Cash prizes of $15, $10 given students selling most tickets

The Prince Rupert High School Band Parents' Association is offering cash prizes for students selling the highest number of tickets to the forthcoming "Night of School Music" concert February 9, Band Parents Association President, D. M. Newton announced today.

Tickets will be sold by band members and other school students seeking to win one of the two cash prizes.

Students in the competition will be issued tickets Thursday, January 26 at noon hour and after school at Booth Memorial Junior High School.

It is expected that students will make their greatest efforts between Thursday, January 26, and Thursday, February 2. The ticket selling competition is officially over Monday, February 6.

The high salesman will be awarded first prize of $15 while the second best salesman will receive $10.

Receipts from the concert will be used to further the Band Parents' Association projects in support of the Band. Money is needed to set up a bursary, to start a uniform fund, to pay for Band social events and to finance a trip to the Kitimat Music Festival in April.

In the concert program the High School Band will take the heaviest performance load but the Junior Band, Glee Club, String Ensemble and other small groups will also be featured in a musical program of wide appeal.

It is still hoped that the Kitimat High School Band will send a group to supplement the program.

FRANCOIS LAKE: We were sorry to read in The Daily News of January 10 that Mike Schwab had an accident when working at the Watson Island Columbia Cellulose Company plant, when a pile of wood chips fell on top of the cab. Mike and his wife Dadye and the children have spent their summer holidays here at the Landing for several years so are well known and we are sure that it will take a lot to hold Mike down for long and that he's probably back at work by this time.

There has been only one "Neighborly News" broadcast these last three Sunday mornings, and we surely miss it. We are all hoping that our good friend Les Way will be back with us again for when he was our Neighborly News editor it was our favorite program.

Hugh went to Prince George last week to have an X-ray. He rode in the new bus which travels from Prince Rupert to Prince George and back, and was full of praise for this way of travel. He says that it is more comfortable to ride in than a car. There is a radio, air conditioning, also a two-way radio so that the driver can keep in touch with his headquarters if he needs anything.

There is very little doing here now in the store and post office so Hal and I have been going through old boxes of photographs and letters which were in the attic.

We went through a lovely old writing desk which is inlaid with brass which Hal had given to him when he was a small boy. We knew that there was a secret drawer in it, but it was hidden so cleverly that it took us quite a time to get it to open. There was nothing inside except a few old postage stamps. We also came across a diary which Hal had kept when he was farming in Saskatchewan in 1912 where he mentions having sold a cow and calf for $30.

We heard a charming story the other day about the Sunday school teacher asking her pupils to draw a picture of "The Flight Into Egypt." One of the children drew an aeroplane, which is what the word flight would conjure up in a modern child's mind. Inside the plane were four figures. The teacher asked who they were and the child explained that they were Joseph, Mary and the Child. Then the teacher asked: "But who is the other person?" "Oh," said the child, "that is Pontius, the Pilot."

The Department of Public Works has sent several loads of gravel out to be spread on the roads which were horribly slippery with ice.

I was just going to write Daiy News managing editor J. R. Ayres asking if he could tell us what the light was we were all interested in for several nights when along came the January 19 Daily News telling that several in Prince Rupert had also seen it and were interested in it. To us it seemed west with a little south and was just above the mountains, and was very bright, almost like a car headlight. Sometimes it seemed to have some pink in it, and it seemed to be very bright and then wane a bit, then brighten up. We saw this more than a year ago just before Christmas I think it was, for several nights. I think that we older folk should be a bit ashamed to have a 14-year-old student tell us about the two stars being in conjunction instead of being able to work it out for ourselves. Congratulations to Arnold M. Rivett.
