LONDON (AP) — This year's motor show opening at Earls Court October 21 will have Russian cars among latest models from Britain, the U.S., Canada, Italy, France, Germany, Holland, Sweden and Czechoslovakia.

Still tickets for nurses ball to be held tomorrow in Armoury

Some tickets for the season's gala social function, the "Nurses Bursary Ball," are still available and may be obtained from Mrs. J. L. Kelly, superintendent of nurses at the Prince Rupert General hospital, dance convener Mrs. Victor Pick said today.

To be held tomorrow night in the Armoury, proceeds from the funfare event will go towards the $150 nurse's bursary fund.

The decor of autumn foliage and candlelight in a cabaret setting is being handled by decoration chairman, Mrs. Arthur Ogilvie.

A six-piece orchestra and a buffet supper are also billed on the program.

United church rites of interest here, England, United States

England and United States shared interest in the wedding performed at First United Church September 4 when Jean Thompson, RN, and Franz Loy were united in marriage before the altar adorned with bouquets of autumn flowers.

Rev. Dr. Robert Elliott officiated at the evening ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson of Leeds, Yorkshire, England and the son of Hans Loy of Chicago, Illinois, and the late Mrs. Loy.

The bride chose a brocade gown of white in three-quarter length. The voluminous skirt fell from a fitted bodice, styled with long sleeves tapered to lily points and a sweetheart neckline. A wreath of white roses gracefully secured her illusion net chapel veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was given in marriage by Douglas Simpson of this city.

Bridesmaid was Miss Joan Booth, RN, who wore a pale blue nylon gown in three-quarter length. Hre dainty bandeau was matching and she carried pink carnations.

Fritz Brauer was best man.

The reception was held in the nurse's lounge at Miller Bay Indian hospital, where the bride is on the nursing staff.

Mr. Simpson proposed the bridal toast and Miss Marline Travis was in charge of reception arrangements.

Newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Vancouver, making the journey by train via Jasper.

For travelling Mrs. Loy wore a suit of royal blue off-set with brown accessories.

They have taken up residence at 1151 Eighth Avenue East. Mr. Loy is employed with Canadian National Railways.

45-year sea-going career ends for Captain Caldwell

Special to The Daily News

VANCOUVER— Captain Ernest B. Caldwell, master of Canadian National Steamships' Pacific coast cruise vessel, "Prince George," and a widely-known figure in marine circles, Wednesday completed the last voyage of a sea-going career spanning 45 years. His retirement takes effect January 31, 1960.

Several years as skipper of CNSS cruise vessels in B.C.-Alaska service earned Capt. Caldwell a host of friends from all parts of the world.

Born in Vancouver, Capt. Caldwell began his marine career in 1914 as a seaman with the Pacific Coast Service of the former Canadian Government Merchant Marine. From 1916 to 1920 he was in England with the admiralty transport service and later served on American ships sailing out of Philadelphia on the Atlantic coast run.

He joined the CN Steamships in 1925 as quartermaster on the "Prince Charles" and became third officer the following year. He became a captain in 1943 when he took command of the "Prince Rupert."

Capt. Caldwell has been master of the "Prince George" since June 1948, when the ship entered British Columbia-Alaska service after her completion as Esquimalt, B.C.

By coincidence, Capt. Caldwell's last voyage was a cruise specially chartered by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the same group which engaged the vessel on its maiden trip.
