equipment.

"We have a splendid and up-to-date plant, including work horses, wagons, etc. Our graders are the latest word in graders, in fact everything that is required for work of the nature we are responsible for."

At this point the speaker passed round several photographs to the members.

"You will notice a steam shovel on caterpillar treads. This class of machine has never been tried in B. C. before. We managed to get this steam shovel, and had a good deal of trouble in getting it going properly, however towards the end of the year this was accomplished, and the reports for the last few months have shown that we have been able to cut the costs in half on the heavy grading work. The machine weighs 26 tons, runs on its own treads, doing without track or mats to travel on. It will grade and leave a road crowned behind it as a grader would leave it, and we do not have to put plows in on either side to grade it up. It cost $15,000 delivered on the job and has done very excellent work. So you will see that our department is up to date.

A Word of Criticism.

"A public servant must expect criticism, he is going to get it anyway, and it is the privilege of the citizen to criticise, in fact it is his right, and where criticism is coming I think that the official should get it. However, I will tell you one thing, people criticise before they are well informed. The reputation of two or three men in my district has been damaged, which could have been prevented if people had obtained the facts first. Before criticising people should find out to see if there is not a good reason for doing certain things. By unfair criticism you drive out of the public service all men of any spirit at all. The good, honest worker is usually a sensitive man. If you are going to criticise, then in all fairness you must commend where commendation is due. If you wish to commend a man in the public service you should commend him to his superior officer, in criticism the same way, and he will attend to the matter. We have some first class men employed and get on the whole good average results."

SANTA CLAUS AT ESSINGTON

Rev. Geo. G. Hacker Tells of Splendid Concert Wednesday Night.

Rev. George G. Hacker returned last night from Port Essington where he was chairman of the annual Christmas concert given by the children of Day School and the Sunday School of the Methodist Church. The entertainment took place in the church and there were about 200 persons in attendance. All were impressed by the pride which the white people evidenced in the achievements of their native neighbors. Speaking of the trip, Mr. Hacker said that he enjoyed every hour of it with the exception of the one spent crossing the Skeena in Wednesday's storm. Neither the rocky road to Dublin or Jonah's trip to Ninevah had anything on this, and even old timers admitted that it was a rough storm. However, the entertainment was a revelation to a newcomer to the North. Port Essington was the second mission station opened by the Methodist Church in the North, Port Simpson a one having been established before it.

Concert Program.

The children's program of the Port Essington concert consisted of drills, songs, motion songs and recitations and the children showed remarkable ability in all lines, excelling in vocal music. Miss Fanny Noble, the teacher of the native school, deserves great credit for the fine training of the children. Mrs. Pierce is superintendent of the Sunday School. The native children were certainly a hearty, healthy, well dressed and happy lot and would have done credit to any place.

Another feature of special merit was the singing of Christmas anthems and carols by the choral choir under the leadership of Arthur Stewart with Ernest Roberts as organist. The musical interpretation and arrangements of singers in small groups were unique features originating with the leader and showing true native characteristics.

Santa Claus There.

Santa Claus arrived a little late on account of a miniature prairie blizzard which was raging. He had gifts for all, however, when he did come.

The decorations were in charge of Mark Bolton, chief of the Indian council. They were very artistic indeed.

Rev. Mr. Pierce drew attention to the need of a gasoline lighting system for the large church and a fund was started for the purpose by donating the collection of $21, towards it.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

December 30, 1911.

General Superintendent Mehan has returned from a visit of inspection up the line and leaves today on another trip over the steel. He reports excellent progress with construction. Steel will be through the Kitselas tunnel in a day or two now. Mr. Mehan had no notification at all regarding the Skeena Crossing strike, which affects only Foley, Welch & Stewart men.

AT ROTARY LUNCHEON

J. G. Sale Tells of Conditions in England—Stuart Langill Sings.

The guests at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon were J. G. Sale, of London, England, George Keith, of Terrace, Stuart Langill, Hon. A. M. Manson, and A. L. Carruthers, provincial government public works engineer.

Mr. Langill, accompanied by Charles Balagno, sang "Very Good Company," and responding to an encore rendered "Old Squire Rob."

Mr. Carruthers was the speaker of the day but Mr. Sale also addressed a few remarks to the members touching on conditions in the Old Country which he had left early in November. Conditions were not good and there was a great deal of unemployment. Some factories were closed down and some were operating at a loss. Conditions should improve before long, however. Three things were needed in England to revive trade—lower wages, lower prices and more work. Wholesale prices had dropped and retail prices would follow suit.

Coal Business.

When he left the Old Country the coal trade seemed to have gone to pot, but from recent observations he had made, it seemed that the output was again taking an upward stride. He had noticed that English coal had been shipped to Cuba, and also to America. He knew that the coal output in England was the same as a year ago although there were still some 3,000 unemployed miners, which went to show that the daily output per man was greater. The freight rates on coal in the Old Country were coming down, and with a drop in the price of coal to the manufacturer the whole cycle of prices would reach a pre-war level. The speaker said he did not expect to see any great boom for the returning to pre-war prices was going to be a hard and tedious job. In looking back, Mr. Sale blamed the politicians for not telling the people the truth about things after the Armistice. For five years they had not been producing and had been setting a bad example to the people at large by squandering money in various ways. He said that it was only by facing the truth and by hard work that any country can pull itself out of its difficulties.

ENRICHING HUMANITY BY PLEASING CHILDREN

Dunlop, the inventor of the pneumatic tire, got his idea while making a bicycle for his son.

Many other useful ideas have been evolved by parents while engaged in trying to entertain their children. Some of the world's greatest writers have won lasting fame by publishing stories originally written for the amusement of the nursery. Celebrated artists have discovered their talent in much the same manner.

Punishing children is a barren occupation but giving them pleasure has often enriched humanity.

IRELAND AND HER TROUBLES

Historical Retrospect of Relations Between England and Emerald Isle.

DUBLIN, Dec. 30.—(By Canadian Press).—The eyes of the world are on Ireland and the disposition that is made of the peace treaty that has been offered by the British government. At such a time the following brief historical retrospect of the relations between Ireland and England is of particular interest.

In 1155 Ireland, the historians say, was presented by Pope Hadrian to Henry II of England, the consideration being the payment of certain revenues to the Holy See. To implement the Papal mandate Henry had to engage in a series of little wars, but as Ireland had for centuries been divided by petty Kings and clans quarreling among themselves, its conquest presented no serious difficulties. Henry deposed the kings and chiefs who refused to acknowledge his mandate and bestowed their lands upon his friends, Norman, English and Scots.

Early Disorders.

In 1641 the Irish revolted and many Protestants were killed. Disorders continued for some years, England being occupied with the struggle between the old Feudal order and the rising business classes. Then when Cromwell was master of England he invaded Ireland, and re-established British Sovereignty, punishing the natives with considerable severity. In Ulster most of the land was confiscated and Protestants were established there. During the second English Revolution the Catholics and Protestants of Ireland again took sides and the triumph of the Oranze party in 1692 was accompanied by heavy punishment of the Catholics. Thereafter for over a century there was much organization of secret societies and abortive plotting against English rule, culminating in 1798 in a rather serious revolt. This was put down without much trouble, punishment mostly taking the form of deportation to British Colonies.

In 1800-1 the Act of Union was adopted, and the Irish Parliament, which had had an intermittent existence for centuries, was abolished, the Irish people being granted the right to send representatives to the British Parliament. This Act made no recognition of Irish nationality, and it was claimed by many Irishmen that the Irish Parliament was bribed or cajoled to consent to its own demise. An agitation to have the Act of Union repealed was immediately begun, and in 1803 the Emmet insurrection broke out, and came to naught. Agitation, however, continued.

The "Tithe War.

In 1829 the British Government, in deference to Irish sentiment, granted the emancipation of the Roman Catholic Church, and nine years later compromised the "tithe war."

In 1834 O'Connell became a leading figure in the agitation for the repeal of Union, and his movement ended in the disastrous revolution of 1848. After this famine diverted Irish attention from politidal matters, and for some years the agitations were of a desultory and spasmodic character. This was the period of the great emigration and in the later fifties and early sixties the Fenian organizations in Ireland, the United States and other countries brought the Irish question prominently before the world again.

Gladstone's Reforms.

British statesmen began to show a new interest in Irish affairs, and in 1869 Gladstone put through the British Parliament the Church Disestablishment Act in Ireland, and held out hopes of land reforms. Next year Irishmen of various religious and political beliefs united to form the Home Government Association, the object of which was declared to be "the obtaining of a distinct Parliament for Ireland to regulate her internal affairs, while leaving to the Imperial Parliament all questions affecting the colonies, foreign relations and the stability of the Empire." Its first leader was Isaac Butts, and it shortly won a number of by-elections. In 1873 its name was changed to the Irish Home Rule League and in the general election of 1874 it secured the return of 60 Home Rulers, who formed a new party in the House of Commons. Next year Parnell began his obstructionist tactics in Parliament, forcing public attention on Irish questions. A few years later, being elected president of the Irish Land League, Parnell raised the land question to the dignity of the main issue.

In 1880 Ireland elected 68 Home Rulers, but William Shaw who had succeeded Butts as president of the Home Rule League, left the Home Rule party because he thought Parnell was too radical. Thereupon Parnell and his friends formed the Irish National League, combining the aims of the Home Rulers and Land Leaguers. The new organization extended its influence, and in 1885 the Nationalists won 85 out of 103 Irish seats. Parnell found himself at the head of a party holding the balance of power in the British parliament.

In this situation Gladstone introduced the Home Rule bill of 1886, and caused a re-alignment of parties in Britain. The Irish party accepted the bill, but 93 Liberals took the name of Liberal Unionists and formed an alliance with the Conervatives to defeat it. When the ballot was taken the bill was killed by 343 to 313.

The "Uncrowned King."

In the elections following the Conservatives and Unionists were elected to office by a majority of 113 seats; but the Nationalists captured 84 of the 103 Irish seats, and the Irish question still held the stage. In the next few years Parnell's power grew in Ireland and in Britain, but in 1890 he was named as co-respondent in a divorce case, and this alienated a large number of his followers. Gladstone threw him over on the moral ground and brought pressure to bear on the Nationalist party to reject his leadership. Stricken by grief the following year the great "Uncrowned King" of Ireland went to his grave. The Irish party split on this issue, a moiety remaining loyal to Parnell, and it was some years before the Nationalists were again united as a political force. Meantime, however, the British Parliament had carried out a number of important land reforms in Ireland.

In 1892 the Liberals were back in power at Westminster with a majority of 40, and next year Gladstone carried another Home Rule bill through the House of Commons by 300 to 267, but it was thrown out by the House of Lords.

Gladstone resigned and Lord Roseberry formed a government, supporting Home Rule in principle. But with dissension among the Irish and the Liberals now lukewarm, Roseberry contented himself with extending the scope of the Irish land purchase acts and also of the local governments acts applying to Ireland.

In 1895 a Conservative government came back to office, and the Home Rule movement languished until 1900, when under the impulse of the situation created by the Boer War, the quarrelling factions united, and, with John Redmond as their leader, elected 81 Nationalists pledged to a program of obstruction until Home Rule was achieved.

Progress Under Redmond.

Under Redmond the Irish movement made considerable gains. The British government voted large sums to enable the Irish farmer to acquire freehold land, and in general Irish land legislation gave the farmer opportunities that are not available to the British farmer. Asquith finally overcame the opposition of the House fo Lords, and placed on the statute books a Home Rule Act, fairly acceptable to the Nationalists and the British Unionists. But meanwhile new difficulties had arisen—Ulster repudiated the Home Rule Act, and the Sinn Fein movement developed in Southern Ireland, undermining the Nationalists Party. Presently Ulster was raising volunteers to resist the application of the Home Rule Act.

Then the great war broke out, and the opportunity was lost to satisfy Irish National aspirations of that time by the measure of home rule ensured by the bill actually on the statute book. On the one hand were the Ulster "die hards" led by Sir Edward Carson, who went so far as to threaten armed rebellion. On the other were the Sinn Fein irreconcilables committed to a republic, whose power gained as the war progressed until every vestige of the Nationalist or Home Rule party was swept out of existence. The worst blow of all for Ireland and Britain at this time was the death of the patriot statesman, John Redmond, who had formally pledged the support of Nationalist Ireland to the cause of the Allies. Recent developments are so fresh in the public mind as to make recapitulation unnecessary.

Appetite Good, Gained 20 lbs.

Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts, Loverna, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, failed 25 pounds in weight, become very nervous and shaky and in fact given up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until I was fast becoming a total wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39.

"Then I read about people being restored by Dr. Chase's Medicines and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement each day and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and could not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."

Sport Chat

Waite Hoyt, "kid" pitcher of the New York Yankees, and one of the heroes of the recent world series, is to marry in February. Miss Dorothy Pyle, Brooklyn, N. Y., girl, is to be the bride. Hoyt, who is known all over the country as the "Brooklyn school boy," met his bride-to-be six years ago, while a student at Trasmus High School.

One of the new members of parliament is direct from the field of sport. Eddie St. Pere, who for a number of years has been sports editor of Le Canada, running in the Liberal colors, was elected in Horbelaga district, Montreal, by a majority of nearly 7,000. Eddie jumped off in the lead and made every post a winning one. Eddie St. Pere is well and favorably known in sporting circles. He was for years connected with the National Lacrosse Club, of Montreal, and also president of the National Lacrosse Union of Canada. He was a referee always noted for fairness both in and out of Montreal. Of late years, Eddie has been an official on the "Independent" race tracks around Montreal, and while his knowledge of the racing game may be limited, he has made many friends among patrons of half-mile track racing.

FIRE INSURANCE is a hobby of ours. We take keen pleasure in making sure that all policies are so written that they cover your property exactly as you intend. If you entrust your fire insurance to careless, inexperienced or ignorant agents you may find, when you come to collect your fire loss, that your policies are so worded that the insurance company is not liable and so will not pay the loss. Why take chances?

CELTIC ROMANCE AT WESTHOLME TONIGHT

"The Woman God Changed," by Donn Byrne, Excellent Subject for Screen.

The Celtic romance of Donn Byrne's literary temperament finds abundant room for gratification in his story, "The Woman God Changed" published in Hearst's Magazine, and picturized for Paramount by Cosmopolitan productions. It will be shown at the Westholme theatre tonight and tomorrow.

Byrne's genius for creating this type of story makes him peculiarly adapted to the screen. Born in New York he early found his way to Ireland the land of his fathers. He lived in its fairy stories, read its folklore, attended its schools, until at last he emerged a B.A. from University College, Dublin. Mr. Byrne is an athlete and lover of golf and yachting. He is a member of the International Sporting Club, New York; Woodway (Conn.) Golf Club; Riverside (Conn.) Yacht Club; is a contributor to sports magazines, and is considered an authority on boxing and wrestling.

ASIA TRADING CO.'S STOCKTAKING SALE

It is six months since our last sale. We do not hold sales often, but when we do, they are real sales. Our object is to clear out what we have left of our Christmas and New Year stock. It is therefore a good opportunity for our customers to take advantage of our necessity. We have to clear this stock. We intend to do so. We han assure you that it is not old stock. It is just as fresh, clean and select as our trade demands. We do not believe in allowing stock to get old on our shelves.

We suggest that you drop in to our store and look around.

ANGLICAN CHILDREN XMAS LAST NIGHT

Festive Season Celebrated With Supper, Tree and Concert.

The annual Christmas supper, tree and concert by and for the Sunday School children of St. Andrew's Anglican Church took place last evening and was attended by great fun and merriment. About 135 children were on hand, as well as several parents and grownup friends. A. W. Healey, superintendent of the Sunday School, was in charge.

The evening's fun started off with the supper at 5 o'clock. This was presided over by the lady teachers and the repast was thoroughly enjoyed by the youngsters.

The program following consisted of recitations, songs and choruses. A feature number was the splendid chorus "Jingle Bells" by Miss Annie Dalby's class. The children of the Japanese Anglican Mission provided some excellent numbers.

After the concert Santa Claus arrived, much to the delight of the young people, and gifts, candy and fruit were distributed in plenty from the beautifully decorated tree.

SUSPECTED BOMB WAS THROWN AT TENEMENT HOUSE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The lives of twenty-one persons were endangered today in a tenement house fire which followed a mysterious explosion believed by the police to have been caused by a bomb. One suspect has been arrested.

THE CUB REPORTER

The cub reporter had turned in his story covering a political meeting, and the city editor was glancing through it. Suddenly unleashing a terrifying roar, he summoned the cub. "What do you mean," he shouted, "by this nonsense: 'Nine hundred and ninety-nine eyes were turned upon the speaker.'"

Pointing to one of the signs that hung over each reporter's desk the cub murmured: "There were five hundred people at the meeting, and one of them had only one eye." The sign read:

"Accuracy,
"Accuracy,
"Accuracy."
