Construction Firms to Take Part in Opening

Construction companies' working on the Skeena River highway are desirous of taking part in the official opening ceremonies and will try and have the road open at a date suitable to the celebration committee, G. D. Archibald, highway construction engineer, told the latest meeting of the celebration committee.

The committee agreed that Terrace is the logical place to hold the celebration but felt that, in view of the enthusiasm shown in Prince Rupert, an initial ceremony might be held here.

Officials in Ottawa, Victoria and Vancouver are being contacted before the final plans are announced.

ENJOYABLE HOUSEWORK

By ENID NEMY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, July 25 (CP)—It's not hard to enjoy housework when it's done in an exquisitely furnished $17,000 Georgian home, as up-to-date as a shiny new nickel.

Every co-ed studying Home Economics at the University of Manitoba lives in this home-maker's dream for a month of her four-year course and to the majority, it's the most thrilling part of their studies.

The University Home Management House is a dignified red brick structure, with a neat white wood trim. It is built on the strictly symmetrical lines of the late 17th and early 18th centuries and is situated on the scenic grounds of the University in suburban Fort Garry.

The 11 rooms and three baths, all furnished with a practical but stylish eye, take a lot of looking after but there's no shortage of household help.

Each month 10 girls in third year Home Economics move into the house—and for that month it is home. They take turns as cook, laundress, child director, maid, dishwasher, and manager, but still find time to attend regular classes and study two hours daily.

PRIDE OF THE HOUSE

One of the most important features is the baby. Each year the house gets a baby from a children's society and at the end of the term it is adopted by a family. During its year in the home the infant is cared for by 70 beautiful co-eds, who lavish more attention on it than they do on the current heart-throb.

Frances Ingersol, a petite lovely brunette, came all the way from Calgary to "learn how to keep house," and she's enjoying every moment of it. Sine Culver from Vancouver, Marnie Baird from Lethbridge and Joanne MacPherson of Regina also are a long way from home but "it's a wonderful experience." Others like Eileen Goldberg of Winnipeg find that living away from home for a month is not only fun but educational. "It teaches you to get along with people," said Eileen.

Florence McLaughlin, director, says that living with other girls is especially good for those who have never been away from their families. "They have to learn to give and take and that's a wonderful thing."

Mrs. L. Karsen Passes Away

The death occurred on Monday afternoon at her home at 1320 Eighth ave. East of Mrs. Olette Karsen at the age of 55 years. She had been ill for the last four months.

Born in Montana, U.S.A., the late Mrs. Karsen came to Canada as a child, residing in Alberta. Before coming to Prince Rupert 25 years ago the deceased was married to Louis Karsen, who is at present employed as a shipwright at the dry dock.

Surviving also is one son Leonard, of Vancouver, at present in the city.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday.

Tonight's train, due from the East at 10:45, was reported this afternoon to be on time.

Owing to rainy weather, the annual picnic of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club, which was to have been held on Sunday, was postponed and may be held later in the summer.

Canada Digest Goes To France

Wartime Information Board Book Makes Good Reading For Invasion Troops

OTTAWA, July 25 (CP)—Canadian forces took reading material along with them on the invasion of Europe.

Sqdn. Ldr. Gregory Vlastos of Kingston found this out recently when he went to Britain to obtain the troops' view of various Wartime Information Board publications.

He wrote to Lieut. Donald C. MacDonald, editor of Canada Digest—one of the publications for the troops:

"For a while I was mystified not to find a single copy of it in a number of units of the 1st Canadian Army that I happened to visit. Then I solved the mystery. Apparently the full supply of the May issue was packed securely away in boxes and tucked into the back of three-ton trucks, in which auxiliary service supervisors are riding in invasion operations. Canada Digest has been included in the list of priority essentials to welfare and morale."

The Digest is distributed to men of the three services not only in the United Kingdom theatre and northern France, but in the Mediterranean, the Middle East and India.

It has already provoked considerable comment, not only in letters from readers, but in the British press. The South Wales Argus, published in Newport, concludes an editorial with the hope that the British authorities will duplicate the Canadian publication.
