Polluted water

A clear flowing stream may look appealing to hikers but the water could be polluted. When going on a hike, a vacuum bottle of water should be taken from home or obtained from a regularly used pump along the way. A druggist will advise on commercial water purifiers that can be used safely.

FAST RELIEF FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

Francois Lake news

By AGNES H. NEAVE

Now that it has been found that yellow is the safest color to wear in the woods as it shows up better than red, it is going to be interesting to watch the hunters coming in with yellow caps and jackets next year. May be good business for the Sports-wear people.

I made a mistake last week in saying that we now have 40 homes on our circuit now that the district has been divided up. I meant to say that we now have only 10. There is a new system installed with a Carrier Station here at the Landing. This is a sort of radio, and now our rings come in loudly and the voices are very clear.

It has one disadvantage though, for as it is power operated, and if there is a power failure the whole south country here will be without phones.

I was telling our Power Commission Manager in Burns Lake that in future we will not be able to phone in to the office and tell them that our power is off, but he laughed and said that they know well enough when it is off without being told.

When Hugh tells his youngsters stories before bed-time he tells us that whenever he tells about Cinderella in the kitchen small six-years-old Marie weeps pathetically until things look up for the poor girl. This is another side of her character to us for she watches without a qualm when Hugh dissects rabbits or chickens, and watches the puppies having their tails docked.

Hugh drove sixty miles on Saturday towards Tahtsa looking for a moose but did not see one although one crossed the road after he drove over a short time before. On Monday morning he was driving home from Burns Lake when three crossed the road in front of him, one after the other! He did not have a rifle with him.
