Local young couple married in England

A wedding of much interest to Prince Rupert and district took place in Coventry, England, on December 16 when Miss Doreen Jeffery ,RN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jeffery of Coventry, became the bride of David Ridsdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ridsdale of 889 Borden Street, Prince Rupert.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length dress of embossed satin with a chapel train. Her long bouffant veil was secured with a pearl and diamante coronet and she carried red roses.

The matron-of-honor was Mrs. Barbara Jeffery and the bridesmaid was six-year-old Jacqueline Jeffery, sister-in-law and neice of the bride.

Their dresses were of knee-length crimson velvet and they carried white carnations and chrysanthemums.

The best man was the bridegroom's cousin, Arthur Ashton. Acting as ushers were Clifford Atkins, cousin of the bride, and Rex Jarvis.

The morning service took place at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene with Rev. J. G. Davies officiating, assisted by Rev. S. Burrows. Robert Jeffery, brother of the bride, was organist.

Following a reception at the Wyken Parish Church Hall, the bridal couple left for a honeymoon in London.

Greetings and congratulations were received from New Zealand, Australia, Ontario, Alberta and Vancouver and Prince Rupert, B.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Ridsdale returned to Prince Rupert by plane on December 29 and have taken up residence at 929 Eleventh Avenue East.

Mrs. Ridsdale is employed at the Greene Clinic and Mr. Ridsdale is a technician at the Columbia Cellulose Company, Limited.

Business girls learn charm tips

TORONTO (CP) — Fashion arithmetic for girls in business consists of simple addition and subtraction, says Anne Balnaves, a 26-year-old makeup artist from Sydney, Australia.

Anne is one of a staff of five at a training centre for bank employees in Toronto. The centre was opened in December and the bank plans to open similar centres in other parts of Canada.

New employees are given a four-day course that includes customer relations, telephone courtesy, makeup and grooming, and banking. Girls already on staff will be given shorter courses.

In the mirrored beauty room Miss Balnaves gives fashion pointers, encourages the girls to exercise and helps them with their makeup.

Her quick course in fashion arithmetic includes the addition of a simple lapel pin to a two-piece suit, a light cologne, a bright hat or purse and shoes to enliven a dark outfit.

AVOID GAUDY DRESS

On the subtraction side are an uneven hemline, swirls of crinolines, stockings in dramatic colors and with uneven seams, pony tails of extreme hair styles, noisy bangles, dangling earrings, sunback dresses without jackets, low necklines and clothes that are too snug — in short, anything "that isn't absolutely and unquestionably flattering."

She says the essentials of a well-groomed look are: A daily bath, use of a deodorant daily, frequent use of a depilatory, regular shampoos, clean and neatly pressed clothes, shoes suitable for business, polished and in good repair, and stockings in a neutral shade.

Makeup should match the skin tone and be smoothly blended. Hands should be smooth and well cared for with nail polish unchipped and not too brilliant in color.

Sandra Shaw, 26, the course supervisor, says it encourages the girls to look natural: "this is not a modelling school."

TELEPHONE COURTESY

Vivacious Bridget McClew, 29-year-old Irish-born former airline stewardess, teaches customer relations.

Business and industrial executives consider courteous telephone contacts important since they are often a customer's first dealings with the company, Mrs. McClew said.

Common speech faults were talking too quickly or in too high or too low a voice, and speaking with gum or cigarette in the mouth.

The telephone should be answered promptly and the conversation terminated as quickly as possible since a busy line was often a liability in business. The person who answers should identify himself immediately.

"Make the person glad he spoke to you," Mrs. McClew said. "Then allow the caller to hang up first."

Two ballets to be presented at Civic Centre February 2

A new kind of entertainment will be presented at the Civic Centre on February 2 when 75 children and six adults of the ballet classes under the direction of Elizabeth Vickars, ballet instructor, will act out two full-length ballets as a naarator tells the stories.

The ballets are the well-known legend, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" and "El Paso," a vivid re-creation of the old West.

This is an ambitious project, Mrs. Vickars reports, and the cast has been under heavy rehearsal for the past three months preparing for it.

The teacher said that three pairs of cowboy boots are needed for members of the cast, two size five and one size eight or nine. If anyone has these items and is willing to lend them, would they kindly phone Mrs. Vickers at 4564.

It takes $90,000 per man to bring you B.C.'s gasoline bargain

Earle Porter is one of 850 Imperial employees who supply B.C. people with oil products at bargain prices. Take Esso gasoline—motorists throughout B.C. buy it at an average price of 6 1/10 cents a pound. That's a real bargain ...even common table salt costs more per pound. And of the 6 1/10 cents paid per pound for gasoline, two cents is for federal and provincial taxes that provide you with such things as social services and new highways.

To bring you this bargain, since 1951 alone Imperial has invested more than $80,000,000 in B.C. That's more than $90,000 per employee...and this doesn't include wages and other operating expenses which have increased year by year. Yet today, on the average, Imperial gets less for the Esso gasoline it sells in B.C. than ten years ago...and Esso gasoline today is much more powerful than ten years ago.
