MORE "TRUCK AND TRADE."

The removal of the customs duties that restrict trade between Canada and the United States seems to be a popular policy when it serves the big interests. The interests are always patriotic. Their allegiance is not likely to be undermined by having "truck or trade" with the Yankees. The east and west haul is not essention to Canada's prosperity so long as it will add to their profits to have their products hauled south to the United States market. It is only the farmer whose loyalty is in doubt. For him there is only safety in having no "truck or trade" with the Yankee. Take this recent development in the Quebec pulpwood and paper trade. A number of the great paper and pulp producing concerns of that province-in one of which, by the way, that staunch patriot, Sir William Van Horne, is a leading figure—are jubilating over the removal of restrictions on the export of pulpwood by the Quebec government. This action will enable them to export paper duty free to the United

The outstanding feature of public legislation may be looked for in a bill to amend the Revenue Act, abolishing the so-called "poll tax," and generally to provide for a more just and equitable distribution of the burden of taxation, in accordance with the recommendations of the with the recommendation of the with the Taxation Commission, based upon first hand investigation of conditions throughout the province conducted by that tribunal a year or so ago. The enquiries and report of the Municipal Com mission will also probably be crystalized in legislation giving effect to a majority of the suggestions recently made by this body; while the Public Health Act will also in all likelihood be open for new matter originating in the report of the Milk Commission and for general minor alterations and amendments proven necessary and expedient in the everyday working of this piece of legislation.
