Prince Rupert Ministerial Association Would Stop Shipment of War Materials to Aggressors

The Prince Rupert Ministerial Association, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, endorsed a petition requesting the government to place an embargo on war materials to aggressor nations and to seek the co-operation of other democratic nations in such a move.

Observance locally of the Lord's Day Act was discussed and the executive was asked to make inquiries and report at the next meeting.

Discussion of the Oxford reports, particularly that one on church and state, was continued.

The president of the Association, Rev. J. C. Jackson, was in the chair.

The Imperial Oil Co's new tanker, Imperial, Capt. A. S. McGaw, made a brief call in port from 8 until 10 o'clock this morning to complete discharging local cargo. She arrived from Stewart and proceeded to Ioco.

FISHERMEN DOING WELL

Local Men Make Good Showing In Naval Training at Esquimalt

ESQUIMALT, Feb. 21: (CP) — There's the spatter of gunfire and the whine of bullets as the richochet from the waves off this Pacific station today. A new naval defence force is nearing the end of its first maneouvres.

The regular navy has taken a fancy to its new volunteers, a fraction of the huge British Columbia fishing fleet which has come to Esquimalt from as far north as Prince Rupert.

"They're a particularly fine body of men and we are quite satisfied with the way they are shaping up," is the comment of Captain Victor Brodeur, R. C. N., senior officer-in-charge here.

"For the short time they have been in training they have done remarkably well."

And from Lieut.-Com. Colin Donald, R. C. N., in charge of the new reserve unit:

"Everybody in the navy is pleased with them. They're taking to their work like ducks to water. It's a pleasure to work with them."

Commander Donald says if the money were available, ten times the number of boats and men here this year could be brought to Esquimalt in future.

"These men are all anxious to return next year and hundreds of their pals want to oin them."
