Civic Centre show popular attraction

More than 400 parents, relatives and friends turned out Friday and Saturday nights to applaud the two-night Civic Centre association presentation Varieties of 1959.

The "Varieties", a cross between a dance review and an old Pro-Rec display, included Civic Centre class members demonstrating talents learned under Centre instructors plus acts by guest artists.

For slightly more than two hours master-of-ceremonies Len Harrington introduced athletes performing tumbling, callisthenics, bar work and boxing, Scots dancers, tap and ballet dancers.

Scoring a big hit with the audience were Ern Peterson's Rhythm band in two instrumental and two vocal numbers and the five and six year olds of Mrs. F. R. Peagam's Tiny Tots class who marched and performed tumbing under the direction of instructor Nelson Kinney assisted by Mrs. Clifford Bartlett.

Directed by volunteer acrobatic instructor Nelson Kinney, junior girls and boys performed tumbling and callisthenics, intermediate girls Linda Johnson, Louise and Shirley Thomas gave a demonstration of Olympic bar work, senior boys did pyramid work, tumbling and vaulting box routines.

Nelson Kinney and Richard Miller performed on the parallel bars.

Dancers from Civic Centre dance instructor Libby Hemmons' class, Judy Grimolfson performed a tap hula and Shirley Thomas a ballet number, while tap group presented "Queen of the Hop".

Members of Miss Darlene Cummine's Scots dancing school, Gail Bartlett, Janet McDonald, Ellen Wardrope, Patsy Kerrighan, Marilyn McDonald and Mary Burns danced a sword dance and highland fling, to music provided by Piper J. F. Munro. Piper Munro also accompanied John Arduini's Irish Jig.

Junior Boxing class members John Menard, Murray Brown, Doug Guyatt and Bobby Donaldson gave a display of boxing under the direction of Dick Ayres.

Three Booth Memorial High school performers Don Scott, Ray Windle and Ronnie Roberts under the direction of Len Harrington presented a skit called "Coplas".

The audience was welcomed by Civic Centre manager Jacob Vandenbrink.

Four city Queen Scouts guests at banquet held in their honor

High praise and encouragement was given to Prince Rupert's four Queen Scouts Saturday night at a dinner in their honor staged by the Prince Rupert District Boy Scout Association executive.

The four boys, Wayne Watmough, Richard Reekie, Robert Gordon and Thomas Harding, recently returned from Victoria where they received Scouting's highest honor.

About 40 parents, guests and scouters attended the dinner in the Prince Rupert Hotel banquet room.

In an impressive address, E. T. Applewhaite, executive member of the Boy Scout Association, told the boys "We are giving this dinner because we are very proud of you".

"It's fellows like you we can count on to beat bad citizenship", Mr. Applewhaite said.

He told the boys they are part of the largest service club in the world as the world brotherhood of Scouting is much similar to a service club.

"You have not come to the end of your rope, you're only at the beginning", he said.

"We can count on you to be the type of a fellow you are today until you die."

Scout Commissioner E. A. Williamson said "the example you boys have set will result in increased effort all across Canada".

Mr. Williamson said he would be remiss if he did not mention the people who made it possible for the boys to attend the investiture in Victoria.

He lauded the Prince Rupert District Boy Scout Association, the group committee and "the dedicated men and women Scouters who donated much of their time".

Mr. Williamson said "I suggest to these four boys, as they stand on their high pinnacle, to glance down the slope and thank God they have the Scoutmasters who have led them so well".

There are a total of 42 leaders in this district.

Mr. Williamson also thanked The Daily News for its contributing to the success of Scouting by keeping the public informed of Scout activities.

Mayor P. J. Lester congratulated the boys on behalf of the city. "Prince Rupert is proud of you", he said.

The Mayor said "Your investiture as Queen Scouts is the result of self discipline, perserverence and ability".

"You are a credit to your parents, city and country."

F. E. Anfield, former city Scout commissioner, now living in Vancouver, told the four boys that Scouting is not easy here as it is in other places "but it is more fun".

He said there is something about the north country that there is not anywhere else.

"It is a privilege to scout under tough conditions", he said and added "I wish you well, good luck and good Scouting".

M. E. Martin, president of the local Scout association was chairman for the evening.

An outline of the trip was given by each boy.

The boys thanked everyone who helped make the trip possible.

Rev. J. A. Roskam said grace and E. A. Gordon proposed the toast to the Queen.

Brief for Chant commission to be reviewed at Booth PTA

A review of Booth Memorial High school Parent-Teacher association's brief to the Chant Royal Commission on Education will feature the high school's PTA meeting Wednesday night.

The brief, to be presented to the Royal Commission when it holds hearings in Prince Rupert May 6, was evolved after two general meeting discussions and work by a brief committee set up to investigate and review PTA membership suggestions.

Also scheduled for Wednesday night's meeting in the Booth High school activity room are reports from delegates to the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation and principal R. F. Lucas.

Congregation join in cathedral service

Congregations from First Presbyterian church and St. Andrew's Anglican cathedral joined in a special choral evensong last night at the cathedral.

Boys and girls choirs from both churches took part in the service conducted by Rev. R. C. Corbeil, deacon in charge of St. Andrew's, assisted by Rev. Ivan S. Gamble, pastor of First Presbyterian church.

The choirs were under the direction of Mrs. William C. Hankinson while Mrs. E. J. Smith was organist.

Anthems sung by the combined choirs were: "Christ the Lord is Risen" (Haydn-Brahms): "Holy is the Lord Our God" (Vogler); Davies' "The Shepherd" by the Senior Girls; Baynon's "A Child's Thanksgiving" sung by soloist Michael Hill; Gluck's "Gracious Saviour"; "For Beauty of the Earth"; Handel's "How Beautiful are the Feet" sung by soloist Valerie Dearden and "Allelula", (O'Connor Morris).

Rev. Ivan Gamble read the lesson.

Offering at the joint service went toward the purchase of junior choir vestments.

LOOM, WOTM honor dead

Members of the Loyal Order of the Moose and the Women of the Moose gathered at the Moose Temple Sunday to take part in an impressive ceremony in honor of deceased members.

The service was conducted by Governor-elect Thomas Thomas with prelate Arnold Assman offering the prayers. Past-governor George Robinson gave the oration. Soloists during the rites were Mrs. Thomas White and Mrs. Lewis Holder.

The service was concluded with 12 members of the WOTM forming a Memory Cross. After the ceremony flowers were taken to Fairview cemetery to be placed on graves in the Moose plot.
