Frank Finnerty of U.S.O. Gives Farewell Talk at Gyro Luncheon

"He may have been going home and he may have been happy about that but there has not been an American soldier who served at Prince Rupert for any length of time who did not leave with a tear in his eye and a pang in his heart for, due to the kindness and hospitality which they received here, they formed pleasant associations and will have happy memories which will urge them to come back some day," Frank Finnerty, who will be closing up the United Services Organization at Prince Rupert in a few days now, told the Prince Rupert Gyro Club in a farewell talk at luncheon yesterday.

"As for the U. S.O. I think we came a long way since that cold winter morning nearly three years ago when I arrived on a late train in a blackout and stumbled up to the camp at Acropolis Hill, feeling that here was desolation indeed and very much like heading back home on the next rtain. But we found Prince Rupert to be a very pleasant place and from here we shall all take beautiful memories."

Mr. Finnerty recounted some of his experiences in U.S.O. work after opening on an interesting vein.

He singled out as the most important institution of all U. S.O. work here the snack bar. There was something phoyschological about that. Good food is the greatest ice breaker in the world. The hamburgers brought the boys to us and then they stayed to see the movies, write letters and spend their evenings in healthful and agreeable surroundings instead of in the barracks or possibly less desirable places.

Mr. Finnerty leaves here soon after closing up of the U.S.O. December 1 for New York whence he is to be assigned to the Philippines and China.

President J. J. Gibson occupied the chair at the Gyro luncheon and the speaker was introduced by C. G. Ham. A luncheon guest was Aubrey Bate.

YOUNG FILM CRITIC

BIRMINGHAM, (?) — Three hundred girls and boys in Birmingham schools are to have a three-day course teaching them how to become film critics. The course was organized by the Birmingham Education Committee and will be supported by the city's headmasters.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Isn't it rude, when attending some public performance, for one to make witty remarks for the amusement of those around one?

A. Yes, as it is annoying to others who may wish to pay strict attention to the performance.

Q. Is it ever proper to send "Thank You" cards in acknowledgement of birthday, graduation, Christmas gifts and the like?

A. No. It shows ignorance of the laws of good manners to do so.

Q. Should anyone with the exception of a relative or an intimate friend be asked to act as godfather or godmother?

A. No.

CRANBERRIES REACH MARKET

Japanese Oranges Are Expected Here for Christmas

Cranberries are making their first, hesitant, pre-Christmas appearance in some local stores this week but are arriving only in small quantities. However, merchants predict that there will be increased quantities available in time for Christmas cookery. When available they are selling at 49 cents a pound.

Predicted Yule-tide shortages of many of the fancy food products which have graced Christmas dinner tables even during the wartime years will still leave substantial variety of less exotic but equally nourishing foods for holiday consumption. Practically everything that is imported in the way of fancy foodstuffs is expected to be lacking with the probable—and paradoxical—exception of Japanese oranges, which, it is believed, may return to the market.
