SURVIVAL UNDER ATOMIC ATTACK — Part 7

First aid, nursing can help when danger nears

The survival of the injured and sick members of your family is your responsibility.

Medical help will not generally be available in the damaged areas for several hours after an attack. Doctors and nurses will have time to treat only the most seriously injured.

Medical help will not be available in areas of fallout for several days until radiation reaches safe levels.

Medical help will not readily be available in areas unaffected by the attack since doctors and nurses will be required to look after the casualties from the damaged areas.

Therefore you must:

- Know and practise life-saving first aid,
- Know and practise simple home nursing measures.

First Aid and Home Nursing training is available in most municipalities from your local St. John Ambulance and Red Cross Associations.

A simple first aid kit to keep in your shelter or in your evacuation kit should contain:

1 bottle mild antiseptic (Metaphen) (use to clean cuts)
5 yards 1½ inch gauze bandage
2 triangular bandages (use for slings
12 4"x4" sterile pads (use to cover cuts, wounds and burns
12 individual Band Aids (use for minor cuts
5 yards ½ inch adhesive tape
8 assorted safety pins
⅓ oz. Oil of Cloves (for temporary treatment of toothache
12 Aspirin
1 small scissors
1 First Aid Booklet
½ oz. baking soda and 8 oz. table salt (1tsp. salt and ½ tsp. baking soda in 1 qt. drinking water. Encourage seriously burned patient to drink as much as he can of this solution).

NOTE: Individuals requiring medication such as insulin should maintain at least 100-days supplies.

Private meets held on market

LONDON (CP) — Senior Commonwealth officials began a series of private meetings Monday to prepare for United Kingdom negotiations in the European Common Market.

The talks follow last week's Commonwealth finance minister's conference in Ghana and are intended to provide a chance for studying in detail the implications of the U.K. bid to join the six - country European trading group.

Most sessions will be bilateral discussions between British and individual Commonwealth delegations. They are described as a fulfilment of Prime Minister Macmillan's promise of detailed consultations before and during the negotiations.

The fact that bilateral meetings are to be held—instead of a round-table conference of all representatives—is viewed as an indication of the divergencies of interests of each of the members of the family on the Common Market issue.

The Financial Times suggests that Britain may not be ready to state specifically to the various delegations the precise proposals it plans to make to the "Six" to safeguard Commonwealth interests.

Liquor policeman's appeal rejected by Quebec court

QUEBEC (CP) — Sessions Court Judge Achille Pettigrew Monday rejected a motion of non-suit by defence lawyer Rene Letarte on behalf of Rosario Lemire, former head of the Quebec Liquor Police for Quebec district charged with defrauding the provincial government and the public of more than $500,000.

Mr. Letarte's motion concerned the third of six charges against Lemire — ordering or permitting subordinates to take part in election campaigns while they were paid by the force through false expense accounts.

Lemire was remanded to September 26 for voluntary statement, a stage of proceedings where a defendant can present a defense before the judge rules whether there is sufficient evidence to order a trial.

Dental scheme put forward

VICTORIA (CP) — Gerald K. Sammon, a bacteriologist employed at the veterans' hospital here, announced Monday he will recommend a prepaid national dental health scheme in a brief for the royal commission on health services.

The commission, chaired by Chief Justice Emmett H. Hall of Regina, has been asked to report on existing medical facilities.

Hurricane heads north

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Severe hurricane Esther whirled toward the North Carolina coast today and the weather bureau said it might issue hurricane warnings for the area by noon.

The big and dangerous storm, with winds up to 150 miles an hour near the centre and hurricane force winds — 74 m.p.h. more — extending 280 miles around it, was moving on a northwest course at 15 miles an hour.

The giant storm was located early this morning near latitude 30.4 north and longitude 71.5 west or about 400 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C., and 600 miles due east of Jacksonville, Fla.

CRITICAL VIEW

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese fashion designers were not impressed by the clothes exhibited at the Soviet trade fair here. "Our department stores have equivalent items in their ready-made garment sections," said one.

Canada services build-up mounts as men, equipment increased

OTTAWA (CP) — In bits and pieces of Commons debate, Defence Minister Harkness has outlined a fairly broad defence buildup for Canada.

Taken separately, as they were last week, these plans do not appear to amount to much. But taken together, they represent expenditures of hundreds of millions of dollars in the next few years.

All these plans are in addition to programs previously announced for a new jet interceptor for home air defence; a low-level jet bomber for the RCAF air division in Europe; an armored personnel carrier for the army; modernization of destroyers to accommodate anti-submarine helicopters; and a manpower increase of 15,000 in the regular armed forces.

Here is a rundown of the new plans:

- New naval construction. This may involve building of conventional submarines in Canada. Engineering studies of anti-submarine hydrofoil craft have begun.
- A ship-to-air guided missile to replace the navy's Bansheejet fighters.
- Heavy transport helicopters and anti-tank missiles for the army.
- A new national defence headquarters building.
- More planes for RCAF air transport command.
- More industrial defence research and development.

THINKING CHANGED

The fact that Mr. Harkness referred publicly to these plans before the government has provided for their financing demonstrates how fundamentally the administration's thinking has changed since mid-summer because of the Berlin crisis.

In July, Mr. Harkness was saying the government had no intention at that time of increasing Canadian forces in Europe.

By the end of this week, the first 400 of 1,350 reinforcements for the infantry brigade and air division in France and West Germany will be on their way to Europe.

Less than a year ago, when External Affairs Minister Green was holding out strong hope for an East - West disarmament agreement, it was all but forbidden here for the defence department to talk about new equipment plans.

This policy was carried to the length that the defence department was told not to have any announcements about exercise Skyshield, a large-scale air interception exercise by North American Air Defence Command.

But this policy has been discarded. The voice coming through loud and clear here now is that of the defence department, not that of the external affairs department.

FINE PIGS

LONDON (CP) — Ten pedigreed British pigs have been flown to Tokyo to start a bacon industry in Japan. They were selected by a trade delegation that toured farms in Britain earlier this year.

100 ideas listed centenary plans

OTTAWA (CP) — Pick a day — any day—in the year 1967 when Canada celebrates her 100th birthday as a nation: The country will be humming from sea to sea on the basis of suggestions forwarded to Ottawa seven years before the centennial event.

It would cost several billion dollars to carry out all the suggestions — athletic, intellectual, artistic, academic, material or public — Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons Monday when he tabled the list of about 100 ideas.
