BASEBALL BOXING WHIST — OF THE DAY — HERE AND EVERYWHERE — FOOTBALL BILLIARDS HUNTING

Sport Chat

British papers account for the lack of general interest taken in inter-collegiate sport as compared with the United States in the fact that there are not so many paid officials and trainers. In Oxford nobody has a well paid football job to lose so nobody cares if the stands are not packed. Though there are nearly 100 intercollegiate games and three or four varsity games weekly, no one at Oxford has a rugby job except a number of elderly men who push rollers and take tickets. Paid coaches are unknown. There is one paid coach at cricket at Oxford and unpaid graduate coaches appear for the last few days of training for the varsity boat race. There is no common fund for professional coaching and any students who receive such service have to pay for it individually. Gate receipts at the college games are not high because the most of those attending college are engaged in some games themselves. There are no expensive staffs to maintain so finances are no trouble. These arrangements so different from the system of the great American universities are successful in Great Britain Whether they could be employed so satisfactorily in America at the present time is open to question.

The name of Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish Olympic sprinter, who will race in Toronto and possibly in several other Canadian cities this winter, is well-known throughout the world of athletics but probably few know how the "Flying Finn" was discovered as a runner. Under the laws of Finland every young man between the ages of 16 and 2 must serve two years in the army. When Nurmi joined the colors he was assigned to a regiment of infantry and took so readily to military training that he quickly passed the recruit stage and was made a non-commissioned officer. He soon gained a reputation as a good man on the march and when an inter regimental hike was scheduled he was one of the men chosen to represent his unit. The distance was to be 20 kilometers, approximately 12 miles, and the only condition was that each contestant must carry full field equipment. Although Nurmi had never appeared in open competition before, his companions set their chief hopes upon him, but they were unprepared for the performance he was to give.

As soon as the field was sent away, Nurmi broke into a run and and without slackening his pace covered the distance in the astonishing time of 1 hour, 47 minutes, only ten minutes slower than the world's track record and that with the weight of 35 pounds on his back. When the crowd saw him start out at such a fast pace, it was not expected he would last but he finished without showing any signs of fatigue and was twenty minutes ahead of the second man. Among the spectators was one of the leading trainers of Finland who remarked after the race: "If I could get that man under my wing I would make a world's champion of him." The first part of the trainer's wish soon was fulfilled and the rest is now a matter of athletic history.

PLANS FOR BRITISH AIRSHIP SERVICE BEING ADVANCED

LONDON Dec. 23. — Further details of the proposed airship service to India and Australia show that the scheme is being advanced with as little delay as possible. The director of civil aviation has gone to India to attend a conference which will decide where the shed and mooring mast will be erected. The establishment of services on sections of the route between England and India and feeder aeroplane lines to the main service to India will be considered. Egypt is spoken of as the intermediate station on the route where a mooring mast, but no shed, will be built.

Plans are in hand for the construction of the giant airship—to be known as R101—which will undertake the journey, and it is hoped that the first flight may be made early in 1927. This new giant of the air will be over 700 feet long, 140 feet high and 130 feet in diameter. Its framework will be of stainless steel and, on the run to Egypt, it will have an available "lift" of 20 tons for goods and passengers. Instead of petrol engines heavy oil engines will be used, each capable of developing 650 horse power and a maximum speed of 75 miles per hour.
