MELEE AT HAZELTON

Chinaman Fined $5 as Result of Affair

As a result of a melee recently with three Indians in his restaurant at Hazelton, Sing Lee was recently fined $5 by Stipendiary Magistrate G. V. Storkey at Hazelton on a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily injury to Julian Holland, one of the Indians.

According to particulars which have reached provincial police divisional headquarters here, a party of Indians named Julian Holland, Patrick Mitchell and John Morris entered Sing Lee's restaurant at Hazelton and ordered up a meal. Sing Lee's story was that the trio of natives immediately devoured three-quarters of the contents of a battle of H. P. sauce and then demanded more. Sing Lee refused to give it to them whereupon Holland started to chase the Chinaman about the place. The latter, according to his own story, picked up a hoe and administered cuts and injuries upon Holland which necessitated his receiving treatment at the Hazelton Hospital from Dr. Wrinch. Meantime, however, Holland knocked Sing Lee down with a brush.

Soon after the affair, Sing Lee was arrested by the police and charged with the foregoing results.
