Player Stumbles Into Defensive Play That Leaves Everybody Puzzled and Mad

"I tell you, Muzzy and I beat this contract three tricks," asserted Mr. Dale.

"You can't do it," Mr. Champion blustered. "There's nothing to the hand except the heart finesse. Either it's right and you make nine tricks or it's wrong and you don't. How can you set three no trump with a club opening?"

"Muzzy didn't open a club," replied Mr. Dale, patiently. "He led the ace of spades."

"Oh no!" sobbed Mr. Champion, burying his face in his hands.

"Wait a minute," said Mr. Dale. "It turned out beautifully. Here's what happened. On the deal before this one, Muzzy had led fourth best from A Q 4 2 against a suit contract. In spite of the fact that it got us a sensationally good result, Mr. East saw fit to lecture Muzzy on leading away from an ace-queen. He said it should never be done.

'MISUNDERSTOOD'

"But Muzzy misunderstood. He thought Mr. East was merely criticizing the lead of the fourth best from such a holding and recommending the lead of the ace.

"Anyway," Mr. Dale continued, "there Muzzy sat with another ace-queen combination — and he led the ace. Then he asked what the contract was. Told it was three no trump, he was quite upset. After some thought he switched to the four of hearts.

"The effect of all this on Mr. East was devastating. Naturally enough, he deduced that Muzzy thought he was playing against a suit contract and that he had opened from an ace doubleton in spades, hoping to get a third round ruff.

LOSES TRICK

"He won the second trick with dummy's king of hearts and led a spade to take what he thought was a marked finesse. He put in the nine and Muzzy won with the 10 and led back the four of hearts.

"At this point," Mr. Dale went on, "Mr. East was sure it was necessary to keep me out of the lead because he felt sure the ace of clubs was behind his thinly guarded king. He went up with the ace of hearts and took another spade finesse.

"Muzzy won, cashed the queen of hearts, led to my ace of clubs and I cashed two more heart tricks. Down three! How do you like Muzzy's defence?"

Mr. Champion couldn't answer. He appeared dazed.

"They don't push me around," said Mr. Muzzy, proudly.

Kemano Inquest Being Held Here

Inquest into the death of John P. Reynolds, who lost his life several weeks ago as a result of injuries at Kemano, is being held today before Coroner E. D. Forward.

The burial of Reynolds, who passed away in hospital at Prince Rupert, took place in Vancouver last Thursday, service being held at St. Jude's Church, with Rev. Father Campbell officiating.

Interment was in the Returned Soldiers' plot at Mountain View. Mr. Reynolds, who was born in England, had made his home in Vancouver, and was a Great War veteran.

Price of Coal Still Mounts

The cost of coal in Vancouver jumped $1.50 a ton late last week. This was the advance for British Columbia coal. For the Alberta product, the increase was from 25 to 75 cents.

On Vancouver Island, the price now is $19.90. In Alberta, briquettes are up about a dollar.

Teamsters have added 75 cents a ton for haulage.
