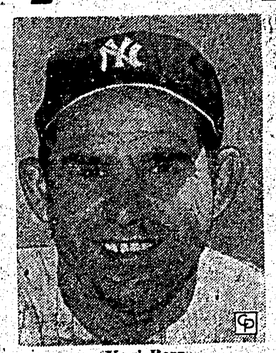
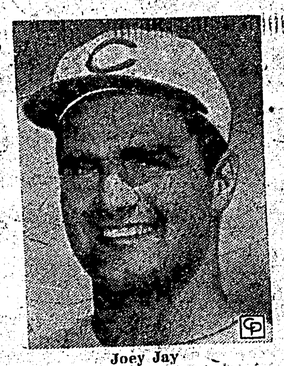
Cincinnati ties up series 1-1 as Joey Jay hurls four-hitter

Gordon Coleman . . . helps Cincinnati cause



Yogi Berra . . . homers in vain



Joey Jay . . . contains Yankees

New York errors help Reds' cause

NEW YORK (AP)—Cincinnati's Joey Jay stopped New York with a four-hitter and his teammates took advantage of miscues to beat the Yankees 6-2 and tie the world series at 1-1.

Back-to-back singles by Elio Chacon and Eddie Kasko and catcher Elston Howard's passed ball manufactured what proved to be the winning run in the fifth inning. Third game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled for Saturday at Cincinnati.

Three of the Reds' runs off starter and loser Ralph Terry and Luis Arroyo were unearned. The big third run was scored with two out. The Reds added another run with two out in the sixth and sewed up the game with two runs in the eighth inning with the help of errors by Arroyo and Yogi Berra.

Jay and Terry were locked in a scoreless tie for three innings when both clubs struck with homers. Gordon Coleman hit a 400-foot homer with Frank Robinson on base in the top of the fourth and then Berra retaliated in the bottom of the inning with a homer with Roger Maris, who had walked, on first.

Maris was hitless for the second straight day. Mickey Mantle was sidelined again.

Jay, a six-foot, four-inch, 225-pounder, fanned six and walked six.

The big right-hander was tough in the clutch, especially in the fifth when he fanned Kubek and Maris in succession to end the inning and leave two Yankees stranded on the bases.

After scoring in the fifth on Howard's passed ball, the Reds fattened their lead to two runs in the sixth on Wally Post's double to left, an intentional pass to Gene Freese and rookie Johnny Edward's run-scoring single to right. Edwards drove in another run with a double in the eighth.

Terry yielded six hits and four runs, two unearned, before going out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

The Reds went to work swiftly on Arroyo. Frank Robinson walked to start the eighth. Then when Coleman beat out a dribbler, Arroyo threw wildly past first and Robinson raced all the way home. Coleman was thrown out trying to make third.

Berra then muffed Post's fly for an error and Post reached third.

Freese was given an intentional walk and Edwards again crossed up the Yanks by blooping a broken-bat double behind third to score Post with the final run.

The teams will take Friday off to travel. The third game will match right-handers Bill Stafford (14-9) of the Yankees and Bob Purkey (16-12) of the Reds.

Congo peace in prospect

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — New peace moves between secessionist Katanga and the central Congolese government appeared imminent today.

Mahmoud Khiari of Tunisia, United Nations civil commander in The Congo, told a press conference Wednesday night that Katanga's President Moise Tshombe has asked him to officially inform the central government that Katanga proposes talks in Leopoldville.

Khiari also said Katanga now is willing to permit visits to Katanga army bases by a cease-fire military sub-commission, a move previously ruled out by Tshombe although the sub-commission has visited all UN installations in the secessionist province.

Khiari said Tshombe might be one of two Katanga ministers going to Leopoldville for talks on Katanga's place in The Congo.

TO OPEN TALKS

The ministers were expected to leave no later than Friday night if the central government of Premier Cyrille Adoula agrees to see them, he said. Tshombe had given him a verbal message asking his to officially inform Odoula's government that Katanga proposes to open the talks in Leopoldville.

"I think if we manage to bring the two administrations together we will have taken a very big step toward solution of the Congolese problem by peaceful means," Khiari told the press conference. All other problems resulting from a cease-fire become secondary.

Khiari is the chief of the commission set up to supervise the cease-fire agreed to by UN and Katanga officials after an eight-day clash between their forces last month.

The fighting was touched off by a UN attempt to disarm Katanga's army at the request of Adoula.

Gun battle breaks out in Berlin as escapees make freedom attempt

BERLIN (Reuters)—Communist and West Berlin police exchanged shots for the first time Wednesday night as an East German leaped to his death in a bid to escape to the West.

The gun battle broke out as East German police began firing into a street in the Western sector to foil the escape of two refugees from the flat roof of a building in Bernauerstrasse — the border street where many East Germans have escaped by leaping from buildings into West Berlin.

One of the refugees jumped into the street before West Berlin firemen could bring nets into position and was killed. The other was dragged away by the Communist police.

West Berlin police returned the shots in the first instance of gunfire into East Berlin across the border. Communist border guards have repeatedly fired on persons crossing the border into West Berlin.

REFUGEE WOUNDED

After the gun battle two Communist policemen could be seen pulling a third back from the roof and the roof and the West German news agency DPA said he may have been wounded.

The Associated Press said the East German policeman definitley was wounded and that the incident was expected to bring on a new diplomatic storm from the Russians. Earlier this week, Marshal Ivan Konev, commander of Soviet forces in East Germany, warned the West against any action that might upset the prospects of East-West talks on Berlin.

The shooting started after two East Berliners scrambled to the edge of the rooftop and waited for West Berlin firement to bring nets into the street below. They were spotted by five Communist policemen.

"Three of the policemen climbed onto the roof while the other two began firing rifle shots into the street where a crowd of West Berliners began to gather. West Berlin police returned the rifle fire with pistols.

CALLS FOR HELP

"The dead man, 22-year-old Bernd Lunser, had stood at the edge of the roof shouting desperately "help, help me, I want to jump," as the Communist police closed in on him.

Luenser's fatal "freedom leap" was the second death jump from a window on Bernauerstrasse, where the Russian sector borders on the French sector.

Soon after the August 13 border closing, a woman leaped to the pavement, suffering fatal injuries. A barbed wire memorial was erected on the spot.

Seven other East Berliners and East Germans fled across the border early today, a West Berlin police spokesman said. East German workers and soldiers today continued to wall up windows and heighten the concrete wall along the 25-mile border, the spokesman said.

An East German woman trying to scale a barbed wire fence at another point on the border was dragged down and taken away by the Communists.

U.N. head plan may suit U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States today was reported to have agreed in the main to a Soviet plan for picking a temporary UN secretary-general. Support was building up for U Thant of Burma to take over the vital executive position.

The U.S. stand increased hopes that a way will be found to break the U.S.-Soviet deadlock with its threat of paralysis for the administrative arm of the world organization.

Informed diplomats said the United States agreed with reservations to Soviet insistence that the Security Council nominate the successor to the late Dag Hammarskjold.

The reservations are that the U.S. and Russia first agree on the candidate and on his powers, informants said.

The U.S. stand was conveyed to the Soviet delegation by other envoys. There was no immediate Soviet reaction.

3,227 vehicles registered

The number of licenced motor vehicles in Prince Rupert as of September 30 is 3,277, the Motor Vehicle Branch announced recently.

The figure includes 2,623 passenger and 654 commercial vehicles.

According to the motor vehicle report, there were 59 passenger and 16 commercial plates issued in July; 46 passenger and 20 commercial in August; and 27 passenger and 13 commercial issued in September.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Washington State Governor Albert Rosellini said Wednesday no arbitrary deadline has been set for ratification of the Canada-United States treaty for the Columbia River hydro project.

Gaglardi charged again

VICTORIA (CP) — An official of the attorney - general's department said today a charge of driving without due care and attention has been laid against Highways Minister Gaglardi.

The offence is alleged to have occurred Friday on the Trans-Canada Highway near Savona, 26 miles west of Kamloops.

The official in the attorney-general's department said the department had been notified of the charge as a matter of courtesy.

There had not been a request from the RCMP for guidance on the case, he said. If there is one, he said, politics would not enter into it and it would be treated on a purely individual basis.

RCMP will decide if the charge should be upheld or dropped. It was laid by a constable in the force.

However, senior RCMP spokesmen here would not say anything about it until they received an official report on the case, which was expected from Kamloops later this week.

Highway 16 reopened as bridge replaced

Fast work by Department of Highways bridge crews has brought Highway 16 back into operation 24 hours after a bridge was washed out Wednesday.

The Skree Creek bridge was washed out Tuesday night after torrential rains poured down in the Prince Rupert district.

The bridge has now been repaired by the building of a long replacement which goes over the old bridge.

The situation at Stewart has now returned to normal, RCMP report that families which were moved from their homes yesterday have now gone back.

The flooding, they said, was caused by a break in a dam on the Bear River.

Rain - swollen rivers washed out one bridge and threatened three others Wednesday along the northern trans - provincial highway, severing the only road link between Terrace and Prince Rupert.

Dozens of travellers were stranded in Terrace by the washout across the Cree and Delta Rivers seven and nine miles west of Terrace. Highway crews expected to have a temporary, one-way crossing constructed by today.

But they said streams flooded by rain which has been falling since early Tuesday also is threatening four other bridge crossings west of the washouts.

STEWART FLOOD

Several residents in low-lying areas in Stewart, an isolated mining village on the north arm of Portland Canala were evacuated from their homes Wednesday night as the rampaging Bear River rose to flood heights.

The village of 360 people, 120 miles northwest of Prince Rupert was isolated by road after record rainfall of 12 inches in the last 48 hours washed out parts of the Stewart-Cassiar road.

The north arm of the canal forms the international boundary between Alaska and British Columbia.

Extensive damage was reported caused to a number of homes in the seaport as the river rose and burst its retaining banks.

Rain was continuous and heavy Wednesday with no sign of letup during the night and no relief predicted in the next few days.

DAMAGE EXTENSIVE

A man who walked from the Ben Ginter construction camp at Mile 31 on the Cassiar road to Stewart described road damage as extensive. There were a number of washouts and two bridges were severely damaged. Several airstrips also were reported extensively damaged and out of use.

B.C. ROUNDUP

Phony reporter story said to be authentic

VERNON (CP)—A Vernon news reporter said in a sworn statement Wednesday night that his story of an RCMP officer posing as a press photographer to question unemployed demonstrators is true.

Frank Harris, publisher of The Weekly News, released the sworn statement of reporter Ian Macfarlane giving details of the incident and said he will publish it today.

Harris also said he received a wire from RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvison in Ottawa admitting the officer's impersonation.
