BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Proof that the Muzzys, Brashes and Champions of the game are the same the world over is contained in the following letter from Mr. E. H. East of Milford Haven, Wales:

Dear Mr. Blackwood:
"We, too, have our Mr. Muzzy and, like yours, the more our Mr. Champion bullies him, the worse he gets. Playing recently, Muzzy led the trey of spades from Q J 10 3. This went right into declarer's A K 9, enabling him to make an otherwise hopeless contract. Champion, of course, raised the roof. "How many times have I told you, Muzzy," he said, "that the correct play from such a holding is the queen?"

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	All Pass

Opening lead: Ten of spades.

Two hands later, along came the deal shown above. With a look of grim determination Muzzy led the ten of spades, Champion's king falling under Dale's ace. Looking things over, Dale didn't fancy his chances at all. Two spades, three diamonds, two clubs and one heart made only eight tricks and the heart finesse appeared doomed from the beginning.

Mr. Dale

However, with Mr. Muzzy in the game you never know. At trick two Dale led a diamond and Muzzy went right up with the ace. Doggedly following his partner's advice of leading off the top rather than the bottom, he returned the nine of spades.

Champion's knave fell to Dale's queen. Dale now led the six of clubs, playing the king from dummy under Muzzy's ace.

Muzzy's eight of spades was half way to the table when it suddenly dawned on him that the seven in dummy was a potential winner. Across the table Champion's gimlet eye borded through him, while on his right Dale sat grinning like a Cheshire cat.

Hoping for a miracle Muzzy withdrew the spade and led a small club.

But Dale cleared the clubs and diamonds, led the deuce of spades and poor Muzzy had it. After winning with the eight of spades he either had to give dummy a trick with the seven or lead a heart into Dale's ace-queen."

Police uncover teen gang den

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) —Police here Monday discovered the hideaway headquarters of a band of teen-agers who called themselves the "Hades Mad Pad Group."

Officers found detailed records of the group-activities inside a tarpaper-covered hut hidden in this well-to-do residential area.

They also recovered a carload of equipment including shovels, ropes, books, a camera, wrenches and a box used for depositing fines collected from members who broke self-imposed rules.

COP CALLER—What is it? This man is using a new police alarm, similar to a corner fire alarm box, which is being tried out in Hamburg, Germany. The user lifts a door in one side of the sidewalk alarm and is immediately connected by phone with a police station. With the door open, the user can give messages to and receive instructions from the police station. A light atop the alarm goes on when the door is open, signalling patrolling gendarmes that the box is in use and discouraging persons who might turn in false alarms.
