Blackwood on BRIDGE

As is often the case when he competes against old Mrs. Fusty, Mr. Champion was burning after the play of today's hand.

He had what appeared to be an easy four heart contract, with the defenders getting only two clubs and a heart.

But Mrs. Fusty stubbornly refused to give on the defence. With amazing resourcefulness, she came back strong to offset a beautiful play by Mr. Champion and, finally, to arrange for her partner to take the setting trick with the lowly nine of hearts.

Mr. Champion

Her partner opened the king of clubs and she promptly overtook with the ace and returned the deuce of diamonds. Mr. Champion saw through her plan. Undoubtedly she had a singleton diamond and planned to reach Mr. Dale's hand with a club lead and ruff a diamond return.

Mr. Champion was not without resources himself. As a countermove to this threat he played as follows: he won the second trick in dummy with the queen of diamonds and led the five of spades to his ace.

He led the queen of spades and overtook it with dummy's king. Next came the ten of spades and he breathed a little more easily when it was Mrs. Fusty who showed up with the jack.

Instead of ruffing, he merely discarded his last club, thus cutting the communication between the defenders' hands.

This was a touch setback for Mrs. Fusty but, undaunted, she started off on a new track. With the club return now apparently hopeless, she led a fourth round of spades. Mr. Champion had to ruff with a high heart or lose the hand at once.

Having no safe entry to the board, he was forced to lead a high heart from his hand. Mrs. Fusty won with the ace and relentlessly led still another spade. That did it. Again Mr. Champion had to ruff high and Mr. Dale's still - guarded nine of trumps finally broke the contract.

Report stresses

these tourists or travellers will spend 380 million dollars annually by 1980.

Tourist Centres, such as Jasper, wil one day be receiving a large number of winter tourists, and, with winter sports conditions improved I see no reason why the area between Jasper and Banff could not offer our American tourists a winter playground equal to anything found in the Swiss Alps today. It is said that you must spend money to make money, and so, therefore, let us recommend to the Canadian government the need of this alternate Trans-Canada Highway, which now is a dire necessity to service the increased population of the north-central part of Western Canada and our ever-increasing tourist trade.

The member boards and chambers of the Northern Trans-Canada Route Association must keep the desirability of the Northern Trans-Canada Route before their provincial and federal members of Parliament; this is not something for the future, it is something for today. Let us remind our Canadian government of their own winter work slogan, "Do it now when men and materials are available."

Tokyo (AP)—Fumio Kaizu, 161, Japan, awarded decision over Jiro Swada, 160¼, Japan (Kaizu leading on points when bout halted in sixth round because Swada's eyelid was cut from accidental butt).
