"Adventures of Tom Sawyer" at Last Comes to Screen of Capitol Theatre Here

Mark Twain's famous story "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," filmed in technicolor, comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here for a three day showing commencing tonight. It is one of those pictures which has been awaited with keen anticipation and the expectation is that large audiences will be desirous of seeing it. Arrangements are being made with that end in view.

The subject is one that lends itself to color and some of the outstanding shots include that where Tom and Becky are lost in the cave, the quaint settings of the small town and the background of the Mississippi River.

The title role is played by 12-year-old Tommy Kelly from the Bronx who was chosen from among 25,000 boys. Other important parts in the drama are played out by Jackie Moran as Huckleberry Finn, May Robson as Aunt Polly, Walter Brennan as Muff Potter, Ann Gillis as Becky Thatcher, Victor Jory as Injun Joe, Micky Rentschler as Joe Harper and David Holt as Sid Sawyer.

MOOSE HAD FINE NIGHT

Large Attendance At Interesting Gathering Following Initiation Of Candidates

Following the regular weekly meeting last night of the Moose Lodge at which nine canndidates were initiated by the degree team with B. J. Bacon, the dictator, in charge, the doors were thrown open to a large number of ladies and an acceptable program presented including piano accordian selections by Russell Cameron, violin solos by Bert Cameron, tap dancing by Pat Ratchford, cowboy songs with guitar accompaniment by Catherine Pierce and tap dancing by the Misses Margaret and Engina Christiansen, accompanied by Mrs. J. S. Black.

After the serving of a splendid supper to the gathering which numbered about 135, there was an inspiring talk by Mrs. E. Dean of Vancouver, first dean of the Academy of Friendship, Women of the Moose, on the subject of Mooseheart Day. Mrs. Dean paid a splendid tribute to James J. Davis founder of Mooseheart, B. J. Bacon responded.

The evening's proceedings concluded with an enjoyable dance with Russell and Bert Cameron furnishing the music

A. K. Nelson was in charge of the evening's entertainment. A group picture of the large gathering was taken by Jack Wrathall.

CHRISTIANS MUST BE READY TO MAKE SACRIFICES

Christianity demanded that man think along his own lines, not that he become moulded along any certain line. The church maintained that man should be permitted to express himself along his own lines with freedom to express his own convictions.

In Russia Communism was just as totalitarian as was Fascism in Italy or Nazism in Germany. The Communist had a definite hatred and suspicion of religion. Karl Marx had at first admitted that religion had some social value but even he had later said that man had outgrown the necessity for religion. In the communistic state it was felt that man could stand upright, abolishing the regency of God. Forms and customs of religion were now held as clogs in the wheels of progress.

One trouble was that profession of religion had too often gone hand in hand with apparent evasions of religion. Indeed, the Russians might have had good reason to feel that way they did in view of their lack of emancipation. Members of the Communist Party might have some justification for their view that, had it not been for their agitation, there would never have been emancipation. In any event, there was always the purge, Siberia or the firing squad for any person in Russia today who would stand out for spiritual against economic values.

"The surest road to ruin for any country is abandonment of religion," asserted the speaker.

If Jesus were to speak today the speaker believed He would advocate a clear distinction between the solidarity of state and personal freedom. Still believing that democracy was the only bulwark of freedom and liberty, He would say to answer revolution with revolution. He would say that, if Christians were not willing to pull in their belts for five years in pursuit of their ideals, then they were not as good as the Nazis, the Fascists of the Communists. If they could not live what they believed then they should stand out of the way and let the Communists or Fascists have a chance to accomplish what they failed to do.

Address Appreciated

Mr. Durnford was warmly thanked for his address by the president of the club, D. G. Borland. There was a good attendance of Gyro members with one guest in the person of C. E. Starr.

Decorating Of Shop Windows Proposed

Poppy Tag Day Committee Desires To Repeat Innovation of Last Year

The Poppy Tag Day committee has decided to repeat the practice begun last year of asking the merchants of the city to decorate their windows suitably in recognition of the Armistice and Remembrance Day.

Many very favorable comments were passed on the fine way in which the merchants responded to this appeal last year. The windows showed a commendable variety of treatment, indicating the varied way in which the commemoration of the day and what it means appealed to those responsible for the decoration of the windows. The Canadian Legion was particularly gratified at the fine response and the reaction of those who had lost relatives—and those who did not—in the fateful years of 1914-1918 was no less favorable.

The winners last year were William F. Stone, Gordon's Hardware and Bryants Ltd. The local branch of the Canadian Legion set aside ten dollars divided into prizes of five dollars, three dollars and two dollars and these amounts were paid into the Poppy Day Fund and and credited to the firms winning the awards.

It is hoped that this year the response will be as widespread and there is every reason to believe that last year's displays will be exceeded in conception and execution.
