FLYING his way through college is Capt. Thomas Elden of Vancouver, a student "sky pilot" who is training to become a minister. Elden, who pilots a Canadian Pacific airliner between Vancouver and Calgary, flies a total of 3,000 miles a week, and attends classes three days a week at the University of British Columbia. BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

The player who is just learning the game experiences one of his greatest thrills when he executes his first end-play. This big moment came today to Mr. New, avid kibitzer.

Mr. New

Mr. Champion doesn't like it when Mr. New puts in the first no trump call. He considers it his prerogative to play the no trump contracts himself. Possibly his jump to six no trump in today's deal was made partly for the purpose of teaching Mr. New a lesson.

Mr. New won the opening lead with the ace in dummy. He quickly cashed his three top spades, hoping the suit would break evenly and thus provide four winners.

He was sadly disappointed when Mr. Muzzy showed out on the third round of spades.

Checking up, Mr. New counted three winners in spades, three in hearts and four in diamonds. That made 10 and the ace of clubs would make 11.

It appeared to him at this point that a successful finesse of the queen of clubs was his only chance.

Postponing the fateful moment as long as possible, he cashed two more heart tricks and on the last one saw Mr. Muzzy complete his club echo by playing the deuce of that suit.

Next he cashed four diamond tricks and then the club play was at hand. He led the four of clubs and Mr. Abel played the seven.

Only now did he realize his possibilities. Mr. Muzzy had already shown out of spades and hearts. Nobody at the table had any diamonds left. Therefore Mr. Muzzy had nothing left but clubs.

So instead of finessing dummy's queen, Mr. New put in the nine. Mr. Muzzy won with the ten but had to return a club into the ace-queen.
