From the Waterfront

The sockeye gillnet average on the Skeena and Naas Rivers remains about the same at fifteen or so fish per boat, it was reported at the Dominion Fisheries office this morning. Weather conditions might be more favorable for gillnetting than they have been since the season opened. Clear, sunny weather might bring in improvement in the run, it is thought. However, a heavy sockeye run was not anticipated this year. .

Imperial Oil Co.'s small tanker Maryolite, after spending a couple of days in port, sailed yesterday for Vancouver.

RAILWAY MAN DIES

"Shorty" Stafford, Well Known Engineer, Victim of Heart Attack

SMITHERS, July 14:—T. L. Stafford, well known locomotive engineer of Smithers, popularly known along the line as "Shorty" Stafford, died Tuesday evening while enroute to Smithers to enter hospital.

Mr. Stafford was working on the ditcher at Woodcock on the Skeena River and had not been feeling well for several days although continuing with his work.

Tuesday afternoon he decided that he would have to have medical attention and he was being brought to Smithers for that purpose.

The doctor was called at Hazelton and gave him attention there but decided that he could not be moved to hospital at Hazelton. He died on the train about fifteen minutes after leaving Hazelton for Smithers. Heart trouble was the cause of his death.

Mr. Stafford was well known throughout the district and had made his home in Smithers for a number of years.

With Pilot Kutzer at the controls, an airplane, carrying three passengers, arrived here early yesterday afternoon from Seattle and, after refuelling, hopped off in continuation of a flight to Ketchikan.

IS VIVID ROMANCE

"Garden of Allah" Mid-week Feature Offering on Capitol Theatre Screen

The famous desert romance, "Garden of Allah" with Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer in the stellar roles, comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre as an outstanding feature for the middle of this week. Produced entirely in technicolor, the immortal story is heralded as a glorious feast of color and romance.

Marlene Dietrich is cast as the lovely Domini Enfilden who goes to the parish of the kindly Father Roubier in the Algerian desert to find a new life and falls madly in love with the strange, brooding, mysterious Boris Androvsky who, unknown to her is really a trappist monk who has fled from the monastery after taking the eternal vows. Boyer portrays the terrible conflict in the soul of a man who is torn between the love for a woman and his duty to God. The glorious but ill-starred romance between the man and woman from widely separated worlds provides one of the most thrilling stories that has ever come to the screen.

The desert backgrounds adapt themselves well to color as do also the vivid bazaar and dancing girl scenes. Basil Rathbone and C. Aubrey Smith are important members of the supporting cast.
