ALL THE NICE BOYS LOVE A SAILOR-ETTE — Your pet, "Juliette," is now an honorary lieutenant-commander of Navy League Wrenettes. Her appointment made during her national television program Saturday, April 29, was a tribute by the Navy League for her help in the observing of "Navy Week In Canada" May 7 to 13. Juliette's seen here with two representative Navy League Wrenettes, and an ancient model of HMS The "Great Harry", the first ship in the English Navy, (Year 1515). — Photo by Navy League of Canada

Easy-to-make, attractive beach coat only requires terry towelling, zipper

Here is an illustrated pattern of a coat for beach wear, easily made and can also be used as a bath robe.

Use a good patterned terry towelling and buy two and a half yards of 48-inch wide towelling or,, if the material is 36 inches wide, buy three and a half yards.

You also need a 10-inch zipper.

Draw the pattern of the back and front (see Figure 1) on a piece of paper 45 inches by 33 inches, marking the paper out in three inch squares.

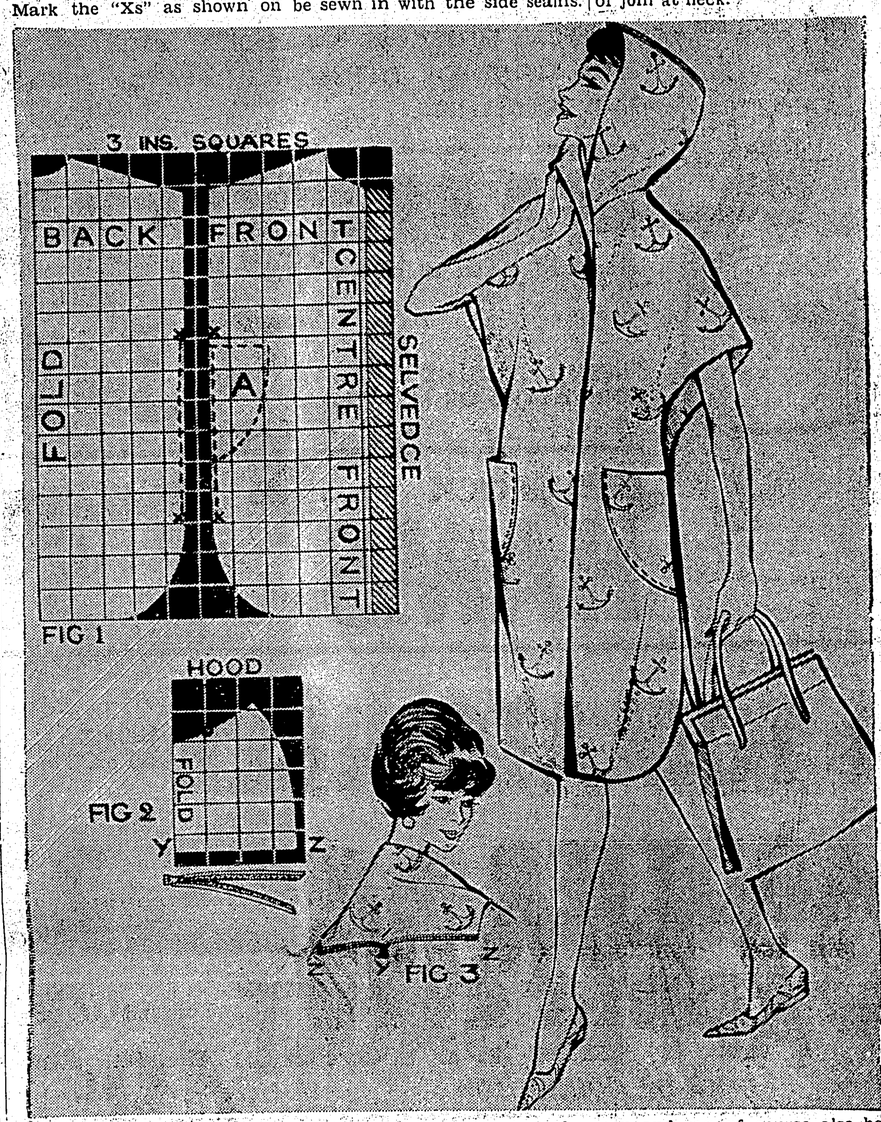
For the hood (Figure 2) take paper 18 inches by 12 inches and mark this out in three inch squares. Make a separate pattern for the pockets indicated on the diagram (Figure 1) by a dotted line and marked "A."

Mark the "Xs" as shown on the pattern (Figure 1). It is along the dotted line between these that the side seams are to be made. Mark, too, the large dot shown on the hood pattern in Figure 2.

Cut out, placing the hood and back on the fold of the material and the front against the selvedge. The shaded section two and a half inches wide is for the facing at the centre fronts. Cut out pockets and hem at the top of each, then turn in the curved edges and tack to the wrap, placing the straight edges just below the point marked "X" and against the edge. These are to be sewn in with the side seams.

Join shoulder and side seams and hem down each front. Make a narrow hem round all raw edges, except the neck.

Open out zip fully and tack to the hood, sewing on each side separately. The centre of the zip should come at "Y" (See Figure 2) and each side to "Z" (see Figure 3). Sew zip in place with back stitches, hem both sides of hood and neatly finish the corners where they join the zip. Join hood to wrap at the neck edge. The large dot each side of the hood (Figure 2) should come on the shoulder seam. Sew bias binding neatly over the inside of join at neck.



THIS IS ONE of the most easily made beach garments to be seen and can of course also be used as a bath wrap. Choose a patterned terry towelling. The way the arm holes are cut is kind to the arms, and needs no careful fitting.

VISITORS FROM TERRACE, KITIMAT

Square dancing clubs feted by city Twirlers

The Prince Rupert Skeena Twirlers Saturday night were hosts to some 50 visitors from Terrace and Kitimat who were in the city to attend the gala wind-up square dancing party held in the Sons of Norway hall.

Some 40 members of the Skeena Squares from Terrace and six members of the Broken Spokes from Kitimat were welcomed by city president, Henry Lindseth.

"This get-together is an enjoyable climax to our very successful square dancing season," Mr. Lindseth said.

The eight squares when on the floor at one time, filled the SON hall to capacity.

Refreshments were served to conclude the gay affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Jensen leave tomorrow by CPA plane en route to Victoria where they will attend the graduation exercises of their daughter Miss Sonja Jensen, RN, Sunday at St. Joseph's Hospital, School of Nursing.

FRANCOIS LAKE: More than a week ago the Westphalen collie went off into the range land at the back of their home taking her two pups with her. They hunted for hours and found her, but no signs of the pups anywhere. They gave up hunting and thought that owls or a bear got them. They watched the mother and she didn't go off again as far as they could tell, to feed the pups.

They were six weeks old and not very capable of earning a living for themselves. The children were feeling badly about losing their pups when a week later the two found their way down to the Remanda house on the lakeshore. They were fat and well but seemed very happy to be with humans again.

Someone suggested that she was jealous of the attention the little girls gave the pups so she deliberately took them off and lost them. We think that she slipped off and fed them, as they would hardly have kept so well caring for themselves.

Lois McQueen, who lives with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallie Jeffrey, at the Landing, celebrated her 11th birthday on Saturday, with all her small friends in to help eat her cake and other delicious eatables. To complete a perfect day for her, Bill Harrison skipped over from Tchesinkut Lake in one of his planes, stopped on the lake in front of the Jeffrey home and wished her a happy birthday.

Dr. Saunders, provincial veterinarian, is working through this district testing for TB in cattle. He stopped here and did our cow, yearling and the new calf. He makes an injection and then after a period of time comes round again to see if there is a swelling.

Keith Green started a grass fire on his place on Wednesday, not realizing how quickly it can spread at this time of year. It started creeping off his property towards the Hickey house which John Keefe recently bought, so he came down to the Landing in a hurry to get help to stop it.

Hugh went off with pails and a broom, another man joined them and Josie (Hugh's wife) also went off to help. Four-year-old Mark wanted to go and enjoy the fun but he was persuaded to stay with me. Fortunately the light breeze turned slightly so they were able to make a backfire between the flames and the house, so it was stopped but the fight was furious for a while.

On Sunday morning Hugh, Josie and the three youngsters went off to the ranch with bridles to catch the ponies and ride. This is the first time since last fall that the horses have been caught and ridden. The stupid little German Shepherd pup went along too, as was only natural. Hugh got on Lady with little Mark in front of him; Marie climbed on Buster, Richard on Beauty and last of all Josie got on Smoky.

Just as she was getting on, the little yearling mare Flicka caught sight of the pup galloping about so she made a dive for the pup which ran for cover between Smoky's front legs! Smoky had probably had never seen a pup of this make before and to have it between his legs was too much to expect of any horse, so he took three cow-hops and off went poor Josie. Had she been in a saddle she would probably not have been thrown, but it is not easy to stick on bareback when the horse is acting up. The pup was sent home and Josie got on again and had no trouble at all.

Our three cockers had pups last week, Buzz, Magic and Tidy. In all we have 11 females and only two males in the lot. Last year Tidy gave us five males and this time five females which evens things up I suppose, but we surely thought we'd get a more even lot than we did have. We have solid blacks, black and whites, blondes, a red and one liver-colored one.

On Wednesday we drove up to Burns Lake to meet the Prince George to Prince Rupert bus to welcome my husband's cousin Mirrie Donkin who came from Calgary. During the last few months she has lost her husband (he was a mining engineer), her brother in Tasmania, her sister in Seattle, and then she had word of the sudden death of her daughter in Ontario.

She has come to us to regain her health and we are very happy to have her, and hope that she will make her home with us. She is already feeling better and we are glad to have her help in the house and the store.

is your work as vital as this?

Dental diseases affect more than 98 per cent of Canadians — and British Columbia has less than half the number of qualified dentists required. That's why your dentist is one of the most vitally important professional men in the community.

A doctor's degree in dentistry is not earned easily. Dentists must undertake at least six years of intensive specialized training at university. And perhaps more important, they must be prepared to undertake a life that will demand much from them both physically and mentally.

B.C.'s dentists have a serious health problem to solve. Are you willing to help them? If so, write for our pamphlet, Dentistry As A Career. No other profession will offer you greater opportunities to serve your fellow men — and none is quite so vital to your community now.
