The bidding:

West	North	East	South
3♣	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	4♥	Pass	4 NT
Pass	5♦	Pass	6 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣

An unusual type of squeeze play is presented today. South became declarer at a rather enterprising contract of six no trump into which his side had been goaded by West's pre-emptive bid.

West opened the king of clubs, and declarer, assuming from the bidding that East had no more of the suit, took the first trick. A quick appraisal of the combined assets revealed that 11 top tricks were available. It appeared that if the hearts broke no worse than 4-2 and East had the burden of protecting the suit, he could be given a heart trick safely, and dummy's long heart would then become established for the 12th trick.

Before committing himself to any line of action, declarer tried two rounds of spades and diamonds and soon learned that West had a singleton in each suit. Since he could have no more than six clubs, he was marked with five hearts. This would eliminate the possibility of developing a long heart. But it was apparent that West would have discarding problems; so declarer cashed his seven tricks in spades and diamonds, and each hand was reduced to five cards.

West had to retain four hearts, else dummy's suit could be run in its entirety; so he was forced to come down to one club. South then played one of his low clubs to force out West's queen, and the ace of hearts gave declarer access to his own hand to cash the six of clubs for what proved to be the 12th trick.
