SADOWAY-SALVATI RITES

Annunciation church setting for nuptials

In a pretty ceremony performed recently in Annunciation Church, the former Mary Ann Salvati daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Salvati of Prince Rupert, became the bride of Joseph Stephen Sadoway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sadoway of Edmonton.

Rev. James Tracey, OMI, officiated at the 10 a.m. nuptials. The decorations consisted of pink and white streamers and white bells.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white dress with bolero in rayon and nylon lace, a pleated taffeta-effect cummerbund and two-tiered lace skirt. A coronet of lace held her shoulder - length veil which featured dainty embroidery at the corners. Red roses comprised the bouquet.

PRETTY TRIO

A trio of attendants in mauve, blue and white, all sisters of the bride, made an attractive foil in the bridal party. Mrs. Livio Basso as maid of honor chose a mauve ballerina length dress accented by a bouquet of white carnations. Miss Imelda Salvati as bridesmaid wore a blue dress, also ballerina - length, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The young flower girl, Miss Luisa Salvati, was charming in a full-skirted white frock. She carried pink carnations.

Mr. Basso was best man, and Marvin Batiuk performed usher- provided by Michael Colussi on the accordion.

Peter A. Gibb proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Sons of Norway hall. A three-tiered wedding cake was featured on the bride's table, which was decorated with baskets of gladioli. The guests were served by Mrs. Luigi Borean and Mrs. Elio di Felice.

BEIGE SHEATH

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Salvati wore a beige sheath dress with matching duster and white accessories.

The newlyweds plan a honeymoon trip to Edmonton to visit the groom's parents. They will live at 325 Sixth Avenue West.

The bride is employed at the Rainbow Cafe and the groom works for the Canadian National Railway.

Church may admit women to ministry

TORONTO (CP) — The Presbyterian Church of Canada will not decide on the question of ordaining women as ministers until at least 1964.

The question was raised Wednesday at the church's general assembly. It will come up at the next assembly in 1963 in a report from the committee on articles of faith.

The committee will consult all presbyteries in Canada. Even if the report favors ordination of women, no action can be approved until the presbyteries are polled. This would take another year.

The assembly authorized continued meetings between a committee of Presbyterian Church and the Anglican Church, but there was opposition to any talks going on at the congregational level.

New Zealand steps up lamb sales to Canada

AUCKLAND (CP) — Canadian tastes in meat are under close scrutiny in New Zealand as part of a drive to increase trade with Canada.

New Zealand has already approached Canada seeking wider trading opportunities.

The effort is part of an intensified drive for new markets arising from fears that British entry into the European common market will damage traditional trading outlets.

For several years New Zealand has been patiently seeking to develop a market for lamb in Canada on conditions which will not harm the interests of Canadian producers. Exports have been channelled through a single organization, the Meat Export Development Company, Limited, to ensure orderly marketing in co-operation with Canadian interests.

One question the trade is asking is how to increase the Canadian taste for lamb, New Zealand's largest meat product.

Visiting Canadians have given widely differing verdicts on New Zealand meat.

Order of Royal Purple marks end of season of activity

Along with many other organizations in Prince Rupert, the Order of the Royal Purple has wound up its 1960-61 season of activities and will resume its work again in the fall.

The group's recent meeting in Islander hall was combined with a party marking the end of the season. A pantomine was a feature of the entertainment.

During a brief business session conducted by honored royal lady Mrs. Donald Hawryluk, members decided to hold a bazaar November 29.

Mrs. Joseph Giordano won the good of the order contest, and the dress club contest was won by Mrs. Signe Erb.

Peach sherbet summer treat

For a popular dessert on summer days, one of the top choices is home-made fresh peach sherbet. This one made according to the following recipe could not be easier. Also it is comparatively low-calorie. Use soft-ripe fresh peaches for the puree.

Mix 1 envelope unflavored gelatine with ¼ cup cold water and let stand a minute. Place gelatine bowl in a pan of hot water to melt. Combine 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 2 cups fresh peach puree, 1 cup milk and ¼ teaspoon salt. Pour into a freezing tray. Freeze until almost firm. Turn into mixing bowl. Add 1 unbeaten egg white. Beat with an electric or rotary egg beater until smooth and fluffy. Finish freezing in two trays until firm and ready to serve. Makes about 3 pints.

Excited Girl Guides camp at Metlakatla

Fifty happy-go-lucky girls, accompanied by 10 supervisors and assistants, picked up their camping gear and boarded boats today for the annual Girl Guide Camp at Metlakatla.

For the next week they will be engaged in a constant round of outdoor activities — swimming, racing, nature study sessions—and campfire get-togethers for skits and songs.

Welcoming the girls today were Metlakatla villagers whose chief councillor Edward Ryan, along with Mrs. Dorcas Nelson, put long hours of work into preparing the camp.

The Guides, from Prince Rupert, Kitimat, Kitkatla, Kincolith and Masset, will set up camp at two sites, at Mission Point and on the Recreation Field.

Two English women, Miss Jane Williams and Miss Ruth Ashworth, are camp commandants, and quartermasters are Mrs. George Marhauer and Mrs. George West, both of this city. District commissioner Mrs. George W. Cook will also be present during the camp session.

Evening vespers will be held in Metlakatla Anglican Church, and morning devotions and colors will take place out of doors each morning.

The camp is scheduled to wind up on July 12.

Who can be a dentist?

It takes a special man or woman to meet the challenge of a dental career. He must be willing to spend long hours, both in training and every day after he receives his doctor's degree. He must have sound judgment sense, and a physical dexterity to perform the tasks required of him. And he must have a sincere sympathy for, and urge to help, his fellow man.

This is the dentist's lifetime duty: the care and protection of his community. And from his community, he will enjoy the rewards of his efforts: the satisfaction of healing, recognition by his neighbours, patients, and fellow doctors, and the opportunity to help more and more people as time goes on.

British Columbia needs dentists – needs the kind of man who will give his time and service to caring for others. Are you able to meet the challenge - and willing? Then write for our pamphlet, Dentistry As A Career.
