Golf rules amended in Scotland

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Golfers will be allowed to clean a ball on the green, repair pitch marks and feel the turf on the green to test it under amendments to the rules announced by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club Tuesday night.

The changes, approved after agreement with the U.S. Golf Association, come into force next Jan. 1.

The two-stroke penalty for striking another player's ball is extended. In future it will apply in any case when both balls lie on the green—not just when they are within 20 yards of the hole.

At the curling club

By BOB RUDDERHAM

Once more it's later than you think and in a little more than a month from now we will be once more pitting our skill, flukes, and luck against some friendly antagonist in the great game played "wi' besome an' stane."

With the summer we have enjoyed, we should have carried on right through the months of April to September.

I have been advised that the building which is to house our refrigeration machinery has been completed and some of the machinery is sitting on their beds right now, waiting for the installation job.

The roof, which gave us a few headaches last year, has been totally renewed thus removing one more alibi for missing shots. Can't say any more that a hump in the ice caused your rock to veer off crazily and miss that shot. It's getting to the state when the only reason for missing a shot these days is by missing the broom.

Bert Field has advised me that he needs a few more entries as there has been a few of our membership that have pulled up stakes and moved to the south.

Doug Souter and Harvey Stewart are two that come to mind right now and of course we lost one of our old stalwarts, Lindsay Eby, this spring.

Lindsay, despite his age, was one of the hardest workers we had when the club was first formed. He served tirelessly on the executive as the House and Ice Committee Chairman as well for a few years. He will be sorely missed.

Our semi-annual meeting will be coming up in the early part of October so now's the time to jot down anything of importance for presentation to the meeting.

It is a good idea to do it now as it is easily forgotten in some discussion at the meetings.

In my wanderings around town this summer I have heard many members express their interest in curling only one night a week instead of two. These are the busy people who have other functions to attend every week and they feel that if they could have one night a week out at the rink, they would be satisfied.

Perhaps one draw on Thursday night for example, would handle all these members and not interfere with the rest of the membership curling. It would be a good thing if it could work out and I think all efforts should be made for their consideration.

It appears that School Curling will get a good shot in the arm this year as one of the new members we have signed up is a coach of some experience from Prince George. His name will not be hard to remember for avid sports fans as he is called by Ted Williams.

He is not the Splendid Spinter of Boston Red Sox fame but has shown that he knows what he is doing, if you remember the results of the Prince George High School Curling Rink.

Well, I guess that's it. If you are a prospective member of the club, the best place to do anything about it is to go down to Lindsay's Cartage & Storage on First Avenue and ask for Bert Field. The School Curling Club is also advised to get in touch with him as soon as possible.
