BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

THE safety play necessary to make the contract in today's deal is a type which comes up rather frequently.

The opening lead was the queen of hearts and Mr. Dale had to make the right play at the very first trick. Unless the matter of entries is involved, the routine play would be to duck and win in the closed hand. That would have ben fatal in this case.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	4 ♦	Pass	5 ♦
All Pass

Opening lead: Queen of hearts.

Mr. Dale made no such error. He went right up with dummy's ace. He then led a small diamond to his king and Mr. Abel won with the ace and returned the jack of hearts. Miss Brash ruffed—but that was the last trick the defenders could take.

Mr. Dale's reasoning was simple but effective. Hearts had been bid on his left and Mr. Abel could be counted on to hold at least five cards in the suit. If he held six, then Miss Brash had a singleton and could ruff the second round. Since the enemy had the ace of trumps, the lead would have to be surrendered before all the opposing trumps could be picked up.

The point was that Mr. Dale had a heart loser and his play at trick one was an effort to arrange for Miss Brash to ruff his losing heart—not one of his heart honors.

Suppose he had won the first trick in his hand with the king of hearts. His next lead would be a trump and Mr. Abel would win with the ace. Now on the return of the jack of hearts, dummy's ace would be caught in the middle.

If Mr. Dale ducked in dummy, the jack would win and Miss Brash would ruff the next heart lead. If he put up dummy's ace, Miss Brash would ruff and there would be a heart loser at the end.

As the hand was actually played, however, Miss Brash ruffed a heart trick on which Mr. Dale played the five from dummy and the eight from his own hand. This was the heart trick he had to lose anyway.

Rocks tangle with Brampton in boxla play

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—The Brampton, Ont., Excelsiors, last year's Minto Cup winners, and the Victoria Shamrocks, finalists last year, will open the 1958 Minto Cup lacrosse playoffs in Trail, Doug Fletcher of Victoria announced here Thursday night.

Brampton leaves today for Trail for the best-of-seven series against the Shamrocks, who won the Western Canada crown Thursday night by downing the Rossland-Trail Centennials 10-8 to take the best-of-three series 2-0.
