The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♣

In today's hand, declarer should have made a preliminary play in order to determine whether a safety play was feasible. This precaution would have enabled him to safeguard the reasonable slam contract which he and his partner had reached.

West opened the four of clubs. Declarer won in his hand and played the ace of spades. When West showed out, life lost its zest for South. The success or failure of the heart finesse now assumed the importance of a mere bookkeeping entry.

North pointed out vehemently that resort to a standard safety play would have secured declarer against losing more than one trump trick regardless of the distribution. At trick two he contended that declarer should enter dummy in order to lead a small spade and just cover any card East plays. If East shows out, the ace would be played and a low spade to dummy would hold the enemy to one trick in that suit.

North's analysis of the safety play is basically sound but not altogether applicable to this case. If South were not faced with the danger of losing a heart trick, North's position would be tenable. But if South has to lose a heart, he must, then, go all-out in an attempt to pick up the trump suit in its entirety.

How to play trumps cannot be determined until the heart situation is clarified. Since declarer has no choice as to the manner of playing hearts, he should win the club lead in dummy in order to take the heart finesse. When it wins he can afford to give up a spade trick and therefore, make the safety play in trumps. But if the heart finesse loses, he can now play the ace of spades in the hope that the king is singleton.

Taxidriver has tough time

It was a tough weekend for taxi-driver Kikiuo Kimura of 1035 First Avenue West.

It all started about 10:45 p.m. Saturday on Sixth Street between Second and Third Avenues.

At that time a car driven by Richard Ernest Bodger of 432 Fifth Avenue West was in collision with the rear of Kimura's vehicle. Damage was only minor.

Less than two hours later Kimura's vehicle was in collision with another vehicle driven by Gyula Darvasi of 336 Fifth Avenue West near the intersection of Fifth Avenue and McBride Street.

But this time Kimura was not so lucky. Damage amounted to about $450.

SALUTE TO JAGAN

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Cheddi Jagan, British Guiana's new prime minister, has received a congratulatory message from East German Communist Premier Otto Grotewohl expressing hope Jagan's government will bring about "the speedy liquidation of all vestiges of the colonialist British regime and unrestricted national independence."

Island customers increase power

QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY — B.C. Hydro electrical customers here increased their consumption by more than 100,000 kilowatt hours in the fiscal year which ended March 31, 1961.

The utility's 16th annual report released in Victoria said a total of 207 customers connected to the system here used 849,571 kilowatt hours during the year.

The report stated that negotiations were continuing at year end with the Department of Transport and Northern Pulpwoods Limited regarding proposed service to the Sandspit-Alliford Bay area.
