THE AFTERMATH

Usually the day following Christmas brings with it unpleasant recollections of friends who have been inadvertently overlooked in the matter of Christmas gifts. Isn't it fortunate that New Year's Day follows so closely and gives us an opportunity to make amends for our oversight during the Christmas rush. While the past week's shopping made very heavy inroads into our stock, the assortments in each line are practically unbroken. We have a large range of beautiful things for New Year's gifts. THE C. P. R. OPPOSES COMPENSATION ACT

Railroad Joins with Insurance Companies in Opposing Proposed State Control of Insurance.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Are the employers' liability insurance companies to be allowed to stand between the employers and injured workmen and to make money out of the distribution of compensation for injuries?

This is the crux of a struggle between the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and its allies on the one hand and the insurance companies on the other. Now comes the news that the C. P. R., representing itself as one of the largest employers of labor in Ontario, has allied itself with the insurance companies in opposition to the proposed system of compensation under state control.

In the brief submitted to Sir William Meredith, the C. P. R. says: "The company considers it desirable that some law should be put on the statute book of the Province of Ontario with this object in view, but it firmly denies that these desirable results would be obtained by the enactment of any measure of compulsory state or class insurance."

"A still further objection advanced by the C. P. R. is that in an effort to make a good showing by keeping down rates to please the employing classes, there would be a resulting deficit that would have to be made good by the public treasury. It objects strenuously to any plan whereby it would be compelled to contribute to a state insurance fund and be forced to share the accident liabilities of other railroads."

Under the scheme proposed by the manufacturing association, the injured workman would look to the government for his compensation. The assessment for the support of the compensation fund would be on the pay roll.

BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS AT NEW ANGLICAN CHURCH

Celebrating the great Christmas festival for the first time in their new house of worship, the members of the Anglican Church spared no time or trouble in decorating the church for the occasion. Beautiful wreaths and crosses of evergreens were there in great profusion, giving an appearance to the church that warmed and gladdened the hearts of the congregation as they entered to take part in the service of praise commemorating the greatest event in the world's history. To Mrs. R. O. Jennings, who worked so indefatigably in superintending and arranging the decorations, as well as to Mr. E. D. Harris, who provided the evergreens, is due the greatest praise and credit for their zeal and energy in taking such an active part and producing such excellent results.

GRIFFITH STOCK CO. PRESENT 'THE CITY'

The Audience Last Night Saw the Players at Their Best—Will Be Presented Tonight.

Provided with such a brilliantly clever and compelling play as the late Clyde Fitch's "The City," the Griffith Stock Company were given a chance to show what they could do in the line of a serious modern society drama. They were not slow to take advantage of the opportunity, and it was the opinion of the majority of the audience at the Westholme Opera House that the production last evening was by far the best yet put on by this company. The acting of the entire company was excellent and all seemed to be particularly well suited with their parts. Richard Frazier is a young actor of great ability and promise, who works hard, and with a little more training and experience is bound to push ahead in his profession. His portrayal of the part of George Rand Jr. last evening was a clever and convincing piece of acting. Claud Brennon probably has never appeared to greater advantage than in the difficult character role he essayed in Fred Hancock, the drug fiend. He is a mere youth, but possessed of undoubted talent. The other members of the cast, well known as they are to the Prince Rupert public, need no further notice at this writing. "The City," which will be produced again this evening, should draw a crowded house, as it is a play that no one can afford to miss.
