less innings of relief.

The Indians, who won the pennant in 1954 while setting a league record with 111 victories, made it five in a row over the Tigers by sweeping the three-game set at Detroit.

Billy Martin's two-on homer off reliver Jim Bunning put it away for the Tribe in a five-run second inning. Winless Ray Narleski, traded by Cleveland to Detroit along with Don Mossi for Martin, lost his fourth as the Tigers stumbled through their ninth defeat in 10 starts.

Dick Brodowski (2-0) was the winner in relief of Jim Perry, making his major league debut. Brodowski took over in a three-run Tiger fifth and blanked Detroit on three hits the rest of the way. Brodowski hasn't given up a run in 18 2/3 innings of relief since the Tribe brought him up from the minors last season.

Willie Tasby, a favorite for rookie-of-the-year honors, homered and drove in four runs for the Orioles, singling home the winning run as Baltimore completed a comeback with three runs in the eighth. Ernie Johnson, Milwaukee castoff, won his second in relief. Leo Kiely (1-1) lost it in relief.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Here is another hand illustrating the importance to the defenders of retaining control of the trump suit when they can.

Mr. Meek opened the five of diamonds and Mr. Dale won with the ace. He led a trump and went up with the queen in dummy. Mr. Abel elected to win with the ace. He returned a club and the finesse of the queen lost to the king.

Back came a diamond which was taken by dummy's queen. The king of trumps was cashed and both defenders followed suit. From this point Mr. Dale had no difficulty.

He discarded a club of dummy's king of diamonds, cashed the ace of clubs and ruffed his last club with the seven of hearts. He lost only one more trick—to the jack of trumps.

Mr. Meek

At first glance this appears to be a simple hand in which the defenders are powerless to prevent declarer from winning ten tricks. However, Mr. Meek, the expert on defense, was quick to point out that the contract should have been defeated.

"Just duck the first trump lead and let the queen win, Abel," he said. "Then we'll have him whichever way he goes."

Mr. Meek had something. Suppose Mr. Dale had been permitted to win the second trick with dummy's queen of hearts. For his next play he could not have done better than to lead a club from the board and finesse the queen. That would have lost to the king and Mr. Meek could have returned either his last diamond or a trump. Either lead would have resulted ni the defeat of the contract.

On a trump return, Mr. Abel would win two quick trump tricks with his ace and jack, thus preventing Mr. Dale from ruffing a club.

On a diamond return, dummy's queen would win. Mr. Dale's best play then would be to cash the ace of clubs and try to ruff a club with the seven of hearts.

But Mr. Abel would overruff and lead a diamond to let Mr. Meek ruff with the ten of hearts. Thus the defenders would get three trumps and a club.
