FROM FAR AND NEAR

The Victoria Colonist contains a very fine photograph of Captain George Black and the members of his Yukon contingent for overseas service.

General Baron Von Bissing, the German governor of Brussels, is suffering from an attack of pneumonia. The Kaiser has sent a message of sympathy. There is no report of like messages from the wives and families of the deported Belgians.

It is not generally known that the Earl of Hardwicke, one of the most distinguished of England's peers, worked as a miner in Alaska and Australia and practically left the pick and shovel to wear a coronet.

Sir Douglas Haig, who is in charge of the British offensive on the Somme front, is known to his men as "Lucky Haig." Most of Haig's luck is the result of sheer hard work and good tactics.

An Italian baby girl, born on the Atlantic recently, received no fewer than 888 presents from her admiring fellow passengers.

German soldiers in the trenches are now wearing shields to protect their faces against projectiles. The visored helmet is of steel, fastened by two belts of leather crossing behind the head, one going round the neck, the other over the temples. It is pierced by two small holes at the height of the eyes and its lower edge is rolled over to the right so as to be out of the way when the soldier is using his rifle.

Sandwichmen carrying posters appealing for peace are daily parading the streets of Vienna, the capital of Austria. Peace discussions in the Austrian newspapers are reaching daring lengths.

Professor Adam Shortt, who is in Victoria assisting the Brewster cabinet in arranging for a civil Service commission, delivered a highly instructive and interesting lecture on "Modern Democracy" in the Provincial Library last Friday.
