TO FINANCE LABORATORY

Hospital Board Agrees to Principle of Imposing New Flat Service Charge

Following a discussion of the whole matter with Dr. C. H. Hankinson, the board of directors of the Prince Rupert General Hispital, at its meeting last night approved the principle of imposing a flat charge for pathological service for all patients treated in the hospital. By imposing such a charge, Dr. Hankinson pointed out that this valuable new hospital service, which all patients were now receiving, might be placed on a more equitable and selfsupporting basis of maintenance and development. The present uncertain system of assessment and collection for the service was described by the doctor who explained the difficulties that were being encountered by Dr. Coleman in carrying on. There were considerable improvements yet to be made, to take care of which and to provide a steady revenue for the general operation of the laboratory it was desirable that some regular and assured basis of revenue should be reached instead of the present haphazard arrangement.

Explaining the value to hospital service of the pathological laboratory, Dr. Hankinson referred to instances where patients had been found, as a result of the tests, to be suffering from complaints other than they had originally been treated for. This careful, exhaustive and efficient diagnostic service played its part in prolonging life. As the average individual was unable to meet the cost of laboratory service under the present arrangement, it was felt that the flat charge would be more equitable and satisfactory all around. A figure of $2 per patient was tentatively mentioned.

Dr. Hankinson also mentioned the possibility of the provincial government assisting the laboratory through the establishment of a pathological service here in connection with the public health nursing. In this connection, Dr. Dolman, director of laboratory service for the provincial government, was due in Prince Rupert on March 23.

HOSPITAL FINANCES

During the month of February there was a total of 1579 hospital days at the Prince Rupert General Hospital, it was reported by F. A. MacCallum, chairman of the finance committee, at the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Prince Rupert General Hospital last night. The cost per diem was $2.96. Ordinary expenditures for the month totalled $4575.78 and capital expenditure on the new hospital, $3799.62.
