AL LOPEZ

Chisox Lopez handed new contract

CHICAGO (AP)—A record Chicago White Sox contract, calling for an estimated $50,000, Tuesday was handed manager Al Lopez to direct the American League pennant winners again in 1960.

The contract signing was announced by Sox President Bill Veeck who said Lopez was rehired only for next year at his own request.

There had been mention that Lopez might be a candidate to succeed Casey Stengel, the gnarled manager of New York Yankees, if and when old Casey departs from New York. Stengel already has been certified by the Yankee front office as the club's manager for 1960.

CORN RECORD

World production of corn in 1958 is estimated at a record 7,300,000,000 bushels, including 3,800,000,000 in the U.S.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

It's a pleasure to watch Mrs. Fusty operate at the bridge table. She brings an atmosphere of courtesy and good manners—elements which (it is rumored) are not always present in the game as it is played today.

She bows to no man on the technical aspects of bidding and play. She may miss one of the newer bidding conventions now and then but usually she manages to land in the right spot anyway. And some of the plays she makes are positively exotic.

Her handling of today's deal at a six spade contract couldn't have been better if she had been able to see all 52 cards.

The king of diamonds was led and she won in dummy with the ace. Noting that the hand was not quite what you would call a lay-down, she embarked on a dummy reversal campaign.

Mrs. Fusty

At trick two she led a diamond from the board ruffed it with the ace of spades. She led the six of spades to dummy's eight, returned another diamond and ruffed it with the king of spades.

Now the ten of spades was overtaken with dummy's jack. The last diamond from the board was ruffed in the closed hand with the queen of spades.

Opening lead: King of diamonds

At this point Mrs. Fusty was out of trumps and there was still one trump in the hands of the enemy. So she led a small heart to the queen in dummy and cashed the nine of spades, on which she discarded the four of clubs.

Next she led a small heart to her king. When she cashed the ace of hearts she was pleased to see that it was Mr. Champion who showed out. Now she simply led her last heart and Mr. Abel was in with the jack. He returned a club because he had nothing else to lead. Dummy's queen and ace of clubs took the last two tricks.

Courtesy must be contagious because even Mr. Champion felt contrained to murmur, "Nice play," and praise for an opponent, coming from him, is something of a minor miracle.

Francois Lake news

By AGNES H. NEAVE

Mr. and Mrs. John Evensen of Prince George spent a few days here at the beginning of the week. Mrs. Evensen was Margaret Macdonald and was born at the little Mission Hospital at Southbank. Her father was a surveyor, and he and the family left here when she was only seven years old. She now has five children, and was anxious to return and meet again the friends she remembers who still live here.

Now that is legal to bring out 20 boxes of fruit from the Kelowna district, folk here are making pilgrimages and bringing back fruit for canning and eating fresh, as it is so cheap there. It also gives them a little break, and the roads are good.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Eyolfson stopped for a short visit on their way home to Prince Rupert from Vancouver, where they have been spending their holidays. With them was their daughter Miss Anne who has recently graduated in the Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Taylor and Miss Patricia also called. It is three years since they were here last.

TRAIL (CP) — The three-team Western International Hockey League will ask the provincial government to lift the amusement tax on amateur hockey.

At a meeting here last night the league decided to forward a resolution to this effect to Premier Bennett.

Delegates said they expect the Okanagan Senior Hockey League will support the request.

The meeting decided on a 40-game schedule with 20 home games for each team. Nelson will have nine Saturday games, Rossland six and Trail five.

Beer prices up
