9 In Memoriam

JOHANSEN: In loving memory of our beloved son and brother who was drowned, March 17, 1951.

A token of love and remembrance
Of a son we shall never forget,
His memory to us is a treasure
His going a lifetime regret.
We do not need a special day
To bring him to our minds
The days we do not think of him
Are very hard to find.
If all the world was ours to give
We'd give it all and more
To see the face we miss so much
Come smiling through the door.
Lovingly remembered by his Mom, Dad, Margaret, Richard and Howard. (52p)

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

"Listen, Muzzy," yelled Mr. Champion, "before you signal to show strength in a suit, you've got to be sure you can spare the card you signal with."

Mr. Champion was both right and wrong. He was right in what he said about signalling. He was wrong to think it would do any good to tell Mr. Muzzy.

This is what brought on the discussion. Mr. Champion opened the king of hearts against the three no trump contract. Mr. Muzzy, who currently has a craze on the subject of signals, showed proper enthusiasm for his four-card length in the suit by playing the eight spot.

Mrs. Ken ducked the first trick but had to win the heart continuation. She saw that she had only eight winners available and that the club suit was the only possible spot to try to develop a ninth one. Before starting on the clubs, however, she decided to cash her four diamond tricks to give the enemy a chance to err in discarding. An excellent decision.

Mrs. Keen

Mr. Champion had to make two discards. He chose the nine and seven of spades, cards he could well afford to let go. Mr. Muzzy had to make only one discard, but he made it count—for the opposition. On the fourth diamond he played the eight of clubs.

Opening lead: King of hearts

This accomplished two things. It told Mr. Champion that he could safely lead a club—and it gave Mrs. Keen her contract.

All Mrs. Keen had to do now was to cash the ace, the king and then to lead a third club. Mr. Muzzy won the third round with the queen and the defenders collected two more heart tricks. But after that they were through.

If Mr. Muzy had held onto all of his clubs, there would have been no play for the contract. Signals are a valuable part of any good player's game but they are no good when they lose a trick. Before parting with an unnecessarily high card for the purpose of signalling, check it on two counts: Will it take a trick later in the play And is there a chance that it might be needed to guard a higher card in the suit?
