Port Edward family head for farming life

Port Edward couple, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dollemore with their three children, Daniel 10, Nancy 7 and Cathy 5, are moving to Terrace on the Easter weekend to take up farming.

Mr. Dollemore came here with his wife and family from Haney, B.C., three years ago and has since been employed as assistant boat shop foreman at Nelson Brothers' plant. He took an active interest in the First Port Edward Cub Pack and served as one of its leaders.

Mrs. Dollemore was active in the Port Edward Parent-Teacher Association, serving on various committees. She was a delegate on their behalf at a regional conference in Kitimat two years ago. She has also assisted and taught the Port Edward kindergarten class when needed.

Grade four and two students at the Port Edward school, Daniel and Nancy, with their younger sister Cathy, are looking forward with anticipation to their new life on the farm.

PRGH parking poses problem

The problem of parking during visiting hours at the Prince Rupert General Hospital was brought to city council's attention Monday night by Hospital Board representative Alderman Gordon Carlson.

He told the council that police are ticketting cars which park on the opposite side of the street to the hospital entrance. Fourth Avenue is a one - way street. Alderman Carlson suggested that the street should be widened to its full capacity which would allow full parking facilities in the vicinity of the hospital.

The hospital, it was pointed out, owns a vacant lot opposite the present entrance. Mayor P. J. Lester asked whether or not it was the city's responsibility or that of the hospital.

Alderman Donald Ritchie proposed that the hospital should be contacted with regard to their share of the cost of the work and then council should give the matter consideration.

Contempt charged

NEW YORK (AP) — Folk-singer Pete Seegar, who refused to answer questions put to him by the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities, went on trial Monday on charges of contempt of Congress.

Seegar, 42, known for his treatment of ballads on man's quest for freedom, told the committee in 1955 that his political and religious beliefs and associations were nobody's business but his own.

Violence films "undignified"

GENEVA (Reuters)—Although television and radio may influence the type of offences committed by juvenile delinquents, there seems to be no reason to think that they provide the motive for such offences, says a prominent British psychiatrist.

Prof. T. C. N. Gibbens of the London Institute of Psychiatry expresses his views in a paper entitled Trends in Juvenile Delinquency, published by the World Health Organization.

"Television, radio, press and cinema have often been held responsible for the increase in crime and violence," Prof. Gibbens says. "They are easy to accuse because any member of the public can form an opinion by merely turning a knob, while it will take some time to experience the effect of any particular club or cafe."

Although no expert opinion can yet be reached on this question, the professor continues, there is still no evidence to support the idea that scenes of crime and violence on television make viewers any more aggressive than non-viewers.

Missionaries quit Cuba

Miss Delma Jackson, who spent 16 years as a missionary in Cuba, was special speaker at the Port Edward Gospel Chapel Sunday evening.

She showed color slides depicting 32 years of mission work done by the West Indies mission, as well as scenes of the island's terrain, its dwellings, landmarks and various activities of the people.

Miss Jackson, sister of Rev. Lloyd Jackson of the Reguar Baptist Church in Prince Rupert, explained that the Bible school in Cuba was entirely self-supporting and had sent workers into all parts of the world.

Under present political circumstances foreign missionaries had left, she said, as it was felt it would be more expedient for the mission work to be left in the hands of national Christians.

"We need intercessory prayer for the Cuban Christians as they assume full responsibility of the work in their land," she emphasized.

During the morning Sunday school period the missionary theme was introduced by the pastor, John Goertz, when he outlined missionary work in Borneo under former workers of the Port Edward Gospel Chapel, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thiessen.

Mrs. John Goertz, speaking to the junior church, explained that every Christian is a missionary.

Victor Janzen, addressing the primary group, assured the children their collection money was used to promote missionary work as well as to assist in the work of the chapel, which in itself is a mision.

Miss Jackson also spoke Wednesday evening to the Mother's Club which met in the home of Mrs. John Goertz.

Taylor lands

NEW YORK (AP) — Screen actress Elizabeth Taylor came home Monday from London, where she suffered a critical bout with double pneumonia.

Still convalescing, she was carried down the ramp of a plane in a wheelchair after arriving at Idlewild Airport. She appeared tense, but smiled faintly and waved to a crowd of more than 100 onlookers.

She will fly on to Los Angeles today.

City rainfall shows increase in February

More rain, less snow and much less sunshine were recorded in Prince Rupert during February this year than were during the same period in 1960, according to the February weather report from Digby Island radio station.

The City's own precipitation gauges showed that rainfall during February 1961 almost doubled the fall recorded for the same period last year while snowfall stayed much the same.

Digby's figures show that 10.70 inches of rain and .80 inches of snow for a total of 10.78 inches of precipitation fell on Prince Rupert during February. For the same period last year, 6.14 inches of rain and 9.3 inches of snow for a total of 8.17 inches of precipitation poured over the area. This year, January and February precipitation figures were much the same.

The radio station recorded 49 hours of bright sunshine during February this year while 70.5 hours were recorded last year.

Precipitation was recorded on 22 days during February this year and only 16 days during February last year.

Last month, the monthly minimum was 35.6 while the monthly maximum was 43.8 and the monthly mean was 39.

Highest temperature last month was 51 degrees recorded on February 4 and 5. Lowest temperature of the month was February 26 when the thermometer fell to 26 degrees. During February 1960, the highest temperature was 49 degrees registered February 7 while the lowest was 20 degrees, recorded on February 10 and 11.

An average reading from the City's own precipitation gauges shows a total precipitation of 12.763 inches during last month and 6.9463 inches during February 1960.

This year the Montreal Circle gauge recorded 13.09 inches of rain and 1.8 inches of snow for a total of 13.27 inches of precipitation. Fern Passage's gauge registered 12 inches of rain and 1.7 inches of snow for a total of 12.17 inches of precipitation. The gauge at Roosevelt Park showed 12.75 inches of rain and 1.1 inches of snow for a total of 12.85 inches of precipitation.

During the same period last year, Montreal Circle obtained a reading of 7.08 inches of rain and 1.3 inches of snow for a total of 7.21 inches of precipitation. Fern Passage had 6.30 inches of rain and 2.0 inches of snow for a total of 6.50 inches of precipitation. The Roosevelt Park gauge obtained readings of 7.01 inches of rain and 1.2 inches of snow for a total of 7.13 inches of precipitation.

Oil stands provoke alderman in criticism of fire dept.

The fire department was criticised Monday night in city council by Alderman T. Norton Youngs with reference to an order issued by them through an advertisement in The Daily News regarding the construction of stands for oil tanks.

He said: "It is a great expense and an arbitrary action on the part of the department who have done this without consulting council." City administrator, R. W. Long told Alderman Youngs that he had given the assistant fire chief Jack Furness permission to insert the advertisement. Alderman Youngs then said that the advertisements were too big, anyway.

The standards laid down for the household oil supply tank stands are laid down by both city bylaws and also the Fire Marshalls Act, Mr. Long told the meeting that a request about one year ago for voluntary change of tank stand material met with little success and that the advertisements had already brought several enquiries.

Mr. Youngs asked for a detailed report from the department. The motion failed.

Council awards supply contract for quantity of small tools

A supply contract for small tools to the City Council was approved Monday night to Flock Gros, Ltd. of Vancouver.

The amount bid was $636.05 and was the lowest of four bids submitted.

Other firms entering bids were: James Equipment (B.C.) Ltd., $695.77; Mc & Mc Prior Ltd., $713.10; and Marshall Wells of Canada Ltd., $713.48.

Queried by Alderman Gordon Carlson regarding the reliability of the firm, works Superintendent Carl Gustafson said the department had dealt with this firm before and had found their gear up to the standard required.
