AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Father & son banquet said "most successful"

The Sixth Prince Rupert Cub Pack and Scout Troop enjoyed one of its "most successful" Father and Son banquets held in the First Baptist church hall last night when 68 fathers and sons gathered to eat delectable hot casseroles and salads.

Chairman of the group committee, Mrs. T. A. Johnstone, following the meal, welcomed the fathers and introduced the leaders.

Receiving applause were Cubmaster Edwin Sorge and assistants Wally Verwold and Hilmar Domreis and Scoutmaster Lloyd Bowman and assistant David Gache.

"One of the most outstanding events which occurred this year was the formation of the Scout Troop in January," Mrs. Johnstone said.

Mrs. Johnstone then presented a Scout flag to the Troop as a gift from the group committee. Patrol Leader Larry Bowman, on behalf of the Troop accepted the flag.

District Commissioner E. A. Williamson congratulated the boys and their fathers on their almost 100 per cent turnout. He then presented Cubmaster Sorge with his part 2 wood badge course certificate.

The commissioner announced that a Scouters' training course would be held in the city on April 18, 19 and 20 and encouraged fathers to attend some of the meeting which he said would be of great value to them.

Mervin Martin, president of the District Boy Scouts association stressed the values of Scouting and said that the lessons learned and the knowledge acquired would aid the boys throughout their lives.

A hilarious skit was presented by the Cubs and their fathers entitled "Sap Running in the Woods".

Patrol Leader Larry Bowman, Patrol Seconder Jimmy Greer and Scouts John Mullin, Wayne Wicks, Bruce Hansen and Gordon Duplisse then presented a skit entitled "The Sign of Three".

In a bean bag rope jumping contest, in which the fathers also entered, Harold Britten took first honors and was presented with a huge medal inscribed with "Champion 1959 jumping (old) bean".

To conclude the event the five leaders rendered humorous songs "The Porridge Tragedy", and "While the Organ Peeled Potatoes", accompanied by Lloyd Bowman on the ukelele.

Women directing the kitchen were Mrs. G. W. Johnstone, Mrs. P. H. Lindzey, Mrs. Sorge, Mrs. J. S. Greer, Mrs. Ratchford and Mrs. Bowman.

Grace was said by church pastor Rev. J. A. Roskam.

On the group committee with Mrs. Johnstone are Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. Greer, Mr. Ratchford, A. E. Jones and Mr. Roskam.

BEAUTIFUL—BUT WHAT IS IT?—The pictures are samples of the contemporary Yugoslav Graphic Art collection loaned to the Prince Rupert Art club by the National Gallery of Ottawa, which will be shown to the public next Tuesday and Wednesday nights in the Civic Centre auditorium. At top Mrs. Frederick Hertha admires one of the controversial paintings, which she says "must be seen to be appreciated". Coming to lecture and explain the collection is Miss Nora McCullough, representative of the National Gallery. She will be in attendance at 8:15 both nights. Also on display will be the fourth annual Canadian Artists exhibition from Winnipeg and a collection of water colors by well-known British Columbia artists. —Photos by Eugene Mah.

Two of Charles Dickens' greatest contributions were to the observance of Christmas and to prison reform. His "Christmas Carol," with the unforgettable reform of Scrooge, is recalled in the plum puddings and stagecoaches that decorate many Christmas cards. His writings also greatly influenced the change of laws which imprisoned men for debt. Dickens' own father spent time in a debtor's prison.

JONES-LINEHAM VOWS

Victoria United church rites holds wide interest in city

Of wide interest in Prince Rupert and Victoria was the March 7 wedding performed in the Centennial United and Victoria was the March 7 wedding riage Sylvia Lineham and Robert Hugh Jones.

Rev. Douglas Carr officiated at the afternoon ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lineham, formerly of this city and the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Jones of Victoria.

Walking down the aisle on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in white daisy print nylon chiffon-over white satin, fashioned in street length. The semi-flared skirt fell from a fitted bodice featuring a portrait collar. A petite white hat edged with a tiny vail, completed her ensemble and she carried a bouquet of red carnations and white sprays.

Her only attendant, Mrs. R. Austin of Victoria was gowned in a navy blue sheath, accented with white accessories. Pink carnations added a pretty tone to her outfit.

Best man was Robert Jensen, lifelong friend of the bridal couple, formely of this city and now living in Vancouver.

A reception, attended by some 75 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents in Victoria, which was attractively decorated with profusions of spring bouquets.

Receiving the guests, Mrs. Lineham chose to wear a flowered silk gown and white accessories while the groom's mother was in navy blue chiffon.

Congratulatory telegrams were received from Prince Rupert, Dawson Creek and Terrace.

The newlyweds spent a week's honeymoon on Vancouver Island before leaving for Dawson Creek where Mr. Jones is in the plumbing business and Mrs. Jones is employed as a telephone operator.

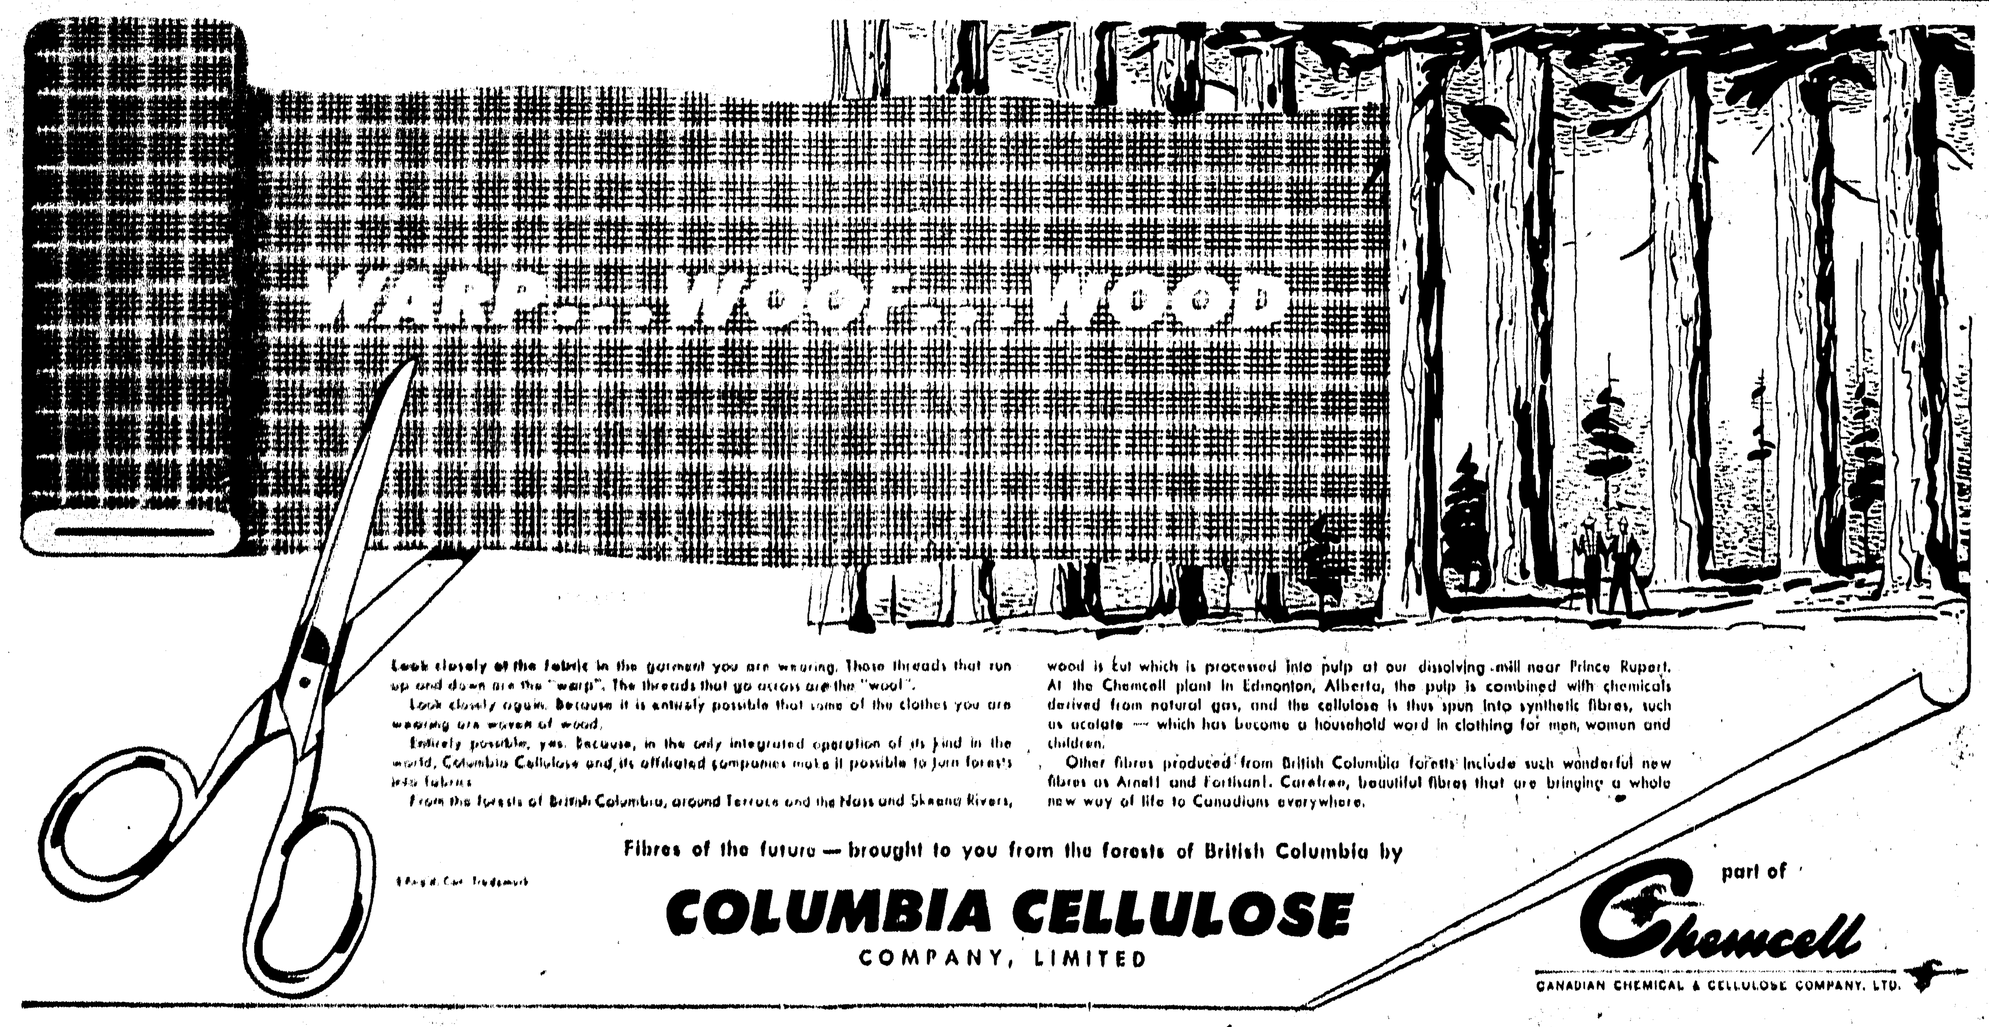
PRINTED PATTERN

[illegible]



Look closely at the fabric in the garment you are wearing. Those threads that run up and down are the "warp". The threads that go across are the "woof".

Look closely again. Because it is entirely possible that some of the clothes you are wearing are woven of wood.

Entirely possible, yes. Because, in the only integrated operation of its kind in the world, Columbia Cellulose and its affiliated companies make it possible to turn forests into fabrics.

From the forests of British Columbia, around Terrace and the Nass and Skeena Rivers, wood is cut which is processed into pulp at our dissolving mill near Prince Rupert. At the Chemcell plant in Edmonton, Alberta, the pulp is combined with chemicals derived from natural gas, and the cellulose is thus spun into synthetic fibres, such as acetate — which has become a household word in clothing for men, women and children.

Other fibres produced from British Columbia forests include such wonderful new fibres as Arnel and Fortisan. Caretree, beautiful fibres that are bringing a whole new way of life to Canadians everywhere.
