FILM OF LOCAL CIVIC CENTRE TO BE PRODUCED — BOARD OFFICIAL HERE

Charles W. Marshall, regional supervisor of the National Film Board, has been in Prince Rupert since Thursday night to review non-theatrical film activity in Prince Rupert. He made arrangements for the extension of the work in Prince Rupert and also for the filming of a picture featuring the local Civic Centre and its activities.

R. G. Moore and Joseph Goscoe have been operating a free community projection service for the past year on equipment provided by the National Film Board. Blocks of documentary films have also been provided free at regular periods.

Thirty centres in British Columbia have established community film councils to provide free projection equipment and to assist local organizations with films that relate directly to their own activities. Regardless of what the interest of a local group may be, whether it be a church or service club, women's organization, commercial activity or trade union, there are films available that apply directly to them, that will help to broaden their scope and achieve more effective results in less time and with greater interest, said Mr. Marshall. All of these councils have membership in the B.C. Co-operative Film Exchange to help provide them with a steady supply of fim.

Film Councils, he said, are not just another organization in a community but are a co-ordinating body to draw together people of like interests.

Mr. Marshall has also been securing data on the establishment and operation of the Civic Centre. The fame of Prince Rupert's Civic Centre is becoming widespread and the National Film Board is investigating the possibility of making a film of it. The project is unique in Canada and would be an excellent subject for a film, he said. It would undoubtedly stimulate other communities to follow suit.

Among the four films produced in B.C. by the National Film Board this year, is the film "Rural Editor," shooting of which has just been completed at Vernon and at the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association at Victoria. This film will show the valuable contribution a progressive newspaper can make to community development, he said.

In Canada, nearly a milion people a month see National Film Board productions outside of the theatres and these Canadians films are distributed extensively in 36 foreign countries bringing valuable information about Canada and Canadians.

Everyone has a Stake in the Fishing Industry

Not only the fishermen and plant employees in the industry, not only people who eat and enjoy the prime quality fish from British Columbia waters, but practically everybody benefits when our great fishing industry thrives . . . the farmer sells more products, the factory worker's job is more secure and the city merchant finds business flowing more steadily throughout the year.

The millions of dollars paid out every year to fishing industry workers find their way eventually into the pockets of people in all walks of life, maintaining the continuous flow of money and goods that spells prosperity for all.
