Swedish-U.S. backers seen for title go

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)—The return fight between world heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson—the man he dethroned—will be held in New York under the probable promotion of Swedish-American backers, Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's adviser, said Thursday.

Ahlquist, who claims sufficient capital already has been obtained, said in an interview that he plans to go to the United States within the next few days to look over the situation.

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager; Bill Rosensohn, promoter of the first fight, and Rosensohn Enterprises, which has rights to the return match, have been directed to show cause why their licences should not be revoked in New York state.

TROPHIES PRESENTED

Pony League value stressed at banquet

Value of Pony League baseball as a deterrent for mischief by teenage boys and the need for considerably more parental support at games, was stressed at the annual Pony League banquet in the Canadian Legion last night.

The Pony League climax to its successful season, attended by more than 100 players, officials, sponsors, parents and guests, saw presentation of awards by Mayor P. J. Lester.

Bruce Kerr, skipper of the playoff winning Gyros' received the Esquire trophy and Moose captain John Olsen received the Nelson Brothers Fisheries trophy for topping league play.

MISSED LOT OF FUN

Parents who didn't go up to Roosevelt Park to see Pony League games this past summer "missed a lot of fun," W. D. Lambie, Gyro club representative said.

"Some of the exciting pitchers' duels and the coolness of the players at these games was worth anything to see," Mr. Lambie said.

After a plea for more parental attendance at next year's games, Mr. Lambie paid tribute to Gyro coach Ray Giordano for "his hard work during the season."

Donald Crowe, representative of the Elks team sponsors said that parents should go up to the games to see what "Pony League is doing for the community in the way of keeping boys off the streets."

KEEP OUT OF TROUBLE

Master of ceremonies Len Harrington said that boys connected with groups such as Pony League "will not get into trouble.

"Playing in an organized group and practicing teamwork builds good citizens," he said.

Other speakers were Stu Meldrum, Moose coach and Conrad Ganzenberg representing Nelson Brothers Fisheries.

Films of the 1958 World Series and "100 Years of Baseball" concluded the evening's entertainment.

Champ sets sights on Ray Robinson

CALGARY (CP)—Wilf Greaves of Edmonton, hoping for a big payday next month against Sugar Ray Robinson, knocked out Leroy Flamond of Calgary Thursday night to retain his Canadian middleweight boxing crown.

Greaves, 23, who won the title from Cobey McCluskey 18 months ago, floored Flamond with a belt-high left hook at 1:42 of the fourth round in their scheduled 12-rounder.

Flamond, apparently in pain and pointing to his groin as he staggered to his corner, protested that he was victim of a low blow but referee Barney Ross figured otherwise.

BACK TO NEW YORK

Greaves returns to New York to prepare for a November 13 date with Robinson, recognized in the state of New York and Massachusetts as world middleweight king. Greaves is not among the top 10 challengers.

The victory gave Greaves 32 wins and a draw in 45 fights. Flamond, who does most of his fighting in United States Pacific coast cities, has 30 wins in 39 fights. The champion, weighed in at 160 pounds, the class limit, had a two-pound edge over his 22-year-old opponent.

Greaves showed his experience in the infighting, connecting repeatedly because of Flamond's inability to tie up the champion. Unable to defend himself against Greaves' jabs, he absorbed a lot of punishment.

BOTH CUT

Both fighters were cut in the third, Greaves bleeding from the nose and Flamond from a cut alongside the nose.

Greaves opened with a flurry of jabs and appeared determined to end the fight in a hurry. Flamond came back strong in the second and rocked Greaves at the bell.

Flamond was the aggressor in the third but Greaves concentrated on the body and several times had Flamond gasping for breath. With Flamond again forcing the match in the fourth, Greaves ended it with one punch.

Hockey league lead at stake in tilt tonight

RCMP and Savoy Hotel both have similar goals in the Senior Floor Hockey league game scheduled for 8:30 tonight at the Civic Centre.

The police squad is seeking another win which will place it in undisputed possession of first place with two victories and no losses.

The hotelmen, who've been beaten once, are after their first triumph, in which event the league will have four teams tied for first place. Parkers and Sports Shop both have 1-1 records.

In the junior loop Sports Shop meet Bob Parkers at 7 p.m.

Thompson off to fast start in Celco loop

Peggy Thompson, one of last year's top women keglers, has started to burn up the local alleys again.

Wednesday night, in Celco City Bowling league play, she rolled a high single of 290 and a three-game tally of 721 to lead A League.

Also taking twin laurels were Chris Currie of Johnson's Outboards and Jerry Somerville of Kelly Douglas to lead B League.

Somerville roled a Men's singe of 303 and a total of 731 in three games while Currie came through with a single of 227 and 588 for high three for the women.

Co-Op captured team high single with 1104 and Rupert Taxi put together 2982 for team triple.

Back in A League, John Pallister of Eric's Grocery and Bill Yerema of Oceanview Angels won men's high single and three with scores of 286 and 732 respectively.
