CHARTER—HIGH SEAS FISHING
FISHERIES RESEARCH
BOARD OF CANADA

Reference is made to previous notices inviting offers to charter two vessels for fishing and tagging salmon on the high seas during the period May to August, 1961. One vessel will fish with floating longlines (to be supplied by the Board), the second vessel with a purse seine.
Both vessels will need to be equipped for accurate navigation and, in addition to the crew, must have accommodation for two to three scientific observers.
The Board will also require for rent a large salmon seine which will be modified for the intended purpose. It is possible that a combined bid for vessel and seine will be acceptable.
The period for receiving offers is hereby extended to March 11, 1961. Consideration may be given to offers to charter for a period ending about July 15.
Offers or inquiries should be made to:
The Director,
Fisheries Research Board of Canada
Biological Station
Nanaimo, B.C. (45)

The bidding:

Opening lead: Ten of ♠

East fell under the weight of his own assets in today's hand taken from a recent tournament.

In most cases a final contract of six no trump was reached. The bidding was straightforward. North's bid of four no trump, it will be observed, is not a request for aces. It is merely a raise over game of South's three no trump rebid and invites partner to proceed to slam if he has slight values in addition to those already shown. South by his one no trump opening had described a hand containing at least 16 points in high cards. His excess values consisted of an additional point (he had 17), the fifth card of his club suit and the fact that his diamond holding should tend to solidify his partner's suit. He therefore cheerfully accepted the invitation and contracted for slam in no trump.

West invariably opened the ten of spades. The trick was taken with the king in dummy, and development of the club suit was begun. After cashing the ace, South finessed the ten of clubs which held. The play of the king revealed that the suit did not break, but East was given his queen. Observe that, even if diamonds break, declarer can only count up to 12 tricks so that conceding the club queen has little to lose.

East returned the king of hearts. South went up with his ace, cashed two spades and his fifth club, throwing hearts and one diamond from dummy. This put East in an impossible position, for he was unable to hold on to a high heart and also retain four diamonds to stop that suit. When he disposed of the queen of hearts, South produced the jack from his hand for the 12th trick.
