TIME AND PLACE

the trip ended I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Crawford an learned to call him Bill as everybody else does.

I think he was sincere in his convictions about this great land North of 53. as he still remains a stalwart citizen and champion of Stewart. For Bill's sake, I'm glad to say that this great land North of 53 looks like it may come into its own at long last, through its well-known mineral resources. There is nothing like a road through a country and people using it to open up a country. Guess Bill is like me in a way though, would like to get back a few years and be in on it.

The monument marking the 53rd parallel is only a few miles from Smithers and we often take a gander over the border into this rich and promised land.

Blackwood on BRIDGE

Mr. Masters was watching Mr. Muzzy play this one. Again Mr. Muzzy was lucky because the setup of cards was such that his particular style of play was bound to be successful.

The four of hearts was led and dummy ruffed. Now Mr. Muzzy pulled two rounds of trumps and cashed the king of clubs. The next play was the crucial one. With nine cards of a suit in the two hands, the odds are slightly in favor of laying down the ace and king in an effort to drop the queen.

Mr. Muzzy

But Mr. Muzzy loves to finesse. Without a moment's thought he led another club and finessed dummy's jack. This made the contract for him. The diamond finesse lost but that was the only trick the defenders got.

"Everything happens to me," said Mr. Heinsite disgustedly. "They go against the odds and it turns out right. Muzzy, supose I'd had the queen of clubs with my ten?"

Mr. Masters smiled.

"There's no getting away from it this time," he said, "Muzzy's play of the club was absolutely right.

"Suppose he'd finessed and you'd won with the queen. What would you have returned A heart, to let Muzzy pitch a diamond while ruffing in dummy? Or a diamond which would go right into dummy's tenace? In either case the contract would be made.

"In other words, the contract was safe as long as a club trick was not lost to Abel. That would have been ruinous because Abel would have had a safe return—a diamond through dummy's ace-queen."

"Well, the play may have been correct," conceded Mr. Heinsite sulkily, "but what burns me up is that Muzzy didn't even know what he was doing."

"Don't be silly, I knew I had you squeezed from the start," was Mr. Muzzy's somewhat bewildering reply.
