In our days of old, when tribal customs were extant, and we were monarchs of all we surveyed, the Indian had certain laws and conditions which tended to strengthen his faith in his brethren, and, although we were then looked upan as "savages," we grew and grew, until the land was covered with the homes of a race that was capable of resisting all foes from the outside. The all-conquering Bible was brought in our midst, and we laid down our bows and arrows and spears, and accepted the the doctrines inculcated by worthy followers of the Disciples. The Hudson's Bay Company, with its traders and whiskey vendors, entered our land, and we were placed under rules laid down by men who have followed the teachings of Christianity for thousands of years.

YOUTH TOOK PART IN SIXTEEN BOMB CRIMES

Boy in Teens Tells New York Police of Many Outrages

New York, Feb. 2.—Alfred Lehman, a youth in his teens, testified today to having taken part in sixteen bomb outrages; revealed knowledge of eighty; cleared up the mystery of two murders, and furnished information concerning a number of lesser crimes, including arson and burglary.

Lehman was a witness in the trial of Angelo Sylvester, accused of a bomb outrage. Lehman told of the burning of two Brooklyn homes for the insurance and of many other lesser crimes. He said the bomb outrages usually brought the men doing the work fifty dollars.

Stroller White Here

Stroller White, the well known editor of the White Horse Star, was in the city for a few hours yesterday. He has been out for a holiday and is just returning north on the Princess Maquinna. While here he took the opportunity of looking up many old friends whom he knew in the north. Editor White anticipates renewed activity in Alaska business.

ASK PUBLICITY BOARD TO CANVASS FOR CASH

When They Get It in the Bank Finance Committee Will Then Aid

The city finance committee reported last evening that they were in receipt of applications for several large grants which would have to come out of this year's general tax fund.

The grants asked for were: $10,000 for board of trade publicity, $5,000 for the agricultural society, $22,585 for the schools, and anticipated $10,000 for the city hospital.

They recommended that the school estimates and $5,000 for the fair be paid in full; that the hospital grant be considered in a committee of the whole council; that the board of trade canvass the steamship companies, the townsite company, the banking interests and others for cash subscriptions, and when they get the cash in the bank the committee will consider giving aid to the fund.

The committee commented in conclusion that nothing but the schools would take precedence over the financing of the hydro-electric.

The report passed on motion of Messrs. McClymont and Montgomery.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Ladies Had Interesting Meeting in the Presbyterian Church Hall Yesterday

The Presbyterian Missionary Society held a very interesting meeting yesterday afternoon in the church hall. Mrs. Jas. M. Carmichael was in the chair. After a musical number by Mrs. Walker, a paper was read by Mrs G. A. Klower, on "Dr. Robertson, the Great Superintendent." This is a personality who figures so largely in Ralph Connor's books, as one of the greatest missionary statesmen of modern times. Mrs. Klower vividly traced his life, from its humble beginning in Scotland, the emigration of the family to Canada, his first pastorate in Norwich, Ontario; then the founder of Knox church in Winnipeg; then his appointment as Home Mission Superintendent of the Presbyterian church for western Canada. Then his untiring travels through the length and breadth of the Canadian west, were portrayed; for 16 years he never spent a Christmas season in his own family circle; his whole time was at the service of his church.

Refreshments were served and the following were elected as the officers for 1914:

President—Mrs. G. A. Glower.
Vice-President — Mrs. J. A. Kirkpatrick.
Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. McLean.
Programme Committee — Mrs Woodland and Mrs. Jacob Kirkpatrick.

CLAIMS DRIFTING LOGS MENACE TO SHIPPING

H. S. Clements Proposes Bill to Provide for Picking Up Logs Lost From Booms

(Special to The Daily News.)

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—H. S. Clements of Comox-Atlin has introduced a bill to amend the navigation and water protection act. He said on the coast of British Columbia in particular boom logs often broke loose and no provision was made for having the same picked up, and there were a menace to navigation. The bill is designed to remedy this.

A break in the line cut off part of the light service last evening for about an hour.

For several years the people have bee ndemanding new legislation and a policy of development for British Columbia. The provincial government made a start last year. A coal commission, a labor commission and an agricultural commission were sent out. They took a year. This year they will report and now the announcement is made that some new legislation will be proposed next year. Three years and the government proposes to make a start! British Columbia had a rich government; it still has a strong one, numerically, but no one would think of calling it a live wire.

MRS. THOMAS HAS NO CLAIM AGAINST CITY

Solicitor Reports on Compensation Claim for Accidental Death in Nov. 1912

In November 1912 W. Thomas, a workman in the employ of the city, jumped aboard the fire automobile to get a ride to another part of the city. In turning the curve at Hays Cove Circle the auto went over the trestle and Thomas was killed.

The widow now asks for compensation from the city through Messrs. Carss & Bennett.

The claim was submitted to the city solicitor to report on. The report was turned in to the council meeting last evening.

The city solicitor contends that the applicant has no case. The jury who investigated the death gave a verdict that the accident could not be charged to any one and that there was no negligence on the part of the city. Under the Workmen's Compensation Act application should have been made within six months, and under the Municipal Clauses Act it should be made within twelve months.

Thomas had been voluntarily taking a ride at the time. The Ocean Accident Company, who carried accident insurance for the city to cover such cases, claims that neither the city nor the company have any responsibility in the matter.

The solicitor's report was adopted.

POLICE MARKED BILLS FOUND ON TESSIER

Liquor Selling Case in Police Court This Morning—Adjourned Till Tomorrow

A five dollar bank bill, the number of which had been taken by the police, was the chief evidence against George Tessier and his wife, charged with selling liquor without a licence.

They appeared in police court thi smorning.

Tessier and his wife have only been here a short time. They have rooms over the Lando clothing store.

Tony Mike gave evidence that he and Mick Popovitch went up to their rooms and bought a round of gin, paying for it with the five dollar bill they got from the police. Tessire and his wife were both in the room and Mrs. Tessier took the money.

Popovitch corroborated the evidence and said he paid the money. They drank gin. A bottle of gin was produced in court.

David Scheinman, who works in the store undearneath, says he frequently sees people going and coming from these rooms. They go up half drunk and come down all drunk. He also saw liquor going up.

In cross-examination he said he was not after the people because they were boosting for a rival store. He was very anxious to get these people out of the city for the good of Prince Rupert.

Constables Shiel and Carrol gave the story of the raid. Constable Shiel said Tessier remarked, "I guess it is all up with us." There was a dispute as to whether this would be accepted as evidence.

The police brought a quantity of liquor they found and a lot of empty bottles. They found $16 on Tessier in his sox, including the marked five dollar bill.

Tessier in defence said he was in the kitchen and did not know whether these men got a drink or not. He did not give them any or get any money. He had his drink in the kitchen. He was not in the front room. The numerous people coming up and down he explained as being visitors to a minister who lived in the front rooms. The empty bottles were from several evenings which Mr. Crossman and the auctioneer had had in his rooms after the sales they had been conducting.

The defence asked for an adjournment to get more witnesses.

LAURIER'S CUSTOM WILL BE FOLLOWED

Conservative Government Will Have Joint Committee on the Redistribution Bill

(Special to the Daily News)

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—In bringing down the redistribution bill the government will follow the custom followed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. A committee of the house to consist of seven members will be named, four from the government and three from the opposition, to fix the boundaries of the constituencies. The government will appoint one from the west, one from Ontario and one from Quebec, one one from the Maritime Province, while the opposition third man will probably represent Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. The Hon. A. Meighen or R. B. Bennett will likely represent the west.

Vote of Censure Defeated

Capetown, Feb. 3.—A bill indemnifying the government for the deportation of the strikers was given the first reading in the assembly. A labor amendment equivalent to a vote of censure was defeated.

M'FARLANE PERJURY CASE DISMISSED BY JUDGE YOUNG

EVIDENCE PRACTICALLY A REPETITION OF THE EVIDENCE GIVEN IN SLANDER CASE—JUDGE THOUGHT MUCH FEELING SHOWN AND WITNESSES WERE EXCITED

Judge Young found L. E. McFarlane not guilty of perjury at the conclusion of the case this morning.

The evidence given throughout the case which occupied the court all day yesterday and this morning was a repetition of the evidence of the slander case, the effort being made to show that McFarlane had made false statements to influence the minds of the jury.

Judge Young in summing up the case this morning said he regretted the charge had not been taken up earlier when the facts were fresh in the minds of the witnesses. It was a strong point in McFarlane's favor that all the matters pertaining to the alleged perjury were discussed between several witnesses. There is no written evidence. It was all evidence speaking from one's recollection and impression. Temperaments differ, and where such is the case it is very difficult to establish perjury on mere conversation He would be very loath to convict without evidence to lead to an absolute conclusion. It was very easy to be mistaken.

The judge here recited an incident in Rev. McLeod's own evidence which, had it not been corrected, might have been hard to explain later.

McFarlane had been present and heard the evidence of all the witnesses and when he deliberately denied their statements he must have expressed his recollection and understanding. It was not reasonable to suppose that a man in his sane senses would make those contradictions of he did not believe them.

The evidence throughout was unsatisfactory. The witnesses were more or less excited and there was a great deal of feeling. It was impossible to conclude that McFarlane has committed perjury under the criminal code.

QUADRA TOOK DAUGHTER TO REV. HOGAN'S FUNERAL

BISHOP DU VERNET TENDERS THANKS TO OFFICIALS WHO ASSISTED IN GETTING MISS HOGAN TO MASSETT ON THE PATROL BOAT

On behalf of Mrs. and Miss Hogan, as well as the Diocese of Caledonia, I wish to thank most sincerely the many friends who have shown their deep sympathy.

The flying of flags at half-mast by the government and civic authorities, as well as by private citizens, was a fitting tribute to the memory of one of the best known and most highly respected pioneers of this coast.

Every effort was made to secure a ship of sufficient size and safety to convey across the stormy waters of Hecate Straits the large party of friends who wished to attend the funeral.

Captain Newcombe of the Malaspina was most willing to go as often he had in days past enjoyed the warm hospitality of the rectory at Port Simpson, but permission had to be obtained from Ottawa first, and through a break in the wire a reply to our messages was not received in time.

Last evening we secured through the marine department permission for the Quadra, which left this morning, to call at Massett on the way to Langara Island, to take Miss Hogan home, but as the Quadra was not returning, and there will be no other steamer for Massett for ten days, it was impossible for others to attend the funeral.

Rev. Heber Green, our clergyman at the head of Massett Inlet, will represent me at the funeral and will give the people of Massett my message on behalf of this diocese in which Rev. Wm. Hogan labored most faithfully for nearly twenty-one years. While we have not heard details, we who know him so well can imagine him saying: "Bury me among the Haidas, the Norsemen of the Pacific, within sound of the roaring breakers of the North Beach."

I wish to especially thank Mr. Smith and Captain Wicks of the Atlin Fisheries, Captain Saunders and Captain Robertson of the marine department; Mr. Merryfield, secretary of the Conservative Association, who endorsed my appeal to Ottawa; Mr. McIntosh, postmaster of Prince Rupert, and Mr. Martin, postmaster of Massett.

F. H. DU VERNET,
Bishop of Caledonia.

MAY PUT SKULL AND BONES ON DEMON RUM

Anti-saloon League Will Introduce Measure to Label Beverages More Than 2 per Cent

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 2.—All beverages containing more than 2 per cent alcohol will be labeled with skull and crossbones and other poison warnings, if a bill to be introduced in the legislature at the beshest of the Anti-saloon League becomes a law. The plan is to have the skull and crossbones printed in red ink and under them a warning to this effect:

"This preparation contains alcohol, which is a habit-forming, irritant, narcotic poison."

Furthermore, the bill sets forth just what size the type and skull and bones shall be.

The penalty for violation of the act is a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $50 or from five to fifty days in jail, or both.

William H. Anderson, superintendent of the league, refused to say who would introduce the bill. He said, however, that it is not a joke.

Break in Waterworks

For some days the waterworks department has been trying to locate a big break in the main. At first it was thought the break was in the flexible joints under Shawatlans passage, but by shutting off valves and putting on meters it was found that the joints were tight. After making tests for two days the leak was located yesterday afternoon in a blown out end on Beach Place. The waste was finding its way to sea without appearing on the surface. Repairs are now being made. While repairs were being made the pump at Morse Creek was brought into service yesterday afternoon.
