Windsor Great Park Under Cultivation

WINDSOR, England, Nov. 5 (AP)—The Windsor Castle estate is Britain's finest example of the dig for victory campaign.

Once a favorite week-end resort for Londoners, the Great Park is almost entirely under cultivation and the 1,000 deer which used to roam there have been entirely replaced by 200 cattle. More than 900 acres of grain have been grown in the park while many hundredweight of tomatoes have been sent to market from the Royal Gardens.

Back From Babine Lake Hunting Trip

Gordon Bryant returned to the city Wednesday night from a two weeks' hunting expedition to the Babine Lake district. Other members of the party—Clarence Thomson, W. J. Gardner and Pat Mazzei—will be returning at the end of the week. The party's bag consisted of a moose and two deer. Birds were found to be scarce.
