MONTREAL (CP)—Andre Corriveau, 29-year-old right winger who stands as all-time scoring leader of the Quebec Hockey League, announced Thursday he is retiring from Montreal Royals.

Corriveau, recently promoted to general manager of a Montreal produce firm, said business pressure would not permit him to play.

In 10 seasons, Corriveau collected 319 goals and 417 assists for 736 points. He is believed the only player in minor professional hockey to have scored more than 300 goals.
