Boilermakers' Ball Enjoyed

Over six hundred persons crowded into the main staff house dining hall Monday night for the first annual boilermakers' ball to be held in a quarter of a century, the last affair of its kind having taken place shortly after the last war when shipbuilding was previously an important industry here. The affair was under the auspices of the local Boilermakers' and Iron Shipbuilders' Union No. 4 and was greatly enjoyed by all.

George Stanton, president of the union, welcomed the guests and J. S. Collingwood was master of ceremonies. A splendid program of modern and old time dances was staged with music by Roy Proverbs' orchestra. Other features of the dance program were prize waltz and jitterbug contest, E. J. Carlson and partner winning the former and J. K. Briggs and partner, the latter.

The general committee consisted of George Stanton, E. T. Russell, George Hird, J. S. Collingwood, W. White and Mrs. G. Bohnke.

Net proceeds of the dance are to go to the purchase of equipment for the social and sports club of the Boilermakers' Union.

Taxfree City In California

Rio Vista, Cal., is what property owners call a taxpayers' heaven. The city council, in adopting the annual budget, fixed the tax rate at zero. The city has leased withdrawal rights to gas-bearing sand to oil companies on a royalty basis. In addition to being absolved of taxation for city governmental expenses, individual property owners will receive royalties.

Another good place to live in, from the taxpayer's point of view, would seem to be the Parish of North Weald, England, where the council decided not to collect any taxes this year because their expenditure came to only $5.

CREAM OF LIVER SOUP—(Here is a deliciously different main dish for either lunch or supper. It's good, too, because it packs in plenty of iron and vitamins). Heat 3¾ cups milk in top of double boiler. Blend two tablespoons flour with ¼ cup cold milk. Add gradually to the hot milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Scald ¾ pound of liver for five minutes, then drain and grind. Add ground liver, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, a pinch of sage or thyme and two tablespoons finely chopped onion to the thickened milk. Cook for 20 minutes, over hot water, stirring constantly. If mixture curdles it may be beaten smooth with a rotary beater.

EVER NOTICE that a woodpecker uses his head when he works? Do housewives always use theirs when shopping? The market basket of Mrs. Shopwise includes foods from every food group so that her family meals follow Canada's official food rules. Mrs. Not-So-Wise can spend just as much money and time—and probably more—without including foods that will provide healthful eating for her family.

Mrs. Shopwise buys fruits and vegetables in season, Nutrition Services says. She balances her menus with all these foods, too: milk and cheese, cereal, meats, fish, eggs. She buys these first and then if her budget allows she goes in for a frill or two with extras like condiments, cakes, cookies, mayonnaise.

STEADY NERVES are a boon in these trying times and the right foods help give us a calm and unflustered manner. The food elements which help build steady nerves are those vitamins which belong to the B family. They are found in whole grain cereals and bread, wheat germ, liver, eggs, beans and peas and in smaller amounts in other foods.

PARSLEY FOR PEP: That's what it is, says Nutrition Services since it adds iron and vitamins A and C to our diets. It is also a pepper-upper of tired menus—when it is chopped up in its sophisticated form and not just left as a sprig on the plate. Chop it up fine and float it on the soup at the last minute, of course, or sprinkle it over the buttered potatoes, on other vegetables and in raw salads.

SWEATER TALK: A matted sweater is a tragedy these days when sweaters are so scarce. A quick brush-up on washing rules will save you the needless misfortune of seeing a sweater go into the discard.

First thing is to place your sweater on a sheet of paper and draw its outline. Now, dunk it in lukewarm suds and squeeze gently, no rubbing or wringing. Rinse at least twice in water of the same temperature and stretch on the paper diagram. (Never hang on a line). If you want to be extra careful put a bathtowel underneath and one on top and weight the sweater down with magazines. Don't wash woollens on a wet day, they'll take forever to dry, and don't dry them on the radiator, they shrink from heat.

A newly inducted private wrote his family some few days after he had arrived at camp.

"I've gained sixty pounds since I came here—two pounds of flesh and fifty-eight of equipment."

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT

We welcomed the first of our When to the Hut yesterday when Wren Rita Bradd from Ontario and Wren Marion Merryfield (what a pretty name!) from Saskatchewan came in to see us and have a look around. Rita has been in Halifax and Marion in Toronto. Rita says she finds the people here very friendly. And if I might say so, I found Rita the same. I think she must know that old adage — to have a friend one must be a friend.

At last we have the doll's house all fixed up so that the electric lights work. We found the wiring wasn't in working order so Jean Melvin and a sailor and I got busy with a string of Christmas lights and some adhesive taps and made our own lighting system. The house stands just little-girl-and-boy-high on a stand which Alex Mitchell made for it and the best of it is you can walk all around it and look into smartly furnished rooms.

I was talking today to Officer Wyley Bracken "Maskelyn the Magician" local forces. He is no mere teur in this line and has quite a bit of professional perience. In civilian life drummer in a dance band was on a contract to club circuit. Each member the band had to double act, singing, dancing or Brack's case, in sleight work. In this way the clubs could advertise band and—eight other was hard work but experience. Every that is when they had pleted the circuit, they have a completely new pared. That's the magicians are made.
