Flyers lose, then win next night

By The Canadian Press

Edmonton Flyers chopped down Seattle Totems 5-2 Sunday night in the third clash this season between the top clubs in the Western Hockey League's prairie and coast divisions respectively.

The two had split victories in the earlier matches.

It was an ironic victory for the Flyers, who themselves had been trimmed 4-2 Saturday night in New Westminster by the Royals, holding down last place in the coast division. Seattle had proved its superiority in its home division by defeating fourth-place Spokane Flyers 5-2 Saturday in Spokane.

In other Saturday games Calgary Stampeders downed Winnipeg Warriors 5-2 at Calgary and Victoria Cougars and Vancouver Canucks played to a 2-2 tie in Victoria. In Sunday's second game Victoria edged Vancouver 1-0 in Vancouver.

The weekend results left Seattle and Vancouver firmly in first and second standings in the coast division. Victoria moved up into third, a point ahead of Spokane and two ahead of New Westminster.

Prairie standings were unchanged. Flyers remain well in front of second-place Calgary, whose victory over last-place Winnipeg left them three points ahead of Saskatoon.

Professional Drivers List Safety Rules

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

SOUND ADVICE for safety groups, motorists and police officials came out of a recent discussion by a select group of men who pilot buses, trucks, taxi cabs and other commercial vehicles.

These professional drivers were asked by the American Trucking Association to analyze the current traffic situation and then suggest ways to cut the accident rate. Here are their proposals:

Miss Smith

• 1. Promote uniformity of traffic laws and traffic signs throughout the country.

2. Stress the importance of other traffic violations besides speeding (such as following too closely behind other vehicles, passing on hills or curves and disregarding stop signs).

3. Provide better markings for the shoulder, middle strip and passing zone on secondary roads.

4. Institute driver clinics for habitual traffic violators.

5. Increase the number of roadside parks, and encourage drivers to take a rest every so often.

6. Stress to parents the importance of setting a good example for younger drivers.

7. Post signs reminding drivers to check their speed, such as "How Fast Are You Going Now?" and "Are You Within the Speed Limit?"

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Playing with an eye to safety is commendable but in today's deal Mrs. Keen played it safe at the wrong time and in the wrong suit. She lost her contract at the very first trick.

The opening lead was the queen of hearts and in an excess of caution she let it hold. Now the holdup is an excellent play, designed to cut the communications between the defender's hands. But sometimes you cannot afford to use it because it is overshadowed by some other consideration.

Such was the case here. The important thing was to make sure of preserving the ace of hearts as an entry to dummy later in the play.

At trick two Mr. Meek led the four of hearts and dummy's ace had to be played. Mrs. Keen then made a fine play in the club suit. To avoid losing two club tricks if one opponent had four to the queen-ten, she led the ace first and followed with the deuce, intending to play her nine spot if Mr. Masters played low. But on the second club Mr. Masters went up with the ten.

Mr. Masters

Mrs. Keen won with the king and returned the nine, feeling quite satisfied with the way she had handled the suit. Her elation was short-lived, however, when Mr. Masters let the nine win.

This good defensive play made it impossible for her to win any more clubs. She needed two entries to dummy—one to knock out the queen and one to get back for the fifth club. She had only one entry, the ace of diamonds.

The contract could have been made if the first trick had been won in the closed hand with the king of hearts. Mrs. Keen then could have played the clubs as she actually did, cashing the ace first and following with a small one toward her king-nine. If Mr. Masters played small, the nine would win. If the nine lost to the queen or 10 in Mr. Meek's hand, that would be all right, too, as it would mean that the clubs had broken 3-2 and that four tricks were readily available in the suit.

In any case, the best play was to take the lead at the first opportunity and set the club suit while both red aces were still on the board for entries.

Ghana, Guinea form union

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters) — Ghana and Guinea, "inspired by the example of the 13 American colonies," Sunday declared their agreement to "constitute our two states as the nucleus of a union of West African states."

In a second declaration, Ghana agreed, subject to parliamentary approval, to grant a loan of £10,000,000 ($28,000,000) to newly independent Guinea.

Leaders of the two countries said they hope other States now under foreign rule will join the union.

Guina, formerly a French colony, got its independence last September by voting against the new constitution proposed by Premier Charles de Gaulle.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Students registered for the current term at the University of British Columbia number 9,918, an increase of 11 per cent over a year ago.
