The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1♥	2♦
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♥

Some players find it difficult to resist the urge to act when an opponent has opened the bidding. Possession of a good hand instills a strange pride of possession in them.

In the matter of opening the bidding, adherence to prescribed standards is heartily approved by this department, but different considerations apply when the auction has already gotten under way. In those cases a player must weigh carefully the risk involved in making a bid against the possible gain.

We have never looked with favor upon overcalls of two clubs or two diamonds because they so rarely lead to a game contract. Yet the attempt to win eight tricks will frequently result in a substantial loss, particularly when vulnerable.

We have found it profitable to watch the passing parade when we are top heavy in the opening bidder's suit. Examine today's hand for a very gruesome illustration.

After two passes, East opened with one heart. South, holding a hand valued at 15 points, felt it his privilege to get into the performance, and asserted his rights by bidding two diamonds. Nothing could have better suited West's taste. With a singleton in partner's suit, game prospects did not loom bright and this appeared as good a parking place as any. He doubled and all hands passed.

West led his singleton heart. East won with the ace and returned the queen of clubs, covered by South's king and West's ace. A club return went to East's 10 and East led the jack of hearts. West ruffed away declarer's queen and returned a spade inasmuch as East's opening bid marked him with the ace. East then sent back another heart. West put to use one of his diamonds and the club jack gave East the lead once more. On a heart return West was able to beat dummy's trumps with the eight of diamonds. The net result was a set back of 1,100 points.

South's heart holding should have made it clear that he held a trap. Silence might have induced the opposition to get perhaps too high. Making two diamonds did not hold much of a future.

Floyd set to fight

BOSTON (AP) — Barring unforseen development, Floyd Patterson will defend his world heavyweight title against unbeaten Tom McNeeley in Boston October 23 despite the threat of National Boxing Association action against the champion.

The NBA has threatened to take Patterson's title if he fights McNeeley rather than one of the top-ranked challengers.

McNeeley, unbeaten in 23 bouts, is unranked.

The Massachusetts Boxing Commission — not a member of the NBA — granted a promoter's licence Wednesday to Championship Sports Incorporated and a match-maker's licence to Al Bolan of New York.

Neither Patterson nor McNeeley, from Arlington, Va., attended the three-minute meeting. They have not yet signed contracts for the fight.

McNeeley, one-time Michigan State football player, has had victories over George Logan, Uli Ritter and Willie Besmanoff in his unbeaten career.

No licence costs man $10 fine

Driving without a licence cost John Arthur Hefford of 622 Sixth Avenue West $10 and costs or five days Tuesday afternoon when he appeared in police court before Magistrate E. T. Applewhaite.

Hefford pleaded not guilty to the charge Tuesday morning but was convicted in the afternoon after trial.

He was charged after being checked about 2:50 a.m. Sunday near the intersection of Fraser Street and Fifth Street.

Montreal alright they should sell it to the manufacturer for advertising.

I am writing this as I thought some of their friends would be interested in how they were getting along.

They both spoke very highly of their friends at Port Simpson and think they were getting lonesome already.
