You start with basic training, then go to sea in a modern naval ship for practical experience and on-the-job trades training.

Benefits include good pay, free uniforms on enlistment, up to 30 days' annual leave with travelling time, free medical and dental care. Pay and allowances increase with experience and responsibility, and for the man who makes the Navy a career there is a generous pension on retirement, at an early age.

Slam hands played a vital role in Italy's conquest of the United States in the 1962 World Bridge championship held in New York. The match was so close that the swings on a couple of key deals revolving around the choice of a bid or play could easily have altered the final result. One of these swing hands is presented today.

A word about the bidding sequence when the Italians were seated North and South, which shows the highly artificial Roman club system in action. The opening bid of one diamond is part of the canape style which involves mentioning a short suit first and saving the long suit for a rebid. When South combined this with a jump on the second round, he was announcing a hand of overpowering strength which serves to explain North's leap to slam. The latter's single raise in diamonds was a negative response and might have been based on less high card strength. It will be observed that the final bid was quite aggressive inasmuch as it requires a favorable break in spades, as well as finding the ace of hearts located in front of the king.

The American player seated West feared that his opponent had two solid suits to run and, unless the defense cashed its tricks where it could find them, they might disappear. He accordingly put down the ace of hearts and with that gesture unfortunately donated an unmakable slam to the declarer, for his lead established the 12th trick.

In the other room, his compatriots arrived at a more modest three no trump contract with the North-South cards and made 11 tricks. The slam bonus swung 13 international match points to the Italians. Had the slam been defeated, the United States would have gained 13.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Canada's young baseball representatives were eliminated Tuesday in the 16th annual Little League world series but will have a crack at a consolation prize later in the tournament.

The Canadian entry — the Stoney Creek, Ont., All-Stars — was defeated 13-1 by Kankakee, Ill., as Dan Brewster pitched a no-hitter in the second game of the tournament.

Tuesday's fights

Beaumont, Tex. (AP)—Ralph Dupas, 148, New Orleans, outpointed Henry Watson, 145, Dallas, 15.

San Antonio, Tex. (AP) — Raymundo Torres, 144, Reynosa, Mexico, stopped Art Hayward, 138½, Port Arthur, Texas, 9.

There have been far more tourists visiting Kitimat this year than in any previous year, it has been noted by John Gray, secretary - manager of the Kitimat Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Gray said the biggest increase was from the United States while traffic from other parts of the province and the prairie provinces has also increased. He said that the Chamber of Commerce has handed out more pamphlets and answered more inquiries than ever before.

The only complaint they have heard from their numerous visitors was the lack of trailer court facilities.

During July, 321 visitors went through the regular Kitimat works plant tours, the largest number on record.
