RALPH SMITH AND DUNCAN ROSS EXPLAIN ISSUES

(Continued from Page 4.) abandonment of the unanimous policy of Parliament. You will remember that just previous to the last general election a noble band of eighteen millionaires or representatives of millionaires, calling themselves Liberals, signed a manifesto against reciprocity. There are only seven of those left to the Liberal party, one of them is now minister of finance in the Borden cabinet. It is he who has to find the thirty or forty millions; it is he who has most to do with the framing of the tariff policy of the Borden government. The Montreal Star, the wildest of the wild emergency shouters, says that if you are going to build ships, build them in England and save money, and the same Toronto band and their compatriots have circulated petitions asking that Sir Wilfrid Laurier be prevailed upon to take the naval question out of politics. Who forced the naval question into politics, but the Tory party under the leadership of R. L. Borden when they renounced the unanimous resolution of Parliament and joined the Nationalists?

Here is the situation; Sir Wilfrid Laurier said we will build a Canadian navy, which will encourage a great ship building industry in this country. In the days of wooden ships the British
