HOME BUILDING

There seems to be a feeling in some quarters that the campaign for home building is a scheme of the city commissioner to get rid of vacant city lots and make them revenue bearing and that it is not something which should receive the support of the citizens.

While we have not discussed that aspect of the campaign with Mr. Alder and his opinion in regard to it does not matter in the least as he is there only to administer the affairs of the city to the best of his ability, it is up to the citizens whether they take advantage of the proposed home building offer or not.

What we would like to suggest to local people is that there never has been in the history of the city a proposal by which money could be secured at as low a rate as under this scheme. For people who would like to own a home and who have a moderate security of tenure of their positions, there is nothing like it. Years ago there was a local organization that loaned money at eight per cent and there was considerable demand for it. This proposal is for five per cent money.

The person who owns his own home becomes a real citizen with a new outlook on life. He can improve his place and feel that he is not only improving the city but increasing the value of the property. All he needs is the price of the lot and the prospect of being able to make the payments over a period of years. We suggest it is an opportunity not lightly to be set aside.

OUR FOREST HERITAGE

Just how long British Columbia timber will last it is impossible to calculate with any degree of certainty because there are so many factors to be considered, according to Professor Recknagel of Cornell University who has been visiting the city. He did not enumerate what those conditions were except to say that production of new timber was one of them. Possibly the professor might have suggested that fifty years from now people might all be building their houses with brick or cement or glass or iron or some material not yet discovered or developed. He also might have suggested that some process would be discovered to make wood last almost for ever. There might be a pestilence or a war that would wipe out the larger part of the population of the world with the result that timber for new homes will not be needed. There are so many possibilities. Some fertilizer may be discovered that will so hasten the growth of the forest that a full crop could be grown in twenty years instead of several hundred. All we can do is carry on, conserve what we have, improve our crop by reasonable means and leave the rest to the higher powers that control these things.

ARE YOU READY FOR EASTER?

Are you ready for Easter? Have you purchased your spring clothes? If you are a lady the least you want is a new spring hat. If you are a man you must have a suit or a tie to indicate that spring is here. How about a pair of flannel pants? Look for an advertisement for such things in this paper. If it is not there let your favorite merchant know that he or she is missing an opportunity.

LEAFS EVEN PUCK COUNT

Wild Scoring Splurge in Third Period Feature of Five To One Victory

TORONTO, April 8:—A fully recovered and fierce fighting crew of Toronto Maple Leafs broke down the weakened defence of the Chicago Black Hawks to win the second game of the Stanley Cup world championship hockey play-offs last night by a score of 5 to one, thus evening up the count of the best three out of five game series at one win each. Fourteen thousand fans witnessed one of the most thrilling puck battles that has ever been staged in the Maple Leaf Gardens, the feature being a third period scoring splurge during which the Maple Leafs rapped in three goals within a minute and a half as they took advantage of openings left by the Black Hawks who abandoned their defences in the effort to put on power plays and even up a two to one count against them. It was a wild and woolly stick-slashing affair in which no less than twelve penalties were issued. It was a lucky player that did not suffer some sort of an injury, the most serious being Doc Romnes of the Black Hawks who sustained a broken nose.

The score was not a fair indication of the trend of play, the Hawks having their full share especially up to the middle of the third period before the Maple Leafs broke up the game.

Gordon Drillon opened the scoring in one minute forty-two seconds of the first period on a pass from Syl Apps. Earl Siebert evened up the count at eight minutes and thirty-one seconds, the first period ending in a one-all deadlock. Busher Jackson, on Bill Thoms' pass, put the Maple Leafs one up at the six minute eleven second mark in the second period. The deciding factor of the game was Apps' breakaway in the third period as a result of which Drillon was able to score on the rebound at 9 minutes 4 seconds into a wide open net. Hamilton also got credit for an assist on this play. At 10 minutes 29 second, in another breakaway, George Parsons scored on Pep Kelley's pass with Jimmy Fowler getting credit for making the play. Red Horner started the play which enabled Parsons to make the fifth counter for the Maple Leafs on a pass from Kelley in eleven minutes and eight seconds.

Syl Apps and George Parsons of Toronto and Alex Levinsky of Chicago were the stars of the game. Rookie Paul Goodman was in goal for the Black Hawks. It was his first major league game and was a real "baptism of fire." He received much commendation for a fine showing and the general opinion was that he never had a chance to prevent at least three of the five goals that were scored.

The series will be resumed at Chicago Sunday night.
