FAIR WAGES TO THE WORKINGMAN.

Mayor Newton has withdrawn as a candidate for the mayoralty for 1913 and is offering himself as a candidate for the position of alderman. Although he has changed his mind so suddenly in regard to the office he would seek, it is hardly to be expected that his platform has been changed. If Mayor Newton honestly believed in his platform as a candidate for the mayoralty he must surely consider it a good one for an alderman. All through the campaign he has been fairly shouting his head off about fair wages to the workingman. If Mayor Newton is consistent he is just as anxious to see that the mechanic receives a fair wage also. As a sample of his anxiety in this respect the tender of the Empire, Mayor Newton's organ, for the publication of the civic "Nomination Notice" is interesting. The advertisement had its first insertion in yesterday's Empire and occupies a space one column wide by thirteen and a half inches deep, the matter being set solid in the smallest type ordinarily used for such advertisements. Tenders were asked for ten consecutive insertions of this advertisement. The Empire secured the business on a tender of five dollars. The only other tender put in was that of The Daily News, its tender being $30.00. Boiled down, Mayor Newton is selling advertising space to the city at less than 4 cents per inch, while on page two of the Empire the published price for temporary advertisements is $1.20 per inch. To anyone with the slightest knowledge of the newspaper business the price is simply ridiculous, yet this is a sample of how Mayor Newton would, were it in his power, force his competitors to conduct their business, at the same time that he preaches a fair wage to the workingman. Do you think, Mr. Workingman, that Mayor Newton is after all so solicitous for your welfare, or does he merely do his preaching to catch your vote? Furthermore, do you think that a man capable of conducting his own business on such principles is the kind of man you want to conduct the affairs of your city, even as an alderman?

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE

Prince Rupert brought in experts at a big expense to give advice on the mammoth hydro-electric undertaking of the city. The scheme was approved by the electors yet Newton's so-called cheap engineering department in carrying out the work, altered the plans without referring the workingmen. These changes may or may not be advantageous, but certainly it is dangerous practice and one which no business mayor would stand for.

NEWTON AND THE WORKINGMAN

The Mayor sees some truly versatile arguments in his campaign editorials. In one issue he claims that 45c an hour is a bare living wage for a working man. In the very next issue he says that the temporary working men who received 37½c on contract work in 1910 and 1911 took a large portion of their earnings out of town. One wonders how he blends these marvellous contradictions. The truth is, however, that Mayor Newton knows absolutely nothing whatever about the condition of the working men; what his labor is worth or whether he gives value received. He advocated 45c an hour because he thinks it will get him some votes and give him a cheap kind of popularity among a small class of agitators. He would just as readily advocate 25c an hour if he thought he could win out on it. In his eyes the working man as a voter is a man to conjure with but the working man as a man and a citizen of Prince Rupert has no part in Newton's scheme of things.

WASHINGTON HOMESTEADERS TIRE OF RANCH LIFE WITHOUT THE SOCIETY OF WOMEN

Seattle, Jan. 6.—One hundred bachelor homesteaders in the Pend Oreille valley of Washington, tiring of the dull routine of ranch life and cookery without the society of women—fair women—yesterday heartily endorsed the state matrimonial bureau suggested by Marriage License Clerk Claude F. Gage, and put in a demand order for one hundred wives. The request was embodied in a letter from a bachelor living near Calispel, who wrote in behalf of his fellow sufferers in the valley and at their request. The letter runs as follows:

Homesteading a Lonely Job

"I think the state matrimonial bureau would be a great help to homesteaders, for, as it is, young men come in here and live five years on a homestead and spend the time in utter loneliness without any chance to get into society, and the fair sex is very scarce here.

"I live on a homestead and have everything that a good woman would want. There are more than one hundred bachelors in the valley in the same shape, who would be glad to have a cook and the company of a good wife, if such a blessing could be had.

"There are very few marriages performed in the Pend Oreille valley, for there are one hundred men here to one girl. If you can pick out one hundred likely women among the applications you have, we would be glad to have our addresses sent them. We want women that want a good home and are in earnest in making a success of life."

Want to Forestall Oregon

Sundry settlements of bachelors about the state of Washington are resenting the recent request of an Oregon land dealer made to Mr. Gage for the names of the women who want husbands so that he can marry them to Oregon citizens and settle them on Oregon lands.

Requests from Washington bachelors are now coming in by the bale, seeking to forestall the Oregon plot. Mr. Gage has the addresses of 1,500 Eastern women, largely factory girls in the Atlantic coast cities, and he intends to supply the Washington demand before he lends any assistance to Oregon.

"If there is an infant industry in the United States that needs a promoter—an intelligent, honorable, honest promoter—it is the matrimonial bureau business," said Mr. Gage yesterday. "Handled on a conscientious plan, it would result in bringing thousands of people to this state and in placing them on the cheap unoccupied agricultural lands."

WASHINGTON FIRST IN LUMBER TRADE

Census Bureau Shows That State Is Far in Lead with Wood Products.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The State of Washington again leads the entire nation as a producer of lumber and other wood manufactures, according to figures made public by the Bureau of Census covering the production of timber staples during the year 1911.

At no time during the last eight or ten years has the lead of Washington been in danger, but during 1911 its pre-eminence in the production of lumber was made even more secure than heretofore. In that year the total production of the Washington sawmills was approximately 4,064,754,000 feet.

The only other state coming near this record was Louisiana, which produced 3,566,456,000 feet board measure. The report of the Census Bureau, which was prepared by William M. Stuart, who, as chief statistician of the bureau, is well known on the Pacific Coast, says, in part: "While the industry of lumber manufacture is widely distributed throughout the United States, it is interesting to note that nearly 36 per cent. of the total cut was reported from the five states of Washington, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oregon and North Carolina, ranking in the order named."

"Furthermore, it will be observed that two of these five states are located on the Pacific Coast and three in the south, which region has of recent years become the principal centre of lumber production in the United States, their combined output in 1911 forming 68 per cent. of the total cut for that year."

GROWS CORELESS APPLE

Result of Twelve Years' Work by Oregon Nurseryman.

Coquille, Ore., Jan. 7.—C. O. Crosby, a nurseryman of this section, claims to have perfected a coreless apple and says he will have it on the market by next season.

Mr. Crosby has been laboring on the new variety for almost twelve years and it is only after many disappointments that he has succeeded.

The new variety is about the size of the average apple, is greenish in color and will be known as "Crosby's Coreless and Seedless."

INGRATITUDE.

All numbed is my reason, and frigid my feet! I'm tired of this season of good things to eat! I'm weary of turkey, I've soured upon goose, my insides are jerky, my wishbone is loose, I've gorged upon pudding until I would die; I'm dodging, eluding, all manner of pie. Although I'm a dandy at punishing grub, I'm tired of the candy that comes by the tub; the oysters, the dressing, the ice cream and cake, all, all are distressing, and give me an ache. Rich grub sends a shiver through surfeited men; I'm longing for liver and onions again. My system is aching, and won't be denied, for fried eggs and bacon and spuds on the side. 'Twould make my soul chirrup to fill up once more on buckwheat and syrup and sauerkraut galore, but that would be treason, of style an abuse; at this bughouse season it's turkey and goose. It's turkey that's roasted, and goose that's baked, and things that are toasted, and things that are faked; it's oysters and gravy and stuffing and jam, and spaghetti wavy, with which we must cram. My nerves all a-quiver, I sit in my den, and long for plain liver and onions again!

WRECKED LAUNCH WAS TOWED HOME SUNDAY

Captain Babington brought back his tugboat, the Sangra, to its moorings at his float at Cow Bay on Sunday afternoon. The Sangra, which had to be scuttled to save her from burning up at Shawatlans Passage about ten days ago, was successfully raised and is not much the worse for the ducking. She is pretty dirty of course, but the Captain is taking her back to the works tonight.
